COST OF OPERATING TWO SMALL, MODERN OFFICE BUILDINGS.

The next table gives a financial report on two small office buildings. They have no local power plants, except that in No. 2 there is a heating equipment. All the electric elevator and light power is purchased from the street supply. They contain more than twelve stories, and under fifteen. Both have electric elevators. Building No. 1 has more people per unit area than Building No. 2, and consequently higher elevator and water costs. A medium supply of electric light is sufficient. Building No. 1 has hot and cold water all the year, and Building No. 2 has hot water in the winter only. The buildings are kept up to a good state of repair. They have wooden floors, fireproof construction, and the tenants are insurance brokers, lawyers and general business men. No superintendent's living quarters are provided.

HIGH GRADE, SEMI-FIREPROOF LOFT BUILDINGS.

Take the case of two high grade semi-fireproof loft buildings. They represent a good grade of building, and have separate freight and passenger elevator service at different entrances. Building No. 1 has both elevators electric, and Building No. 2 has passenger elevators of the electric type and freight elevators of the steam engine type. They are ten stories high, have wooden floors and large open lofts. Both buildings are in their proper business zone. No. 1 is much more expensive to operate than No. 2, because the character of the tenancy needs more attention, due to smaller size of lofts. Building No. 1 has a local low-pressure heating plant, and Building No. 2 is heated by exhaust steam from freight elevator engines and high-pressure throttled steam. The tenants are clothing manufacturers, and there are salesrooms for general merchandise.

MEDIUM SIZED, NON-FIREPROOF LOFT BUILDINGS.

I will next give the record of two 6-sty non-fireproof loft buildings. They have separate freight and passenger elevators at separate entrances and are situated on corners of streets. Building No. 2 is situated in a better neighborhood for loft demand than is No. 1. Both sets of elevators are of the electric type, and the buildings are kept in good condition. The tenants are clothing manufacturers. All the power used by the tenants is purchased by themselves from the street service. Each building has a local low-pressure steam-heating plant in each.

OLD-LAW ELEVATOR APARTMENT HOUSES.

Take for comparison two old-style non-fireproof, high class apartment houses, each having seven stories. They are well-built brick buildings on corners. They have large well-lighted rooms with high ceilings, and are finished in birch, cherry and mahogany wood trim. The hall service is of the best grade, and there is white help throughout. The elevators in Building No. 1 are hydraulic and in No. 2 electric. (Converted from steam.) Building No. 1 has a high-pressure boiler steam in winter and electricity in summer. It furnishes power, heat, exhaust and high-pressure steam. Building No. 2 is equipped with low-pressure boiler. Both buildings are kept in the highest state of repair and the service is first-class throughout. The management and help cater to the tenants. Every reasonable wish is satisfied, and the tenants remain a long time. They are a very reliable, substantial class. The servants' rooms are all grouped together on the top floor.

MODERN SEMI-FIREPROOF, MEDIUM GRADE APARTMENTS.

Another class of houses I will refer to are modern semi-fireproof medium grade apartments, seven to eight stories. They have electric elevators, two baths per apartment. They have colored hall and elevator boys, and night and day service. Each building is in charge of a janitor living in the house. They are heated by low-pressure steam, and have marble and gilt entrance halls. The class of construction is such as is used for speculative purposes. Tenants are somewhat shiftless and showy, and live up to their income. They are compelled to move when business is bad. Building No. 2 is situated on the corner of a street, with an entrance on the side street, and stores on the avenue The store rents bring up rent average per room.

GOOD GRADE NON-FIREPROOF FLATS.

Next we shall consider two 5-sty non-fireproof flats, of a good grade of brick construction, with baths and toilets, and cold water, but no elevator service. They have stores on the ground floors which bring up the rent average per room. There is janitor service for halls, and the buildings are kept in a good state of repair. The flats rent well to a good class of mechanics and tradesmen.

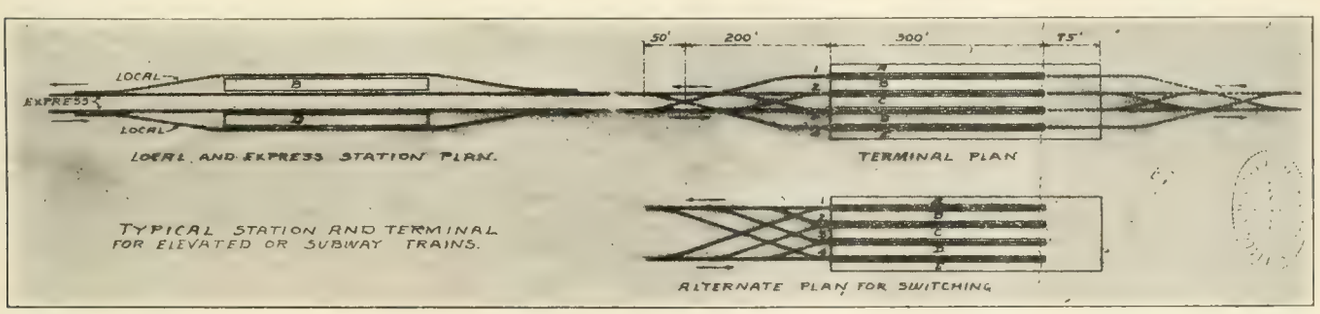
FAULTY PLANNING OF TERMINALS AND STATIONS.

Their Full Capacity Not Utilized, Though City is Hard Pressed for Transit Facilities—Express and Local Trains Could be Operated on the Same Track.

Is the City of New York getting full value from its subways, elevated roads and bridges by the present method of using them? Mr. Nils Poulson, of Brooklyn, president of the Hecla Iron Works and an expert in transportation problems, makes here a startling answer. He explains how the trains could be used much more efficiently, and calls on the Mayor to break up a certain combination.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:



FOR a number of years I have been much before the public, advocating plans for transit relief, but as I have, so to speak, come to the end of my rope, a few words on the subject might not be amiss.

During ex-Mayor Van Wyck's term a public call was made for suggestions as to how to remedy the conditions at the Manhattan end of the Brooklyn Bridge, and, as I have had much experience in transit problems, I took the matter up and gave it a thorough study. At first it seemed an almost hopeless task, but as soon as I found that the disagreeable conditions existing at the bridge were not caused so much by the great crowd as by the faulty planning, I made plans showing how the difficulties could be remedied, and those plans were thoroughly examined by the Manufacturers' Association and recommended by them to the city authorities for their consideration and adoption.

At that time Mr. Gustav Lindenthal was Bridge Commissioner, and, when the plans were submitted to him, he at once declared them to be dangerous, impossible and unworthy of consideration. It must be remembered, however, that Commissioner Lindenthal had his own plan to advocate and, as the plan I suggested interfered with his schemes, nothing came of it, notwithstanding the fact that ex-Mayor Low, before he took his office, promised, that if elected, the difficulties would be remedied. His Bridge Commissioner prevented him from fulfilling his promise.

Mayor McClellan, when he was nominated for office, promised that if elected, he would remedy the difficulties. His Bridge Commissioner, like Mr. Lindenthal, pronounced the plan I proposed to be dangerous (on account of head-on collision) where the trains come and go as fast as they do on the Brooklyn Bridge; and he also said the plan would not accommodate as many trains as required. If that were true, the plan should not, of course, be considered; but it is far from true, for the fact is that with the plan proposed the danger of head-on collision is entirely eliminated, as the incoming and the outgoing trains would never meet, and the number of trains that can be accommodated is limited only by the capacity of the main track.

These are the facts in the case, but the real objection to the plan is that it admits of through traffic between the boroughs, or at least that the trains from the two boroughs can meet at opposite sides of the same platform, so that passengers who wish to continue their journey from one borough to the other, need only step across the platform from one train to the other. This the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company is utterly opposed to, and the Interborough Company is not over-anxious for.

THIS IS THE REASON WHY THE CITY HAS BEEN HELD UP SO MANY YEARS AND THE PUBLIC HAS BEEN SUBJECTED TO SUCH UNREASONABLE HARDSHIP.

I have, for years, spent a great deal of time and money to get the truth of this matter to the surface, and together with others, I have spent a great deal of time and energy to get Mayor McClellan to give this matter his personal attention, especially as he has promised to give relief. About two years ago he personally investigated the matter, and at his request I appeared before him with plans and models, which I explained. His Bridge Commissioner had to admit, before the Board of Estimate, that the plan which they had adopted for permament relief was MY PLAN IN A MODIFIED FORM! The only reason he could give for this modification was that the plan as proposed by me would not accommodate as many trains as required, and this is not true.

PIPED FOR GAS

Every day Gas is becoming a greater factor in up to date methods of working and living.

After that investigation was over the Mayor was kind enough to write me a letter saying that as my plan was to be included in the permanent alteration of the terminal, he wished to thank me in behalf of the city for the assistance I had given them; this was very nice, but rather unsatisfactory. The plan adopted for the permanent improvement is a wicked plan, as it shuts off all chance of through service between the two boroughs, it imposes even more stair-climbing and hardship on the passengers than they have now, and, altogether, it is a piece of deviltry and the real promoter of it knows it.

For the last two years I have asked the Mayor, over and over again, to allow me to meet his Bridge Commissioner and his Chief Engineer in his presence, and, within five minutes' time they will admit that they have been mistaken; for the best way to nail a lie is to bring it right up against the facts. Off and on, for two years, the Mayor has promised to take the matter up, but has always postponed it, and as I have about given up hope that he will do something in the matter, I am making this exposure. The Mayor has lost a good opportunity to do a great service to the city by breaking up one of the most hurtful combinations that the city has ever suffered from.

I hope this exposure will have the effect of bringing about a thorough investigation of this matter, and, in conclusion, I would like to say a few words about

TRANSPORTATION IN GENERAL.

None of our elevated railroads or subways is used to more than one-half its capacity, because of the faulty planning of the stations and terminals. When the stations and terminals are correctly planned, the roads can be used to their full capacity, and express and local service can be operated on the same track, and as the city is so hard pressed for transit facilities, many of the stations can easily be altered, thereby increasing their capacity. IN BROOKLYN IT WOULD BE A COMPARATIVELY SMALL MATTER TO MAKE THESE ALTERATIONS, and the result would be that the present capacity would be doubled, long-distance or express riders would be separated from short-distance or local riders, and the former would arrive at their destination in about half the time they do now. Furthermore, as the city is about to spend many millions of dollars in new roads, the stations and terminals should be so planned that the roads can be used to their full capacity.

It is such a simple problem that when the difference between a correctly-planned station and an incorrectly-planned station is pointed out, anyone with ordinary common sense can see and judge for himself. I have, therefore, prepared a diagram showing the present system and the proposed system.

The black lines on the terminal plan show a terminal as now used and, as a train moves about 300 ft. in 20 seconds, it takes a train 20 seconds to move out of its pocket and an additional 20 seconds to pass the cross-over; a train coming in takes as long as one going out, so two trains can exchange places in 1 min. 20 sec., which is equivalent to 45 trains per hour; but THERE IS A CONSTANT DANGER OF HEAD-ON COLLISION between the incoming and the outgoing trains, and, where the trains come and go as fast as they do at the Brooklyn Bridge, it is quite an element of danger.

To make a perfect terminal, all that it is necessary to do is to put in an additional cross-over, as shown by the dotted lines; then, as train No. 4 enters its pocket train No. 3 starts to leave; but the two trains do not meet, and, as No. 3 goes in, No. 2 goes out, and so on, which is equivalent to 180 trains per hour, or twice as many trains as the main track can accommodate, and that is accomplished WITHOUT ANY DANGER OF A HEAD-ON COLLISION. That cross-over, with the running of the trains in routine (from right to left), is the only difference between an imperfect and a perfect plan. The dotted lines at the other end of the plan show how it can be turned into a union station for the two companies, with two tracks for each company; when the trains stop, those passengers who wish to continue their journey need only cross the platform to another train. But that is what the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company objects to.

In the plan for local and express stations the black lines show an ordinary elevated station as they are all over the city where the trains stop to unload and load, and then go on again, and the capacity is 30 trains per hour. If, however, the dotted lines are added, forming sidings, the trains alternate; that is, one train stops at one side and the next train stops on the opposite side. It doubles the capacity to sixty trains per hour. Again, if the straight tracks are used for express trains only, and the dotted line for local trains, thirty local and sixty express trains can be operated per hour, and the two do not interfere with each other, as each has its own track and no switching is required, as the local will take the siding of its own account, and the express will go straight through. If a local is ahead of an express train, the motorman of the express train will know that the local will disappear at the next station of its own accord.

That, in a few words, is the only difference between the present and the proposed systems, and where stations and terminals are planned as here shown the roads can be used to their full capacity, whatever that might be. Yours truly,

N. POULSON.

The site takes in a large plot fronting 78 ft. on 4th av and 175 ft. in East 18th st. The upper stories of the structure will be divided into offices, while the lower floors will be left open and later partitioned to suit tenants. There will be, in all, seven high-speed electric passenger elevators of generous proportions. The contract for furnishing the structural steel has already been awarded to the Hay Foundry & Iron Works, 114 East 28th st. No other contract has yet been awarded. The estimated cost of the building, not including the cost of the land, is approximated at between $1,200,000 and $1,500,000. Messrs. Maynicke & Franke, 298 5th av, are making the plans. The old Clarendon was erected about the year 1850, and is the only remaining hotel left in the group at this point, being one of the oldest landmarks of the City of New York. The premises are situated directly opposite the old Florence House site, about to be improved with a 12-sty office and loft building by the "Pocono" Building Co., from plans by R. H. Robertson & Son, and is diagonally opposite the site of the old Belvedere House, now being replaced with a 12-sty loft and office building by Klein & Jackson, from plans by William L. The syndicate that will erect the building consists of Frank R. Tate, theatrical manager of St. Louis, Mo., associated with clients of Herbert T. Jennings, of 204 Broadway, this city. Plans have been prepared by George Keister, architect, of 12 West 31st st, for a building with two tiers below the level of the street, covering the entire Broadway frontage and extending back about 90 feet in 43d st. A theatre building will occupy the rear of the plot in 43d st, fronting in that street. The design for the exterior will be classic Renaissance. The business and office structure on Broadway will have three stories of white granite and limestone, and above that will be semi-glazed, tool-faced and white terra cotta. The theatre front will be of the same materials as the Broadway front, with a similar facade, crowned with a classic cornice and balustrade. The main entrance to both theatre and office building will be at the southerly end on Broadway, with a spacious entrance vestibule to both, and a separate lobby for each.

After it is all over, what? Back, back to the grind, but with a greater appreciation of our own city. We're too busy, ordinarily, to admire it, but when we do we do it on a scale that makes the world admire it too! It's the generations of grind, grind, grind that has done it.

The Edison Portland Cement Co., 1133 Broadway, has issued a very pretty program of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, in a shape suitable for the pocket and for handy reference. It is for distribution among its customers and friends. No doubt Mr. Marsh would be pleased to send you one in answer to a postal card.

BUILDING MATERIAL AND EQUIPMENT

Small Sales Feature, Weak Market.

The building material market was weak and nervous during the last five days. Sales were unimportant excepting that brick dealers showed a disposition to cover to avoid delays of incoming cargoes attendant upon the Hudson-Fulton Celebration. Pig iron was active, important inquiries being in hand. There were some sales of large tonnages. Structural shapes and sheets moved slowly. Following the recent advance in price, sales were not as numerous nor in such large quantities as a fortnight ago. Lumber forged ahead with a demand for rough 2-inch material for grand stands for the river and land fete that begins to-day. Stone was dull. Slate moved strong, showing that the recent advance is well sustained. Cement had another uneventful week. Lime and plaster continue in good demand, and sales were somewhat above normal. The most important feature of the week was the announcement that iron importations had been resumed, the specific contract being for 100,000 tons, with indications of more foreign ore being placed. This is coming in for something like $17.50, duty paid. The demand for quick basic is increasing. The attitude of building material men was that of regret that the Hudson-Fulton Celebration had come at this time when business was getting on its feet after a dull summer. The brick people, particularly, were mournful. A public demonstration of the magnitude of that which begins to-day, always upsets business more or less for a week or more, and the situation was further complicated by the proximity of the equinoctial. While the prospects of a busy October are fairly good, the celebration is not likely to help it any.

Brick Dealers Covering.

The fact that at the first of this week there were only ten holdover cargoes of brick at West 52d st, as compared with 19 on Monday, Sept. 13, showed that sales were somewhat better and seemed to indicate that most of the dealers intended to provide for celebration delays.

Thirty-four cargoes came in on Monday of this week. Tuesday there were three, and on Wednesday seven came in. These were being taken up rapidly as the week wore on. This was because a good many contractors informed the dealers that they would continue work as usual next week, and in some instances even to-day. Those jobs that lie in sections of the city where it is not necessary to truck across 8th or 5th avs were loading heavily, as a precaution in case enough men report for duty to warrant continuing work. Jobs in the Bronx and in the lower section of the city and on the extreme east or west side of the city probably will not halt.

PRICES DROP A HALF.

Prices for Hudson River commons dropped early in the week, and yesterday were quoted at $5 to $5.50. Some selects went at $5.75, but such sales were straggling and exceptional. The same might be said for the $5 figures, most of the sales being between a quarter and three-eighths. Raritan Rivers sold for $5.25 to $5.75, with $5.50 ruling. While the Hudson River yards are running under difficulties, with a scarcity of help, the Raritan River yards are not experiencing this trouble, using all its regular Summer complement to meet the remarkable market it has had this Fall. Transactions for Hudson Rivers for the week ending Sept. 18 follow: Holdovers, Sept. 11, 19; arrivals, 73; sales, 82; holdovers, Sept. 20, 10.

INCOMING BRICK SITUATION DUBIOUS.

The agents are more concerned than the dealers regarding the possibility of a hold-up in brick deliveries from the yards to this city next week. Some of the agents are going to try to run, it was hinted; one of the largest firms intimating that it would get brick to this city during the celebration, if it was a possible thing.

Another company announced that it would send a tow up the river, distributing barges to its various yards, and that it expected to bring down a loaded tow.

There is a dearth of barges up river, all the available ones having been sent down loaded within the last week or two. It has been suggested to one or two agents that if the Cornell Towing Company did not run its tugs, that private tugs be engaged for this purpose. The agents' reply to this was that there was too much risk attendant upon sending a tow down by a captain unfamiliar with handling brick tows.

The attitude of the Cornell Towing Co. is: "Don't expect tows; but we'll bring some down if it is a possible thing." There was nothing more definite than that up to the hour of going to press.

DEALERS NOT WORRIED OVER SITUATION.

As a rule the dealers are taking things easy, and do not tremble at the fear of a brick famine. Many of them have been sending out letters to contractors seeking information as to whether work on jobs will be continued. One big company, which makes and deals in Hudson commons, believes that the situation will equalize itself, that consumption will be light, and this company is working toward the solution of the present problem on that hypothesis.

Cement Interests Optimistic.

The situation as regards prices and terms in the cement field remains unchanged. Prices current remain at $1.43 to $1.53, with a thirty-day limit as to shipments. An official of one of the big companies made the statement this week that he believed that October would bring better business than any other month this Summer. The demand is getting better and steadier all the time, he said. Some big sales have been made of late for local jobs, and there is an encouraging suburban business.

Importing Pig Iron Now.

With a demand sufficient to stand continued advances in prices of from a quarter to a half a dollar a ton, conditions have reached such a pass that importations have been resorted to to make a sufficient supply available. A cargo went to New England at $17.50 duty paid. The cargo is consigned from a British market. This is not the only instance, for during the week German scrap steel was engaged and German Bessemer was in demand. Early week contracts aggregated 100,000 tons of a foreign ore for shipment over the remainder of this year and the first part of next. The ocean freight market has advanced, and in consequence there have been some delays.

Eastern Pennsylvania pig iron went up 70 cents this week, the biggest jump of the year, and yet the demand did not diminish. There is a big call for quick basic in the Eastern territory. Because the supply is scarce it has resulted in redoubled efforts in some quarters to get enough heavy steel melting scrap. There are between 10,000 and 15,000 tons of basic iron still available for this year's deliveries at Eastern furnaces, at $18.25 delivered. The buying of foundry iron continues active in all Eastern markets. A manufacturer of plumbers' supplies in New Jersey took 2,000 tons. A large portion of the sales early in the week to New England and New Jersey at $16 to $16.50 were from Buffalo furnaces.

BIG NON-COMPETITIVE CONTRACTS.

Several fabricating contracts were closed in this city this week without calling for competitive bidding. Notable among these were two to the Hay Foundry and Iron Co., of Newark. One was for furnishing the fabricated steel for the Brander, to be erected at the site of the Sinclair Hotel, at 4th av and 24th st, and the Korn Building, on 5th av, which contracts together embody about 9,000 tons. The local dock department has asked for tenders for about 2,000 tons for Pier 53, South Brooklyn. The American Bridge Co. shipped over 40,000 tons during August, and during this month expects to send out 48,000 tons. It expects to send out 55,000 tons in October, and keep up that record for the remainder of the season.

Structural steel held its own well this week, as did sheets. Copper was strong, local consumers placing orders for October, November and December, but a large majority of this was for electrolytic.

Nearly All Lumber Moving Up.

Nearly all grades of lumber are moving up. Within the last month spruce has advanced from ten to fifteen per cent. Hemlock from 50 cents to $1 in randoms, and in some cases $3, according to lengths and sizes. North Carolina pine has moved ahead from five to ten per cent, and poplar, chestnut and oak has led hardwoods in jumps from 10 to 15 per cent. White pine in upper grades is high and scarce. The lower grades have not advanced. Further advances are not unlikely.

General business conditions continue good, and carpenters this and last week have been exceptionally well employed, owing to grand stand construction for the celebration. There does not seem to be any let-up in the Fall activity in the principal lumber yards.

Stone Had Dull Week.

While the week in stone was dull, as regards new contracts of importance, there was considerable activity in the suburbs. Slate moved strong, in nearly all grades, showing that the recent advance is being well sustained. Structural slate fell away, but as the week wore on the demand seemed to pick up somewhat. Marble is somewhat more active. The majority of orders are for interior work, most of the exterior contracts at present being in the suburbs. Speaking of the latter the Rutland Florence Marble Co. has the contract for the Union County Trust Company's new building in Elizabeth, N. J., the home of Congressman Charles N. Fowler, president of the marble company; the Vermont Marble Co. got the contract for the First National Bank at New Brunswick, N. J., and Poletto Bros., of Brooklyn, the interior marble for the same structure, while B. A. & G. N. Williams will supply granite and marble for the new Montclair Trust Company's building, at Montclair, N. J. Save for the New Brunswick job no contracts for interior marble have been let so far. Further details of these operations will be found elsewhere in this issue.

STONE MEN ALL AT SEA.

One of the few joys of being a stone man is found in the courtesies extended to that fraternity every once in a while by the Merritt-Chapman Wrecking Company. The latest evidence of that company's thoughtfulness was the receipt by wholesalers and dealers a few days ago of invitations to be guests of the company on one of its fine ships, during the naval parade to-day. The guests, probably a couple of hundred of them, for the invitation includes the "silent partners" of the stone men, will be entertained from noon until the close of the evening fireworks display.

Demurrage and Receiver's Rights.

A suit at law involving the right of the Erie Railroad Company or any other to levy and force payment of demurrage, pending adjustment of differences as to whether the charge is rightfully and legally made, is in the New Jersey courts and probably will be carried higher as a result of a jury verdict recently handed down in Newark in favor of Bailey & Alling, Clay and Ogden sts, Newark, lumber dealers, members of the New Jersey Lumber Dealers' Association. The application of the ultimate ruling of the court of last resort will be equally applicable to brick, stone, cement and other building material interests who ship or receive goods on any railroad having membership in the New York and New Jersey Car Demurrage Bureau of 143 Liberty st, or, as it was until recently called, "the N. Y. & N. J. Car Service Association."

This bureau is composed of the following named railroads: The Baltimore & Ohio, Central Railroad of N. J., Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Erie, Hoboken Manufacturers' Railroad Co., Lehigh Valley, Lehigh & Hudson River Railroad Co., Lehigh & New England Railroad Co., Morristown & Erie, New York & Greenwood Lake, New York, Susquehanna & Western, New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, New York & Long Branch Railroad, New York, Ontario & Western, New Jersey & New York Railroad, Pennsylvania, Philadelphia & Reading, Rahway Valley Railroad, Staten Island Rapid Transit Co., South Brooklyn R. R., West Shore Railroad and the Wallkill Valley Railroad.

The present contract had its origin several years ago when the New Jersey Lumber Dealers' Association obtained the passage of a bill in the Legislature at Trenton, which extended the time of free use of freight cars from 48 to 72 hours. The railroad interests made a pretense of a fight against the measure.

When it came time to enforce the law, it was found that the measure contained a joker which practically nullified the new legislation. The railroads fell back on the Interstate Commerce Commission by filing its rules which, the railroad claimed, immediately became law permitting the new legislation to become operative only on freight from points within New Jersey, as is the case here.

The present suit originated out of the holding of a car over the prescribed time and the levying upon it demurrage for two days amounting to $2 or $1 a day. The car was consigned to Messrs. Bailey & Alling and contained kiln-dried sash. The day it arrived and the day afterward were rainy. It was therefore impossible to unload. The following day was fair and in two days the car was empty.

When the demurrage bill came in it was protested, the lumber firm holding that the N. Y. & N. J. Car Demurrage Bureau had no right to levy on them when the weather barred unloading.

The Bureau's reply was that it was not responsible for the rain, that it needed its cars. The lumber firm said that it was not able to control weather conditions and that to have moved the cargo would have meant a loss. The Car Demurrage Bureau demanded payment. Bailey & Alling refused to pay.

The contention of the Demurrage Bureau was that the lumber company should have paid the $2 and settled the points at issue later. Then if the claim was allowed by the manager of the Bureau a rebate would be made. Bailey & Alling aver that the Bureau has no right to compel payment until after the protest has been met and decided. The railroad sued.

A jury in the First District Court of Newark last week awarded the defendants a favorable verdict, but owing to the principles involved further court action may be taken.

Western Electric Reflects the Industrial Improvement.

While there has been no great expansive movement in the electric business, this branch of industrial activity has kept well abreast with the gains shown in other industrial lines. The Western Electric Co. has shown considerable and steady growth during the nine months of its fiscal year which have elapsed, and which will go to make the year 1908-9, ending November 30, loom large in comparison with the preceding fiscal year.

Returns for August show that the month ran 60 per cent. ahead of August, 1908; also showing a gain of about 5 per cent. over July. August, 1909, was 10 per cent. ahead of August, 1907, the year in which the Western Electric's sales reached $53,000,000, the second largest total in the history of the corporation. At the rate of the August increase the business for the current year would run in excess of $53,000,000.

The three quarters of the fiscal year which have elapsed indicate gross sales for the year of about $47,000,000. While this figure is far below the $69,000,000 total for 1906, and the $53,000,000 for 1907, it is eminently satisfactory, as compared with last year, representing, as it does, a gain of $14,000,000, or 42 per cent. over the total gross sales in 1907-8 of approximately $33,000,000.

In the United States, outside of the Bell system, there are about sixteen thousand so-called independent telephone companies. Of the "outside" operating companies, 6,000, or 37½ per cent., are customers of the Western Electric Co., although the company has followed the policy of selling to outside companies not longer than two years. The company's business with the Bell companies is reported as showing a satisfactory rate of increase. In discussing the situation for the Wall Street Journal an officer of the Western Electric Co. said:

"Affairs are running normally and in a satisfactory manner. There is no 'boom,' but there has been a decided stimulus to industrial conditions. There is much greater interest and activity on the part of purchasers, and much new work is already under way, or projected. The fact that a boom is not now in full swing is largely due, in my opinion, to two causes; first, to the success the stock market has attained in attracting capital for speculative purposes, and secondly, the damper which recent crop reports have placed upon those who are inclined to be over-optimistic. It is perhaps as well that the country has not progressed too rapidly, since a slower but more certain progress is, in the long run, far more stable and satisfactory."

The year to date has been marked by especially good sales in cable, electric machinery, and general electric light supplies, and in these lines many records of other years have been broken.

Canadian Cement Industry.

In reporting upon the development of the cement industry in Canada, Consul James M. Shepard, of Hamilton, states that from a government bulletin it appears that the use of domestic-made cement has increased from 600,000 barrels in 1903 to 2,600,000 barrels in 1908. Previous to 1904 the imports of Portland cement were larger than the total Canadian production. For 1909 they are estimated at 14 per cent. of the total consumption. Hamilton has some 150 miles of sidewalk and several fine buildings constructed of American cement, which when supplied was of better quality and lower in price than Canadian manufacturers were willing to offer. This year the city's need has been small and American competition less earnest, so that a contract for 12,000 barrels, of 350 pounds each, was awarded to a Canadian company at $1.23½ per barrel.

In 1908, 23 cement plants were in operation in Canada, with a total daily capacity of 27,500 barrels, or an annual output of some 8,250,000 barrels if all were running full time. The price of cement was considerably lower in 1908 than in 1907; sales were greater, but cash returns less. The value of cement sold in 1908 was $3,709,139; average price per barrel, $1.39; wages paid, $1,275,638; number of men employed, 3,029.

Window Glass in Argentina.

In answer to an inquiry, Consul-General R. M. Bartleman, of Buenos Aires, reports that there is but one glass factory in Argentina, which turns out floor and skylight glass, and that there is a favorable opportunity for the introduction into that market of American glass products. The imports of glass in 1908 were as follows: Glass and flat crystal, $1,273,230; floor and skylight glass, $119,139. Most of the imported glass is from England, France, Belgium and Germany. A list of Buenos Aires window-glass importers is on file in the Bureau of Manufacturers.

OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Valuable Information Given Weekly Showing Status of Municipal Improvement Proceedings in all Branches.

Owners of real estate frequently get an unpleasant shock when they have sold a given piece of property, and title is about to pass. The attorney for the buyer, or title company, brings out a memorandum which shows that besides certain charges, such as taxes, water rent (in all probability known to the seller), there are one or more assessments which have been a lien against the property for a long or short time, as the case may be. Naturally the seller is annoyed and states that he was unaware that these liens existed. To overcome this condition the Record and Guide publishes all of these proceedings, under classified heads, and in ample time to give the owner abundant opportunity to make a protest, should he deem it advisable. Much confusion and disappointment can be avoided by weekly glancing at this column. At the end of each proceeding the official number is given, and should the owner desire to secure the full particulars of any given improvement, it will aid him materially. This information will be found to be of great use to the real estate broker. It gives him additional information for his files, and should be of considerable aid to him in consummating sales. As an example, should he learn that a proceeding for the acquiring of title by the city to a street on which he had property for sale, he would have an additional argument to place before his client, which otherwise might have escaped his notice.

PLANS FOR LARGE MORTGAGE COMPANY COMPLETED.

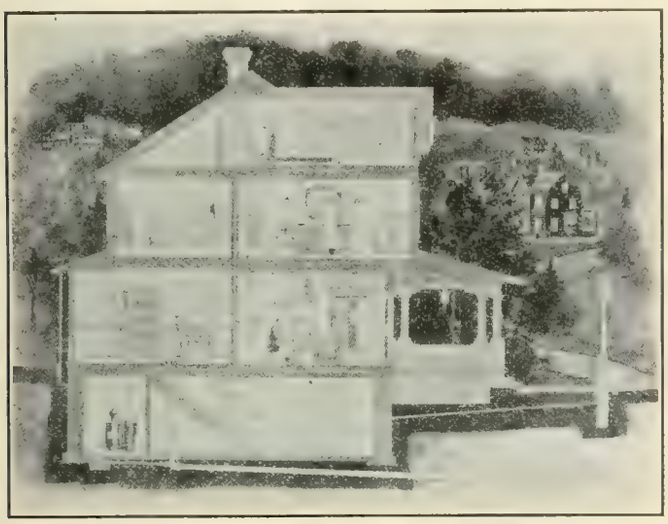
THE special committee of the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange in charge of the preparation of a plan for facilitating the loaning of money for New Jersey real estate operations held a prolonged session during the past week, and practically agreed upon a plan of action. Assurances of financial support were received from responsible sources, so that the committee feels that in recommending the formation of a new corporation with a half million capitalization, they are acting conservatively. The following report concerning the subject of their deliberations was adopted:

To the Board of Governors of the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange: On behalf of the Special Committee entrusted with the consideration of the problem of providing ways and means for better loaning facilities in the interest of New Jersey real estate operations, we beg leave to make the following report, supplementary to our report of September 15th, submitted to the convention held on "Real Estate Men's Day" in the Hudson Terminal Building:

1. Your committee is strongly of the opinion that to provide adequately for the rapidly-growing population of the Counties of Bergen, Essex, Hudson, Passaic and Union, a much larger amount of capital must be procured for mortgage and building loans, than the existing financial institutions of those counties will be able to supply, or will be willing to exert extra effort to obtain.

2. That the prevailing business customs with respect to the granting of mortgage loans in New Jersey are antiquated and illiberal, and that a more generous policy of appraisement than is now generally practiced would be justified in view of the steadily rising real estate values in Northern New Jersey.

3. That unless measures are promptly taken to meet the urgent needs of the real estate business, the opportunities produced by the Hudson Tunnel System for the growth and proseprity of the counties aforementioned, will be materially reduced and wasted.



For the reasons stated, your committee favors the immediate formation of a mortgage investment corporation, as a measure of self-protection prompted by existing conditions. Your committee believes that while such an organization must of necessity be of the nature of a private business concern, yet in view of the obvious need of relieving the present situation, upon the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange rests the duty of aiding in the preliminary steps required towards the consummation of the project herein proposed. Your committee therefore, recommends that it be continued, with power to effect the incorporation of a mortgage company with a capitalization of at least $500,000, and that a special meeting of the Board of Governors be called for the purpose of acting on this report.

PIPING FOR GAS.

There are many sections of the outlying districts through which the service pipes of the gas companies have not yet been laid. Owners of property in these parts frequently complain of the inconvenience caused by the absence of this necessary improvement, and advance the argument that it is difficult to market their holdings under such conditions. There is a way out of the dilemma, however, for modern lighting service with the convenience of gas for cooking is now possible for buildings of all kinds, new and old, no matter where located, through the medium of calcium carbide, from which acetylene gas is manufactured.

Comparatively few persons are acquainted with calcium carbide, a product which has been known since 1862, and which has been manufactured on a commercial scale since 1892. To-day millions of dollars are invested in producing this material, and it is one of the important and rapidly growing industries of our country. Calcium carbide is made by melting together in an electric furnace, under intense heat, ordinary lime and coke. After cooling, the carbide is crushed in heavy machines to the proper size for use in a generator. The pieces of crushed carbide are usually about the size of a pea. The substance is hard and dry, resembling crushed granite. Until brought into contact with water it is absolutely actionless. It cannot explode or be exploded, and due to the fact that it will not burn is the safest lighting material known.

The cost of calcium carbide generally, freight included, in most sections of the United States, is $4 per 100 pounds. One hundred pounds of carbide makes from 400 to 500 cubic feet of gas, equal in illuminating value to 4,000 and 5,000 cubic feet of the best city gas. By means of acetylene gas light, with all its advantages in increased safety to property and life, its advantages in healthfulness (and in a place lighted by kerosene), its great value as a labor saver, does not entail increased lighting cost, for acetylene light by a reliable generator costs less than would equal illumination from oil.

The value of an improved property, although remotely situated, can always be enhanced by the introduction of gas. Moreover, where gas is used for illuminating there is less likelihood of loss by fire. In respect to the latter insurance statistics prove lighting by lamps the less safe of any form of lighting save candles. The same statistics also show that gas lighting is much safer than a system of wires charged with electricity. Gas is at all times under control of the user's intelligence.

The piping for acetylene is the same as for ordinary gas. The only instructions necessary to a competent gas fitter are: "Pipe building on regular city gas schedule." The only difference between piping for city gas and for acetylene is that acetylene burners are used in place of the ordinary gas tips in use with city gas service. Then you must purchase a generator of some approved type. Such a plant as the one referred to may be placed in the cellar or at any convenient point. The user of an acetylene outfit has only three things to do when refilling his producer with carbide and water: (1) Open the flushout gate and let the used water run out; (2) fill with fresh water; (3) fill the carbide holder with carbide. The rest is accomplished automatically.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters permit the use of generators installed in the cellar of a building. This generally is the easiest and handiest location. To conform to insurance rules, the generator should be placed 15 feet from the furnace or heater and 10 feet distance from the nearest gas jet. Should the generator be installed where water may freeze, it should be protected. Frequently the generator can be placed in a corner of a shed or barn, or in a small gas house or in a dug out.

It may truly be said that in difference between the price of public lighting service, which in several ways is less desirable and service from a good acetylene generator, the latter pays for itself. And after it pays for itself, the dividends it earns because of producing light at actual cost are clear gain to the owner.

The generator now on the market has four principal parts, viz.: Generator tank and carbide holder, gasometer tank, with its upper or movable portion, known as gasometer bell, and the filter. Both tanks are nearly full of water. The gas is made in the generator tank and passes into the gasometer through the large pipe. The pressure is low—but 1¾ ounces to the square inch. When gas is taken out by use of same at the jets, the upper or movable part of the gasometer (known as the gasometer bell) descends. This descent of the gasometer bell pulls down the connecting lever, and at the other end of the lever the valve or stopper of the feed mechanism inside the carbide holder is lifted up allowing carbide to drop into the water beneath. This makes gas, which, as described, passes into the generator tank and causes the upper or movable portion to rise, shutting off the feeding of carbide. The operation of the generator is based upon the unfailing and natural law of gravitation or gravity. The valve or stopper, above mentioned, operates also upon this positive law. The positive operation and reliability of the generator because of gravity accomplishes: First, an absolutely simple generator; second, the making of gas in exact proportion to the use of light, i. e., the gas is made as used—no more, no less; third, due to the reliability of action, and the simplicity—all of which result from the employment of the gravity principle—each and every part of the generator is heavy and strong. The whole is so easily looked after that the service can be kept up by any intelligent boy, or by any man who can shovel coal into a furnace.

CITY MAY CLAIM WATERFRONT LAND.

According to the old records of the city it is shown that made lands on the river front were once municipal property. Assistant Corporation Counsel George L. Sterling confirmed recently the report that New York City, through its Law Department, is examining the titles of real estate on the East and North River water fronts, to find out whether much of this land, now worth millions of dollars, does not belong to the city. The old Dutch and English records in this country and in England and Holland are being searched, as are also all the deeds referring to the land that are still in existence in this country.

The land in Manhattan, the ownership of which is being investigated, is the made land between the southern end of Pearl st and the East River, and the land, also made, between Greenwich st and the North River. All this land may be proved to be the rightful property of those in whose names it is recorded now, and no assertion is made now that any of it is the property of the city. But under the old charters all of the land in question belonged to the city, and the present investigation is to learn whether any of it may still belong to the city.

Some of the most prominent realty owners in the city are represented among the property holders in the sections affected by the investigation, among them being the Rhinelanders, the Elys, the Gerrys, the Goelets, the De Forests, the Gallatins, the Chesebroughs, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Sailors' Snug Harbor Corporation, Trinity Corporation, the Lorillards, the Spencers, the Roosevelts, the Arbuckles, and the Schermerhorns.

The investigation of the deeds and the original grants has been quietly in progress for several years, and Mr. Sterling said that thousands of dollars had been expended. Some of the old maps and deeds that figure in the search were found in Europe and others in various parts of this country, particularly in Washington. Some valuable material was also found in an old book store in this city.

PROPERTY OWNERS' MEETINGS.

The first regular monthly meeting of the North Side Board of Trade for the season 1909-10 was held in the board rooms, Carr Building, 138th st and 3d av, Wednesday evening, Sept. 22, at 8 o'clock. President John F. Steeves spoke on the coming Hudson-Fulton celebration. He appealed to the residents of the Bronx to decorate their residences and places of business, and to participate in the military and civic parade to be held on Wednesday, Sept. 29. He also requested the members to attend the Bronx dinner to be held at Ebling's Casino on Tuesday evening, Sept. 28, at which Governor Hughes, Mayor McClellan, Hon. Herman Ridder and other prominent speakers will make addresses. Congressman Joseph A. Goulden on behalf of Congress presented a silver life saving medal to Mr. James Owens, a hero of the Slocum disaster.

The question of sending a delegation of five members to the State Waterway Convention to be held at Albany, Oct. 28, was approved, and the following were appointed delegates: Hon. James L. Wells, Hon. Joseph A. Goulden, Chas. E. Reid, John F. Steeves and George Amory. A resolution was adopted asking the Board of Education to allow school children to be dismissed at 10.30 a. m., so that they can attend the different parades. The board went on record as favoring the granting of an additional $3,000,000 for increasing the salary of women school teachers. The second resolution to co-operate with the Taxpayers' Alliance of Highbridge to abate the smoke nuisance was carried. The board also approved the extension of the 3d av elevated road up to and through White Plains av and Gun Hill road to the city line.

The regular monthly meeting of Greenwich Village Public Service Committe was held at 276 West 11th st. on Wednesday evening, Sept. 22, at 8 p. m. President Edwin Zimmerman presided. A committee of seven was delegated to call upon Mayor McClellan and lay before him the extension of 7th av, from West 11th st to Varick st. This matter was brought before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in July, and was laid over until October, when it will be passed upon. President Zimmerman says that Borough President Ahern and Comptroller Metz are both in favor of this improvement. A committee was appointed to call upon the Public Service Commission and request them to compel the traction companies to remove railway tracks that are not in use. A committee will also call upon the Dock Commissioner and demand that this section of the city be given at least one public dock. There is not at the present time an open dock between Canal and 30th st.

The annual election of the Harlem Property Owners' Association was held on Thursday evening, Sept. 23, at 147 East 125th st. The following officers were elected: President, Dr. Abraham Korn; First Vice-President, Mortimer C. Foster; Second Vice-President, Dr. Bernard Gordon; Treasurer, C. Schildwachter; Secretary, S. L. Kahn. This is the seventh term that Dr. Korn has been elected as president of this organization. A committee was appointed to attend the budget hearing before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and to oppose the increasing of the salaries of any city official or employee.

BUILDING MANAGERS AND OWNERS.

Notes from the Detroit Convention—New Yorkers Say It Was Worth the While.

MY, but the office building tenants in Chicago are a lot of unappreciative people. Other large cities also have a great many of the same class of people and they are so unappreciative that they open their office water faucets and allow several gallons of ice water to run to waste before they take their drink.

And that's why the managers of large office buildings in Chicago have shut off the ice water system.

This developed from a talk given before the Building Managers' convention in the Cadillac Hotel at Detroit last week, by J. E. Randall, of Chicago, discussing "Systematic Office Management."

"Do the Detroit tenants appreciate it? You bet they do," said Albert Kern, of Detroit, discussing Randall's talk. "You see here we have to cater to our tenants. There, they have a waiting list. See the difference? Moreover, the building managers in Chicago charge the ice companies for delivering ice in the building for the individual tenants. Some of them are also interested in water supply companies. From those sources they have a substantial revenue of several thousand dollars a year. Do you see now why the tenants in those cities don't 'appreciate' ice water service."

Another interesting point brought up at the convention was how to take care of sick or disabled janitors, engineers, janitresses or other building employees.

One speaker declared it was a shame that men should be employed for years, men who give faithful service, and should then be turned out without warning. Speakers also deprecated the fact that when sickness overtakes some employees, their families suffer because their wages stop, even though the employee becomes ill in the service. Others pointed out that courts are maintained at an expense of thousands each year to try damage suits, and not a cent of those thousands goes to the injured and disabled.

All sorts of regrets were expressed for the poor building employee and then the convention passed on to the next subject.

FOR THE AMALGAMATION OF BUILDING MANAGERS.

A strong argument for the amalgamation of the building managers with the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges was made by W. W. Hannan, president of the real estate organization.

Mr. Hannan pointed out that building managers could join the larger body and still maintain their identity under the name of building managers' section of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges. He argued that this should be done because many of its objects are similar to those of the real estate body, and because there are men in both organizations who could thus attend both conventions each year, whereas they are forced to cut out one now.

Albert Kern, a Detroit manager, delivered a paper on "Efficiency and Cost of Janitor Service." He presented statistics from 17 cities, showing a preference for janitresses over janitors, while in Chicago the preference is just the opposite. A committee was appointed to consider the matter.

Mr. C. T. Coley, with Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company, New York City, delivered an address on "The Relation of Operating Expenses to Gross and Net Income of Office, Loft and Apartment Buildings."

On Tuesday afternoon the members of the convention were taken on an excursion on the steamer Sappho. Luncheon was served on the boat and dinner at the casino on Belle Isle in the evening.

The New York men in attendance at the convention were Clarence T. Coley, supervising engineer for Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company; Mr. Fedler, manager for the Produce Exchange Building; William T. Ropes, of Horace S. Ely's office; Mr. C. M. Ripley, of the Engineering Supervision Company; Joseph F. Hines, of the Cruickshank Company; Reginald P. Bolton, C. E., and Mr. Knight of the Metropolitan Life Building. Mr. Thomas of the Prudential Life Building at Newark was also present. They say that the meeting was a very interesting and profitable one.

Next meeting will be at Washington next September. It is understood that the Detroit building managers contributed $3,000 toward the expenses of the convention. The object of the conferences might be stated as an attempt to standardize building management, so as to find the best way of doing the things required of building owners.

There is no organization of building managers in New York City, but there are some in other cities. One of its benefits is that it operates to protect owners against tenants who do not make good when the rent is due.

LAW DEPARTMENT

INSURANCE COMPANY CAN COLLECT.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Will you kindly let me know through your Law Department Column if a title insurance company can collect their charges in full in a case where deed cannot be received for property in question? The case is this: The buyer gave contract to insurance company to search and guarantee policy. At time appointed seller cannot give deed. Title company is not asked to guarantee policy, but claim full charges.

A SUBSCRIBER.

Answer.—The title company was employed by you and is entitled to its fee for searching the title. This you are in turn able to collect from the seller, if the title offered you was not up to the requirements of the contract of sale.

In everyday occurrence, the title company will await your recovering this charge, together with your binding-money, or, as often arranged, take care of the whole matter for you.—Ed.

MORTGAGE NOT PAID.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

In 1875 my husband bought two lots in Westchester County. He paid the taxes until 1883. In making an exchange of property he gave a mortgage on the lots. What I would like to know is if I pay the back taxes will the mortgage still be on file against it, as it is 26 years since the mortgage was given, or will the paying of taxes cancel this mortgage?

Hoping you will answer this in the Law Column of your paper, I remain, A WIDOW.

Answer.—Payment of taxes would not be a payment by which the presumed payment of the mortgage from lapse of time would be changed.—Ed.

RESTRICTIONS.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

A owns a city block of land. He conveys to B twenty lots, restricting them to a single-family dwelling on each lot. Seven such dwellings are erected. B sells the remaining thirteen lots to C with same restrictions. Query: Should C convey one lot to D, could C have the restrictions removed from the balance of the lots, allowing a subsequent buyer to erect apartment houses thereon, provided he obtained consent from both A and B?

Answer.—No; unless the restrictions were in the nature of conditions rather than covenants.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Will you kindly advise me what rules govern the repair of line fences in yards. Are the adjoining owners compelled to share the cost, or is it a matter to be arranged between them?

Answer.—Various statutes have been passed providing for municipal ordinances on the subject, but we know of no actual operative legal control exercised or to which resort may be had. The subject is most always regulated as you hint, by agreement between the parties, or by a fence built on his own side of the line by any property owner desiring it.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Dear Sir—Kindly inform me in next Saturday's Record and Guide, "whether an owner can make a tenant move who has a ten (10) year lease, and who has not had same recorded and had occupied the premises for over three (3) years?"

(Signed) F.

P. S.—Also, whether a lease for over three years must be recorded.

Answer.—1. Not if he has performed his part of the lease. 2. Only to save some purchaser of the land buying the land free from notice of the existence of the lease, and thus being able to ignore its existence if he so desire.—Ed.

THE WEEK.

THE proposal of the Interborough Company, submitted this week to the Public Service Commission, for a subway under Madison av, leaving the Broadway-Lexington av route for a new system, brings us much nearer to additional transit facilities and cannot help but benefit real estate in the whole section north of 42d st and east of the Park.

Sales in this whole district have been few and far between in the past two years, and now that the Central's improvement is nearing completion and there is a reasonable certainty of East Side transit improvement, a resumption of activity may be confidentially looked forward to.

The leasing of the Fitzgerald property at the southeast corner of Broadway and 43d st for twenty-one years for improvement with a 12-sty theatre and office building removes one of the few remaining large plots in the Times square district from the market.

Announcement was made this week of an apartment house to be built at St. Nicholas av and 190th st, opposite to the subway station, now in course of construction. Considering the fact that the new houses between 164th and 181st sts are not well rented, it might be wise for builders to go slowly in the northern end of the Washington Heights section.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THIS week's auction offerings consisted of twenty-four sales by orders of the court and two voluntary offerings, one of these being acreage plots at Oakdale, L. I., offered by Bryan L. Kennelly, and disposed of as follows:

Along Oakland boulevard prices averaged from $60 to $200, the last named being paid by William J. Howard for a plot near the railroad station.

In Oakland road nine plots were sold, a corner one bringing $135 and inside prices from $60 to $100. The northeast and northwest corners of Waterford and Oakland roads brought $254 and $126, respectively. The buyers included E. Wolff, Julius Goldberg, W. M. Burrows, James S. Hubbard, I. Driscoll, J. F. Navotony, F. Terle, John H. Allen and Henry Kelly.

For the coming week there are two voluntary offerings by Joseph P. Day, one a 4-sty tenement at 541 West 29th st and the other a plot, 75x155, with frame building, at the northwest corner of Eastern boulevard and Middleton road.

SUBWAY LINE FOR MADISON AVENUE.

The Interborough Company on Wednesday submitted to the Public Service Commission a proposition for a line under Madison av. The commission thus retains control of Lexington av for a new system, and is assured of the extension of the present lines.

Theodore P. Shonts, in a letter to the commission, made known the decision of the Interborough Company to relinquish Lexington av and build a line in Madison av. Mr. Shonts wrote:

"While a renewed consideration of the subject persuades us that the construction of the subways up Lexington and 3d avs best combines the advantages of the public and the Interborough Company, our further calculations now show us that the advantage to the company is not so great that it cannot be surrendered in view of our fixed purpose to meet, as far as due regard to the interests of the Interborough Company will permit us, the suggestions of your board.

"We, therefore, modify the proposition submitted to your board in our letter of June 30, by eliminating therefrom the construction of subways upon Lexington and 3d avs and by substituting, in lieu thereof, a four-track subway upon Madison av, with spurs to develop new territory in the Bronx, such as you suggest in your letter of August 27 may be desirable, pursuing the following route:

"Starting from the present subway at or about 38th st, running as a four-track subway under public streets and private property to Madison av at 45th st; thence up Madison av to the Harlem River at about 138th st; across the Harlem River to 146th st; dividing, with two tracks to a connection with the West Farms Division of the subway at or about 149th st and Girard av, and two tracks from about 146th st up River av to a connection with the proposed Macomb's Dam extension of the 6th av elevated railway modified to meet this connection at about 161st st and River av, the said proposed elevated extension to continue the line up River and Jerome avs to 194th st as a three-track elevated road.

"This route will give the desired local and express service to the section of Manhattan between Lexington and 5th avs; it will increase the service to the Lenox av section; it will tap the very areas of the Bronx that have already occurred to your board as desirable sections to reach; and, so far as we are able to perceive, meets with your own views of a logical, practicable and systematic development of the rapid transit facilities.

"We invite your attention, moreover, to an additional circumstance of considerable importance, so far as the undeveloped sections of the Bronx are concerned. Should our proposition to extend the 6th av line of the Manhattan Elevated Railway, from 149th st, across Macomb's Dam Bridge, via River and Jerome avs, to 194th st, as herein proposed, be accepted, and should our proposal to third-track the 2d and 3d avs elevated lines be approved and covered by appropriate franchises, it would lie within our power to give rapid transit service in connection with the 6th av elevated line from the Jerome Park Reservoir section to lower Manhattan, and in connection with the existing subway and the 2d and 3d av elevated lines, from Pelham Bay Park to lower Manhattan, pending the actual opening of the new Madison av subway, and within a considerably shorter time than would be possible under any other project."

CORPORATION TAX LAW ASSAILED.

In an address before the International Tax Conference, held at Louisville, Ky., on Wednesday, Mr. Lawson Purdy attacked the federal corporation tax as unworkable. He called the levy a disguised income tax.

At a conference between several of the leading delegates to the International Tax Conference it was decided to offer a resolution calling for the repeal of the corporation tax law and express the disapproval of the conference with President Taft's views of this law.

Mr. Purdy, in his address, in part said:

"While the tax based on corporation income is called an 'excise tax' in the apparent hope that the phrase will disguise it when it is presented to the Supreme Court, it is in reality a partial income tax, Congress has endeavored to follow the latest decisions of the Supreme Court, and in so doing has enacted a law which has all the defects of the most poorly devised income tax and other defects peculiar to itself.

"The form of this tax on corporation income renders necessary a most inquisitorial procedure. The States have the power to tax corporations without prying into their business secrets, and some of them do this now with marked success, so far as revenue is concerned.

"It has been suggested that the power to tax incomes should be reserved to the States. This suggestion must be made in derision or in profound ignorance. Several States have tried to impose income taxes and failed utterly, as they must fail. The only income tax law which has a chance of success must be patterned after the British income tax, which taxes all incomes and uses corporations as tax collectors. This requires nation-wide jurisdiction.

"From whatever point of view the federal corporation tax is studied, it is unworkable and unjust; it encroaches upon the powers of the States; it is not productive of revenue; it is needlessly inquisitorial; the publicity required is rash and dangerous in the extreme. Its name is a subterfuge, it is an income tax and not an excise tax. It has the vices of income taxes without the merits of an income tax law scientifically framed.

"The States cannot frame income tax laws that are workable because they lack jurisdiction of the sources of income and incomes must be reached at source to be taxed effectively. If incomes are to be taxed the United States must tax them. In any event, the United States should have the power."

Professor E. R. A. Seligman, of Columbia University, New York, and James W. Noel, of Indianapolis, also spoke.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1909.

9th.—T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

Sept. 17, 18, 20, 21, 22 and 23.

Foreign Trade Opportunities.

(Inquiries in which addresses are omitted are on file at Bureau of Manufacturers. In applying for addresses refer to file number.)

No. 3831. Cold-storage Plant.—An American consul in Latin America reports that the Government of the country in which he is located has entered into a contract with a local business man for the establishment of a plant for the preparation of meats in cold storage and their exportation. Work must be commenced on the plant before April 1, 1910, and after its completion the concessionaries may establish like plants at other parts of the Republic. The Government concedes to the parties free importation of all material necessary for the construction of warehouses, abattoirs, etc., cloth, oiled paper, etc., for wrapping meats, hoops and staves for barrels, chemicals for producing cold air, and all other supplies required.

No. 3833. Electric Supplies.—A Canadian street railway company, which furnishes electric light for a certain city, has at present 228 direct-current motors with an average of 5 h. p. each, according to the report of an American consul in that country. He also states that this company is contemplating the installation within a few months of alternating currents and abandoning direct-current transmission.

Wall Radiators.

Wall radiation is superseding pipe coils for heating churches, schools, stores, factories and all buildings requiring extended heating surfaces and where floor space is valuable. The principle as followed in the Fowler & Wolfe system is applicable to either one or two-pipe steam or hot-water system.

It can be assembled in units to provide for distribution of heat at special locations in a manner which is claimed to be more economical, more convenient and effective than coils. It is equally desirable installed upon side walls, between windows, about columns or hung from ceiling. Its durability, as against wrought iron or steel pipes, is said to be about as 5 is to 1. It is more rigid, withstands pressure better, avoids water hammer and telephoning of noise.

A new catalogue from the Fowler & Wolfe Mfg. Co., 668-672 Bourse Building, Philadelphia, wall radiator specialists, contains much information for architects and builders. It is freely illustrated with both photographs and diagrams.

Window Glass Prices Higher.

Twenty window glass manufacturers of the United States in conference at Columbus, O., have decided on a 10 per cent. increase in price, to take effect immediately.

This action was made necessary, said Myron L. Case, chairman, by an eight per cent increase in wages and increase in the prices of materials. Discounts on single strength glass were changed from 90 and 40 per cent. to 90 and 30 per cent. and on double strength from 90 and 46 per cent. to 90 and 35. Manufacturers present represented glass industries in Ohio, Kansas, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

THE recent purchase of the Night and Day Bank Building by the American Real Estate Company is referred to by one of the daily newspapers as evidence of the fact that the "investment idea is growing among realty corporations." Perhaps it is, but that is a very large inference from a very small number of corroborative transactions. The plain fact is that the investment idea is not growing among real estate corporations to such an extent as might have been anticipated. In 1901, when corporations controlling considerable amounts of capital first began to be organized for the purpose of operating in New York real estate, it looked as if huge real estate investment corporations were bound to be the result of the innovation. These companies were indeed formed to OPERATE in real estate rather than to INVEST therein; but the scale and purpose of their operations were such that they seemed bound to become investment companies. In many cases they would buy property only to resell it before or after improvement, but their speculative transactions involved so much capital that they could not expect as a rule to sell the buildings they erected to any one investor. On the other hand, they might be able to sell them to a number of investors by the indirect method of the sale of stock or debenture bonds, and that was apparently the one method, whereby they could turn over the money sunk in big building enterprises. But while this process was carried on to a certain extent it has not been carried at all as far as was anticipated. The largest of these corporations, for instance, the U. S. Realty Company, exercised for a number of years a dominant influence in the development of centrally situated Manhattan real estate. It purchased a large number of the best business sites in the Borough, a few of which it sold, but the great majority of which it improved and retained as an investment. In this way it became the owner of the Trinity Building and its half-brother, the Flat-iron Building, the Plaza Hotel, the Merchants' Realty Building on the southwest corner of Fourth avenue and 23d street, the Hippodrome and several other hotels and office buildings. But there its activity stopped. For four or five years it has almost ceased to be a purchaser of Manhattan real estate, and since 1907 it has not embarked in any large projects of improvement. The large number of new buildings in the course of erection in the middle district of Manhattan are all being put up either by individual investors or operators, or by corporations representing either individual owners or the tenants of the building. In the same way the City Investing Company has since 1907 figured in the real estate market chiefly as a seller. For the time being at least these two corporations are contributing nothing to the improvement of Manhattan or to the activity of the real estate market.

THE INACTIVITY of the two large corporations named is not likely to continue indefinitely. The time will come when they will again contribute to the real estate development of Manhattan. It remains true, however, that during the past few years the share of large corporations in the ownership of Manhattan real estate has relatively diminished; and the question may well be asked whether they will ever become as dominant an influence as was at one time expected. One would hardly dare to answer this question with any confidence; but it certainly looks as if the conditions which appeared to justify the existence and activity of large investment companies have become more rather than less important. The ordinary building operation in the central part of Manhattan demands the expenditure every year of a larger rather than smaller amount of money. It is the big office and loft building which is most economically constructed and operated and most quickly rented. The number of individual investors who can afford to put up the large sums required to purchase apartment houses, loft and office buildings of the largest size are and must remain comparatively few. The ownership of these structures must in some way be divided or shared. The corporation that owns only one building is frequently a convenience, but it is rather a convenience to men who both own and occupy a large building than it is to an investor. The investor may want to be able to realize on this investment; and this is difficult when he shares the ownership of only one building. On the other hand if the company owns many buildings and possesses a large enough stock to justify its purchase and sale on an exchange, a machinery has been created for the conversion of the value represented by these large buildings into a realizable security. It is extremely probable, consequently that in spite of the fact that the real estate investment company has not been growing as fast as might have been anticipated, it has more of a future than it has of a past. Since its inception in 1901 business conditions have favored speculation rather than investment. Except for short periods following on a business reaction, capital has commanded a high price, and conservative investments have not had a fair chance. It remains to be seen what a period of comparatively cheap money will do. There is a good chance that such a period would improve the relative standing of real estate as an investment both in the form of individual and in the form of divided ownership. At any rate the policy which the American Real Estate Company is pursuing of buying improved rather than unimproved property is an interesting variation upon the policy pursued by other large real estate corporations; and its future development will be watched with lively interest.

IN THE LAST ISSUE of the Record & Guide Mr. Charles Griffith Moses, made an interesting argument in favor of the contention that hereafter the six-story elevator apartment house, 100x100 in size, would constitute the unit of Manhattan building. His reasoning is based upon, the fact that the five or six story "walk-up" flat is not profitable on lots costing over $12,000; and he sees the day approaching when there will practically be no lots left in Manhattan which can be sold as cheap as that. Owing to the increase in the value of land, the elevator apartment-house has come to prevail on Washington Heights. There are some thousands of lots in the Dyckman tract that can still be bought cheap enough for improvement with non-elevator buildings; but Mr. Moses predicts that as soon as the building movement in that neighborhood obtains a fair start, prices will rise, just as they did on Washington Heights, until elevator buildings of considerable size become necessary. There can be no doubt that Mr. Moses is substantially right in making this prediction. The fact that five and six story tenements are not just at present being erected at all in Manhattan does not, of course, warrant the conclusion that they will never be erected again. The cessation of this class of building is due to temporary rather than permanent causes; but when it revives, as it will during the coming spring, the revival will be of brief duration. Land is becoming too expensive in Manhattan for non-elevator building; and families who wish to live in that class of building will be obliged in increasing numbers to journey to the Bronx or Long Island. Within a few years six-story elevator apartments will constitute the cheapest and most popular type of Manhattan building; but it must be remembered that even their day will be comparatively short. Some time within the next five or ten years, practically all the vacant sites in Manhattan available for this class of improvement will have been occupied; and in that case residential improvement in Manhattan will be narrowed down to the fire-proof apartment house, erected on the site of former private dwellings. When that time does come, some modification of the tenement house and building laws will be necessary, in order to permit the erection of eight or nine story tenements on 60 foot streets, tenements which will offer more resistance to fire than do the existing six story buildings without being thoroughly fire-proofed. The cheapening, that is, of fire-proof construction will be essential to the interest of the residents and the real estate of Manhattan.

THE announcement that the property at the southeast cor- of Broadway and 43d street is to be improved with a theatre or office-building constitutes an interesting innovation in types of building in Manhattan. In Chicago, beginning with the auditorium, it has long been customary to build office buildings over theatres, while in London the space above many places of amusement has been occupied by restaurants. In New York, however, a theatre has been a theatre, an office-building an office-building, and a restaurant usually the ground floor of a hotel. A few Broadway theatres have found accommodation for one or two offices between the auditorium and the street frontage, but usually the owners of theatres have been denied even such an increase of the yield of their buildings. The trouble has been that in Manhattan the theatre and office building sections, instead of being united, as in Chicago, have been separated. The sites on which theatres were erected were not usually advantageous for office-buildings. At the present time, however, real estate on Times Square has become so valuable that the occupation of a large plot by a theatre alone would not pay. At the same time it constitutes the best location for a theatre in the whole Borough, and real estate owners are naturally tempted to try a combination of theatre and office building. There is no reason why such a combination should not be more profitable than any other use to which the land could be put. The property which Mr. Felix Isman has recently leased to the north of the Square will probably be improved by a similar building; and if these experiments are successful, the combination of theatre and office building may become a recognized type of improvement for certain locations on Broadway between 34th and 50th streets.

ALL that Fulton did, as a plain matter of fact, was to start the first steamboat line. All the essentials of the steamboat were in existence, and the idea of a regular line was not new, either. What was lacking until his time was capital with business nerve, and these Livingston and Fulton together, supplied. If they hadn't, somebody else would soon have done so. Romance has worked overtime for Fulton's fame, and in that he has an advantage over the heroes of our own time, when brainy, ingenious men do things as truly great, but which pass unnoticed. Maybe some future generation will suddenly come to a realization that some one of them was a fine achievement, and then fame will scatter her laurels upon an almost forgotten grave. Years ago the writer had the privilege of being one of the party which was taken for a sail on the first boat ever run by electricity. This was on the Hudson River. James Bigler was the Fulton of the occasion. His demonstration with electricity was in no respect different as a historical fact from Robert Fulton's demonstration with steam, except that Fulton continued his trips regularly, and Bigler did not. Some day when the Hudson River Day Line and the Central Hudson flyers have been electrically driven long enough to give occasion for a celebration, the name of James Bigler will be dug up and a replica of his electric boat will be escorted up the river by submarines and aeroplanes. Hundreds of things as grand as Fulton's 'scoop"—and that's all it was—evoke in our age merely a momentary notice—because they are so numerous. It is the extremely wonderful thing only that wins the world-wide cheer that Wilber and Orville Wright, Dr. Cook and Commander Peary are hearing. So many books are written, so many pictures painted, so many bridges built, and giant towers reared, and useful inventions patented, that many really extraordinary things are considered almost commonplace.

BUSINESS was more or less interfered with, or quite upset, by the celebrations of the week and the several half-holidays, especially in the outdoor building trades. It was difficult to keep at work amid so many distractions. After a busy summer, which had seen a large measure of revival of normal business conditions, the holidays were welcome and were greatly enjoyed. We have rarely seen people enjoy themselves so thoroughly and sanely. Certainly the crowds in the streets were unprecedented for size. Fundamentals in the building trades are reported to be on a good basis. Some of the anticipations for the present Fall season will not be realized; there has not yet been a full resumption in all lines, but the total quantity of work is still large, and in all the trades employment continues to be termed "fair" to "good." After making due allowances for the celebrations, there remains indications of a slowing-down in apartment house construction, which is not entirely offset by the new work on commercial buildings. The later class of work is, however, steadily increasing and will continue far into or quite through the winter. "The real boom in building construction will come next Spring," is a general opinion; but it must be said that the times the builders are having now are far from being unsatisfactory, though for speculative work the sales market has not been as favorable as could be desired, and there is a disposition to wait for the market to catch up.

THE HUDSON MONUMENT at Spuyten Duyvil will cost $100,000. A bronze statue of the explorer will surmount a granite shaft 100 ft. high. There will be a beautiful approach, with steps, of granite, and stone pedestals for eight electric lamps, with standards set around the base of the shaft. The corner stone was laid on Tuesday, Sept. 28. Gov. Hughes delivered the principal address. With the assistance of four white-robed little girls, the Misses Hope Johnson, Dorothy Radley, Helena Cox and Jane McKelvey, who held the trowels and mallets for him, Gov. Hughes then spread the mortar under the big granite rock, which all this time had been suspended over the brick foundation by a pulley. The pulley was released and the corner stone was let down into place. The sculptors are Karl Bitter and Henry M. Schrady and the architect Walter Cook. The site is at the northerly approach of the projected Hudson Memorial Bridge, 200 ft. above tidewater. It will be one of the tangible souvenirs of the present celebration. The replicas of the "Half Moon" and "Clermont" will be the other lasting souvenirs.

FULTON AND THE ENGINEERS.—In the rooms of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at 29 West 39th st there is an exhibition peculiarly appropriate to the present time. It illustrates the connection between Fulton and the mechanical engineers of our time. The exhibit includes the "Clermont"; the "Phoenix," built by John Stevens, and one of John Fitch's early types. Original drawings by Fulton, an oil portrait of Fulton painted by himself, Fulton's dining table, oil portraits and bronze bust of John Ericsson, models of the Monitor, all owned by the Society, and Ericsson's personal exhibit at the Centennial Exposition, are also exhibited. Through the courtesy of the Hamburg-American line, a beautiful model of the "Deutschland" shows the highest type of the development of steam navigation.

A SOLUTION FOR THE SUBWAY PROBLEM.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

So many suggestions have been made regarding subways that I presume the following plan has been considered and rejected, but I have not seen a mention of it:

Continue the present subway down 7th av and Hudson st, for express trains only below 42d st, sending the local trains to the Grand Central and down 4th av. Continue the present subway up Madison or Lexington av from 42d st, for express and local service on the East Side.

Then the West Side would have express service in an almost direct line down the West Side, the East Side would have express and local service in a direct line down the East Side, and both would connect for local service, thus connecting the East and West sides better than they are at present.

Sept. 25, 1909. WILLIAM FLOYD.

NEW BUILDING STARTED ON THE GRAND CONCOURSE.

The new club house that has been planned for a site at the Concourse and Burnside av, by the Bronx Order of Elks, will have a facade of Italian Renaissance, with limestone below and light colored brick and stone trimmings above the first story. As planned by Architect James Riely Gordon, 402 5th av, the building will be very attractive, and something on the style of a similar club house recently completed in Queens Borough. It will have three stories and a sub-story, exclusive of a roof-garden and pergola.

In the sub-story will be bowling alleys, a rathskeller and the necessary equipment, with billiard and poolrooms, lounging room, library and secretary's office, on the first story. On the second floor will be a large lodge room, with gallery, occupying a height of two stories. At the rear will be a foyer and on either side a restaurant or cafe. The seating capacity will be about 670, including foyer and gallery. William H. Fissell & Co., 1133 Broadway, have the general contract, and the construction work has just been started. The estimated cost is about $50,000.

CONSTRUCTION

CANONS OF TASTE IN STREET ARCHITECTURE.

The Rights of Property and the Beauty and Effectiveness of Buildings, as Viewed by Hon. James Bryce—American, French and British Thoroughfares Compared.

THE Right Hon. James Bryce, British Ambassador at Washington, who is not only a distinguished publicist and man of letters, but has also a very pretty taste in the arts, was invited to address a convention of the National Academy of Art at Washington, and a portion of his speech dealt in a very interesting way with certain points of architectural interest. Mr. Bryce said:

I was asked, some days ago, to tell you what has been done in Great Britain in the way of bringing general canons of architectural taste to bear upon public buildings, and especially what statutes, or local regulations, existed preventing the unfortunate results which arise from erecting side by side buildings in different styles and of different heights, each marring the effect of the other. There was very little time to ascertain what our laws in Great Britain were on the subject.

However, I wrote at once to a friend there, and I received, by cable, the answer which I expected, namely, that we have not got those statutes and regulations. This is very melancholy, because I should have been in a very strong position if I had been able to come before you and tell you what we had done in England, holding it up as a model for you! It would have been a beautiful thing for the old country, which claims to have done something in originating institutions which have been developed further in this country, if it had been able to pose as a leader and standard-bearer in the cultivation of art in its public aspects and in the bringing of legal weight to bear upon the artistic growth of cities. Unfortunately, that is not so.

I will tell you, Mr. President, as far as my recollection goes, what are the only ways in which we do incidentally prevent the disfiguring of cities by improper buildings, but meantime, let me tell you that those who love art and taste in England, and in particular the organizations of architects themselves, have for a long time past been endeavoring to obtain some public regulation of streets and buildings. So far they have failed.

They have failed for an obvious reason, which no doubt would be operative here also. They have supposed that regulations by public authority would infringe what are called the sacred rights of property. Now, property is a very good thing in its way, but property sometimes carries its demands a little too far, and that, because the right of ownership of a piece of land is vested in an individual he should therefore have the right to put up buildings, which may not only destroy the general beauty of a street or square, but may also destroy the beauty and effectiveness of buildings directly adjoining them which some man of better taste and higher public spirit has erected, with a view to the public enjoyment, as well as his own, would seem to be going a little too far.

You may recall the words of Madame Roland at the time of the French Revolution, who said, "O, Liberty, what crimes are committed in thy name!" And I feel sometimes inclined, when I see the extravagant demands that are made in the name of property, to say, "O property, what atrocities are justified in thy name!"

It seems unlikely that for some time to come we can, at any rate by public authority, secure that which we may call the censorship or supervision of the erection, style, design and size of buildings to be erected in streets and squares, which I understand the members of this association desire. But one must not despair of the future. After all, there is some progress marked by this mere fact that many more people desire the thing now than desired it formerly.

There is, furthermore, this consolation, which we may apply to our minds, when we regret the absence of legal regulation—that if legal regulation had existed in former times we might have had things done which we should now regret. We might have had the whole lines of streets, of large squares and circles built in styles which we should now think uninteresting and monotonous, merely because they represent the particular dominant taste and tendency of a particular time.

Note, for instance, what was done by Baron Haussmann when he built so large a part of the great thoroughfares of Paris in the day of Louis Napoleon. Most of us would now feel that those long lines of boulevards are monotonous and, indeed, many people would call them dull and soulless. Certainly there is far too much of that sort of thing in Paris.

That was the style of the time. Haussmann was able to carry out the ideas which he, or somebody else for him, endeavored to apply, and the consequence was that the picturesqueness and charm of old Paris vanished. A great many of its quaint, winding streets, which carried one back to the days of the Renaissance, and which we would gladly have preserved, then made way for the tame and conventionally ornate, but essentially wearisome, style which Haussmann applied to those great Parisian thoroughfares.

We cannot be too sure that something of the same kind would not happen again; and, therefore, perhaps, we must not too much lament the unchartered freedom, the unqualified and absolute license which is now enjoyed, because it, at any rate, does preserve a certain measure of variety. And when taste grows better it may be that every one putting up a building in a street will think a little more than he has hitherto thought of its harmony with the adjoining buildings.

As you know, there is one difference between the condition in London and the condition here. In your American cities, as a rule, the man owns his own land and puts his own house upon it; or even if the builder builds the house upon speculation and afterwards sells it, it is generally not done in large stretches of houses.

In London, on the other hand, the existence of large estates, each owned by a great landlord, has led to the erection of long stretches of houses, sometimes perhaps half a quarter of a mile or even a quarter of a mile, all upon some uniform plan. The architect of the estate controls the whole affair, and what is erected follows the designs he sugests or approves.

You have not that here, and therefore you see the results in the fact that in London many of the streets belonging to these large estates are exceedingly monotonous, and such streets as Gower st or Harley st, for instance, are as dull as can be. Here, and in Washington, in particular, on the other hand, you have the very opposite extreme. Everybody does what is right in his own eyes. He builds his own house in his own way, and you very often have the most incongruous styles or sizes close together. At the same time you have a certain amount of variety, which, on the whole, is better than dreary uniformity.

A BUILDER'S OPINION.

Why High Grade Apartments Pay in Manhattan—Considered Preferable to Maintaining a Private House.

FEW houses of the 5-sty apartment type are being erected on Manhattan Island at the present time, and the real estate world is waiting to see if operations in this line are only temporarily suspended, or have permanently ceased, particularly in the sections yet unimproved.

Mr. Bernard Crystal, of the firm of B. Crystal & Son, builders, who are prominent in the splendid development of Broadway, Washington Heights, is of the opinion that for future speculative building, for residential purposes on Manhattan Island, the 6-sty elevator apartment houses will be the minimum standard of construction:

"I am of the opinion that the future speculative market will be, principally, if not almost entirely, the 6-sty to the 12-sty elevator apartment dwellings, equipped with the most advanced accommodations," said Mr. Crystal. "In part the explanation of this is to be found in the rapid and steady increase of land values arising from the growth of population, and in part because of the tremendous improvement in our transit facilities.

"The present subway and tunnel arteries, connecting not only different counties of the city, but also the neighboring State of New Jersey, have diverted and is diverting the stream of migration of the middle class away from Manhattan Island.

"Long Island and New Jersey will most likely be the future homes of the great masses, leaving the island of Manhattan for business and high-class residential purposes.

"The inconvenience incident to the maintaing of a private dwelling house have created great demands for apartments of the very highest grade, for which rent to almost any amount can be obtained."

—The building operations that have been going on in Jersey City during the Summer have been little less than remarkable, and the fact that the total thus far is over a million and a half dollars above last year shows plainly that all records may be beaten if the increase keeps on.

ARTISTIC BRICKWORK.

Fiske & Company, of New York and Boston, have done a fine thing for the brick trade in publishing a book on brickwork, for a publication possessing the new interest and quality of this one exerts an influence which cannot be entirely localized. The general title is "Tapestry Brickwork." The printing is in colors on coated paper, tinted; and the volume contains 40 quarto pages.

While it must be considered as a business publication, it is yet a work having a high literary quality, and is printed in a beautiful and costly style. It contains, besides numerous engravings of photographs taken expressly for the book, six pages of pictures illuminated in colors, in order to show the precise colors of the brick in the houses and buildings that are the subject of the illustrations. The headings to the chapters are on plates expressly engraved.

The contents comprises chapters entitled "Artistic Brickwork, Its Achievements and Possibilities," by Claude Bragdon, F. A. I. A.; "The Cost and Advantages of Using Brick"; "Bonds and Mortar Joints," and "Tapestry Brick in Buildings of Monumental Character." The book is copyrighted by J. Parker B. Fiske, S. B., who was the editor.

In his efforts for more beautiful brickwork Mr. Fiske has performed not only a public service but has also seen his reward in the very general interest which the architects and owners of the country is now taking in the subject. A fine improvement in city architecture is resulting. For many years his firm has labored to improve the art of clay-working and to make bricks, tiles, terra cotta and other clay products that would be more beautiful. One of their products is "Tapestry Brick," the colors of which are soft and rich. Starting with Indian red they run through coppers, olive greens, and purple browns to deep blue. With another clay they produce a light brownish gray, running into cream and coffee shades, deep russets and even tobacco brown, giving in mass the effect of old ivory. From still another clay they burn a series of rich old buffs, ranging from a soft delicate chamois color to a deep golden brown.

Besides its rare colors, "Tapestry Brick" has a peculiar rough texture. Its reflecting power is slight. The play of sunlight upon it does not develop the high lights which mar the conventional brick wall. It is to ordinary brick what Arts and Crafts furniture is to the gilt and velvet of the last century; what burlap and bookbinder's linen are to a shiny wall paper.

As good brickwork largely depends on good workmanship, the bonds and mortar joints must correspond with the nature and quality of the bricks themselves. By simple changes from the conventional running bond with narrow joints the whole appearance of a wall can be transformed. For example, the mere rearrangement of the stretchers which the Dutch employ throws continuous diagonal lines across the face of the wall, producing a diaper pattern, the strength of which is dependent upon the width and color of the mortar joint and, without adding a penny to the cost, gives just that touch of art which is so necessary to the relief of the blank wall spaces.

Mr. Fiske says it is refreshing to notice that the brick-designers of our country are availing themselves of this simple and delightful means of decorating wall surfaces which otherwise would lack beauty and interest, and that they are accomplishing these results by a legitimate use of the constructive material itself without the injection of any material the only function of which is decorative.

THE BRICKWORK IN THE NEW LOTOS CLUB.

The Lotos Club Building at 110 West 57th st, is an interesting study in brickwork and of ornamental masonry generally.

The ground story is of limestone, treated with arched openings in a rusticated field, and surrounded with a stone balcony. Heavy groups of metal lanterns flank the entrance and an outer vestibule of ornamental cast iron leads to the main doorway. The facade above the ground floor is built up of very rough Tapestry brick. These brick are 12½ ins. long by 2⅝ ins. thick and 4 ins. deep. The surface is rough and varies in color from a creamish white to a light brown, the general color effect being a light tan. The texture of the brick, being rough, absorbs the light and gives a soft and beautiful tone.

The mortar is made of a coarse gravel, Portland cement and a small quantity of lime, giving a warm gray tone. The joints are five-eighths of an inch wide. The headers forming the diagonal lines throughout the main facade measure four inches by two and five-eighths inches, and are of cream white, standing out in a brownish gray field with considerable distinctness without making too great a contrast.

At the intersection of the white lines thus formed is a Greek cross, made by four square bricks and a yellow tile in the centre, each square brick of the brownish background having a white lotos flower cast upon it in low relief. The brick pattern-work panels forming a frieze underneath the sixth floor balcony have a color combination of brownish gray, straw colored cream and white brick. The spandrels of the arched panels are enriched with colored terra cotta and gray and white brick mosaics.

Above the sixth-floor balcony, which is of wrought iron, the picture gallery wall is enriched in treatment by three large arched panels. The impost courses of these arches consist of a distinctly brownish red brick laid in a chain work pattern, with light brownish gray used in the field. The field above these arched panels is made up all of headers, in which a lotos flower alternates with the brownish gray of the field, and with single and double crosses in darker reddish color, as shown in the photograph of the exterior.

From "The Brick Builder."

THE NEW LOTOS CLUB.

110 West 57th Street. Donn Barber, Architect.

This facade is beautiful for its brickwork, having an attractive color scheme with a design that is modestly adapted to it.

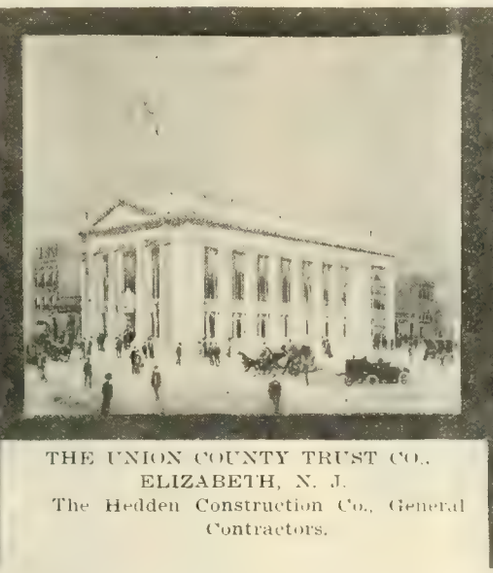
Altogether there are SIXTEEN DIFFERENT KINDS OF BRICK in the facade, but the drawings were so worked out that no cutting or grinding of the brick was necessary. The brick joints of the wall surface have been treated variously, in some portions being raked out and in other portions being flush. The joints of certain patterns are picked out in different colored mortar.

REMOVING OLD PAINT.—The ordinary process of scraping old paint, or burning it off, is hardly expedient and is also laborious. Soda and quicklime are far more thorough, and the paint is more quickly removed. The solution of half soda and half quicklime is thus made: The soda is dissolved in water, the lime is then added, and the solution can be applied with a brush to the old paint. A few minutes is sufficient to remove the coat of paint, which may be washed off with hot water. Afterwards a coating of vinegar or acid should be used to cleanse the surface before repainting.

BANKS ARCHITECTURAL LEADERS IN NEW JERSEY.

With Building Money Tight, Fiduciary Institutions Are Spending Over $3,000,000 for Business Palaces.

A GREAT deal is heard nowadays about the development of Northern New Jersey in building and investment circles, yet there is some influence that is apparently acting as a damper upon the development in that territory. Whether it is timidity on the part of the investor, reluctance on the part of banks to loan money in the large sums asked for, or over-optimism on the part of the developer that causes other landowners to hold back in expectation of reaping some fabulous profit from his holdings, is hard to determine.



But whatever the cause, real estate promoters have perfected plans for organizing a mortgage or trust company to more fully serve these interests in conducting building operations. The New York-New Jersey Real Estate Exchange has endorsed the project.

In spite of these existing conditions, it is interesting to note that the banks of Northern New Jersey are the leaders in building operations, at least so far as architecture is concerned. Furthermore, we find the latest achievements in art in bank building construction in three of the counties where construction capital has been tightest—in Essex, Union and Middlesex counties.

Over $400,000 is represented in bank building construction in these three counties alone, and almost twice that amount is to be expended by the Union Trust Co. of Jersey City and a Hoboken institution. If the two insurance buildings in Newark, the Prudential Life and the Firemen's, are included as bank buildings, almost $3,000,000 is being expended in this kind of development in New Jersey at present. This is unusual in that the bank usually grows up to the town, while in these cases it might be said that banks are setting the architectural pace for the future commercial development of the cities in which they are located.

The big operations in Newark have been fully described. Architecturally they are much like our local bank and office buildings. It is the architecture of the new bank buildings in the smaller towns that concerns this article. The classic designs of these institutions were in each case planned by Mowbray & Uffinger, architects, specializing in bank construction, at 56 Liberty st.

THE MONTCLAIR TRUST.

The Montclair Trust Co. building offers an example of Greek while that of the Union County Trust Co. follows the straight Greek Ionic lines. On the other hand, the First National Bank of New Jersey at New Brunswick suggests the Renaissance. In each case every modern improvement suitable for bank buildings will be installed.

The E. M. Waldron Co., of 84 South 6th st, Newark, is general contractor for the Montclair Trust Co.'s new building, which will cost $100,000. B. A. & G. N. Williams will supply the white marble for exterior and marble base; steam heat, the Fentzloff Heating & Plumbing Co., of New York; furring and lathing, The C. A. Burr Co., New York; painting, staining and varnishing, Braun & Chamberlain, of East Orange; waterproofing, R. Hampton & Co.; the plumbing and gas fitting, W. P. Dunn, Inc.; bluestone, The Newark Bluestone Company; electric wiring, The Browe Co., of Newark; steel and iron, V. J. Heddon & Sons Co., Newark; and the roofing and sheet metal, Jacob Ringle & Son. No interior contracts have been awarded yet. The building will be completed June 1. The columns seen in front will be of 3 ft. drums. The interior height will be 35 ft., with mezzanine floor and gallery. A skylight will be the sole means of natural illumination. Between the columns will be copper facia and mullions containing stained glass. The front will be smooth finished pilasters and columns.

THE UNION COUNTY TRUST.

The Hedden Construction Co., of No. 1 Madison av, is general contractor for the Union County Trust Co., of which Charles H. K. Halsey is president. This structure will cost $125,000 and will be ready for occupancy within ten months. Jacob Gordon, of Elizabeth, is now tearing down the company's 4-sty former home and a building adjoining, to give the new structure a frontage of 50 ft. and a depth of 120. The sub-contractors as far as awards have been made are: Exterior marble, Rutland Florence Marble Co., 30 West st, Manhattan; granite, John Hynes, Brooklyn; plumbing, George J. Tobin, Plainfield, N. J.; waterproofing, H. A. Davis Co., Manhattan; heating, the Read Co., of Newark; elevators, sidewalk lift and interior electric passenger, Otis Elevator Co.; kalamein doors and windows, John W. Rapp, No. 1 Madison av, Manhattan.

The building will be one story high in front and for about three-quarters of its depth. In the rear, facing on West Grand street, will be three stories, containing offices, to accommodate former tenants in the old building and to provide for growth should the present quarters prove too small in the future. No contracts for the interior have been awarded.

THE NEW BRUNSWICK BANK.

F. T. Nesbit & Co., of 116 Nassau st, are general contractors for the $200,000 new 8-sty bank and office building of the First National Bank at New Brunswick. The sub-contractors follow: Steel and iron, Receivers of Passaic Steel Co.; terra cotta partitions and floors, Great Eastern Clay Co.; architectural terra cotta, South Amboy Terra Cotta Co.; excavating and back filling, P. J. Moran, New Brunswick, N. J.; granite, Booth Bros.; ornamental iron, Irving Iron Works, Long Island City; metal window frames, John W. Rapp, New York; tiling, the E. Bradley Currier Co., 119 West 23d st, Manhattan; roofing and sheet metal work, Jacob Ringle & Son, 83 Newark av, Jersey City; plumbing and gas fitting, Charles H. Darmstadt, New York; plain and ornamental plastering, P. J. Durcan, New York.; metal furring and lathing, National Metal Bead Co.; steam heating, the Stehlin Miller Co., New York; marble, the Vermont Marble Co., New York; hoisting apparatus, Clarkson Hoisting Co., Brooklyn; trap rock, James Hughes, New Brunswick, N. J.; lumber, the Howell Lumber Co., New Brunswick, N. J.; interior marble Poletto Bros., Brooklyn. Other contracts have not yet been awarded.

In all these buildings the latest safe deposit devices are being installed. Heretofore only the largest banking institutions in the country have been able to install the round door steel vaults. These will go into these buildings and will have mechanical raising and lowering stages.

THE INVENTOR AND MODERN BUILDING PROBLEMS.

THE important part that the inventor plays in modern building construction could not better be illustrated than by citing some of the problems that have confronted the Whitney-Steen Company, engineers, constructors and builders, of 135 Broadway, this city, in the erection of the Firemen's Insurance Company's 16-sty office building in Newark, the plans for which were drawn by Marvin, Davis & Turton, architects, of 1133 Broadway. The average person frequently forgets the engineer in his laudation of the creator and perfector of new ideas and methods and overlooks the fact that without scientific application of the inventor's appliances, they would count for naught. After a struggle that has lasted practically all summer, the Whitney-Steen Company has got the upper hand of conditions and within a few weeks the steel tiers will begin to rise above the street level to an altitude higher than any other structure in New Jersey.

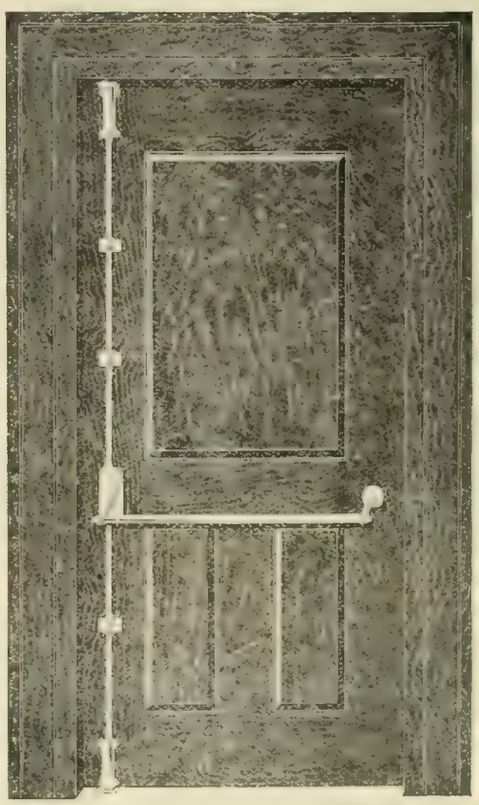
The Whitney-Steen Co., General Contractors and Builders.

The northeast corner of Broad and Market st, where this building will stand, is within a few blocks of the Passaic River. The ground stratas are of great variety, first coming consecutively layers of earth, sand, clay, quicksand, then "Bull's Liver," or a kind of clayey quicksand heavier and with far greater sucking qualities than ordinary quicksand; gravel, containing bowlders, and finally rock. Through this material caissons had to be sunk deeper than any that had hitherto been sunk in Newark, so that advantage could be taken of the splendid layer of hardpan that lies from 30 to 40 feet below the surface. It can therefore be seen that the excavation presented unusual difficulties, inasmuch as open caissons were used.

Three types of steel sheath piling were utilized, the Wemlinger, the United States and the Freestock, according to different locations and conditions. Extra heavy sheaths had to be used, because of the layer of gravel and large bowlders it contained, the whole lying just above hardpan. This layer had to be penetrated before excavation, and to accomplish this unusually heavy work steam hammers were employed. One was a 1,250-lb. Arnett, two were 2,200-lb. Arnett, one a 4,000-lb. Arnett and another was a 3,000-lb. Hamilton-Pierce. The repair bills for hammers were large, but, according to a representative of the engineering company, the sheathing passed through the bowlders containing as much as three cubic feet of rock.

Once the caisson was driven a tremendous head of water, that rose and fell with the tide, one to two feet either way, had to be figured with. In some cases the water was fifteen feet deep, while in others it was considerably more than that. Even under these conditions the Whitney-Steen Co. has made wonderful headway and expects to have the building ready for occupancy by May 1.



The building will have a basement and sub-basement, the latter being four feet below water level. The entire sidewalk area will be built under for vaults in both basements. The facades will be of South Dover marble, which will be supplied by J. J. Spurr, as sub-contractor, and architectural terra cotta, which will be supplied by the South Amboy Terra Cotta Co. Terrazzo floors will be used and the elevators will be of the Standard Plunger type. The total cost of this building will be about $500,000. Not all of the contracts have been awarded yet.

The Whitney-Steen Co. will this month complete the 16-sty Cameron Building, at 34th st and Madison av, which cost about $400,000, and the 9-sty Exchange National Bank at Colorado Springs, which cost about $300,000. The 6-sty Vermont Building, at Salt Lake City, costing $175,000, will also be finished this month. The 8-sty concrete floor and frame building that this company is erecting for Clinton & Russell, the architects, in Watertown, N. Y., will be ready for occupancy by December, and the 6-sty steel frame Felt Building, in Salt Lake City, is rapidly nearing completion. The company finished the 6-sty Kohler & Campbell piano factory at 51st st and 11th av last month. Among the new contracts recently taken was one for the construction of the residence of Arthur Curtiss James, Esq., at Newport, which, when completed, promises to be one of the show places of that city.

A PANIC EXIT.

The Russwin Panic-Exit Bolt, as the name implies, is intended for use on school house, theatre, assembly hall and public building entrance and exit doors. The construction of this bolt is such that the slightest touch on the bar, which extends horizontally across the face of the door, cannot fail to release the bolting members and open the door. In the various types of locking mechanism now ordinarily in use on entrance and exit doors, the pressure against the door by a panic-stricken crowd will almost invariably produce a binding of bolts which makes it impossible to release them and open the way to safety. With the Russwin Panic-Exit Bolt any pressure upon the door only accelerates the unlocking action.

This device is sensitive in action yet most substantial in construction, all parts being built of solid bronze metal castings, with the exception of the bolt heads, which are hardened steel, and each part is machined and carefully fitted.

Various types of this bolt are made to meet various requirements. For fire exits a bolt allowing exit at all times but permitting no entrance. For double entrance doors the bolting mechanism on the dummy half of the door and a Russwin Unit Lock set on the active half; in case of necessity both doors are thrown open by pressure upon the bar extending across the face of the dummy half. For class room or entrance doors the bolt has a side latching mechanism operated from the outside by a knob, inside by the usual bar across the face of the door. All types while operating in different ways accomplish one purpose—the instant releasing and opening of the door. Delay or failure to act is impossible; instant action may be depended upon.

FIRST OFFICE BUILDING FOR MADISON AV.

Madison av, at the northwest corner, and 38th st will soon be a corner of building activity, the site having been made ready for the new 20-sty office and loft building which Frederick Johnson, of 165 Broadway, is to erect from plans by Messrs. Buchman & Fox, 11 East 59th st, costing between $650,000 and $700,000. As seen by the perspective herewith, the building will be one of the highest type for business use in this city. The exterior will be ornamental, with the four lower stories of stone, above this a special faced brick, and the upper five stories of ornamental terra cotta and architectural iron-work. The group of large columns at the entrance will be of solid granite. The interior equipment will include a sub-basement, boiler and engineer rooms, five electric high-speed elevators, and two sidewalk lifts, mail chutes, electric lights and toilet rooms. There will be two entrances in both streets. The only contract on the building so far awarded is that for the structural steel to the Brown-Ketcham Company. The Clarence L. Smith Co. did the excavating. The architects will receive figures on all branches of material and construction.

A RIVERSIDE DRIVE CHANGE.—The James C. McGuire Company, engineering and contracting, is clearing the site for a 12-sty apartment house at the south corner of 103d st and Riverside Drive, where for twenty years has stood the Deering mansion which shares with the Foster residence the whole block front. Both have lawns around them and belong to a type of residential improvement of which but a few examples remain on Manhattan Island. The Deering house was built of red pressed brick, with brownstone trimmings, and vines climbed up its southern walls. To-day it is being torn down, and by next week not a vestige of it will remain. Riverside Drive was once dominated by private mansions, but the high-grade apartment house is now invading its choicest precincts. The James C. McGuire Company, which has offices at 50 Church st, has just completed a large apartment house on the Drive north of 116th st. Mr. McGuire was a member of the last Building Code Commission.

YONKERS BUILDING APARTMENTS.

While thinking of Long Island and New Jersey, don't neglect Westchester County. Nor lose sight of the probability that around and north of Van Courtland Park and along the Hudson River and the Sound, New York in time is certain to have its finest residential suburbs. Westchester County will be another Brooklyn, but more modern and more artistic; and, as Brooklyn becomes more city-like and congested, Westchester will seem the more interesting in comparison.

Apartment house construction has commenced in Yonkers. At least ten apartment buildings, accommodating ten families each, have been erected this season in Lawrence st. New apartments have also been built on Broadway, near Ashburton av, containing suites of seven large rooms and bath.

Edward Gerbereux's firm is building an elevator apartment house at Post st and Hamilton av, and recently completed some three-family apartments of a very desirable type, having only one family on a floor. They have also completed two two-family houses. Their development is near the city line.

REMOVES MANY BATH TUB ANNOYANCES.

Here is a single device that removes half a dozen objectionable features in connection with the bath tub. First and most important, it prevents scalding because with one combination control it gives cold, warm or hot water as desired. One twist brings the former, two brings warm water and three, hot. The overflow vent is in the water control, as shown in illustration; and avoids possibility of leak where the vent pipe formerly pierced the end wall of the tub. A curve in the water discharge directs the stream against the end wall of the tub, thus permitting water to be drawn silently and making splashing and consequent scalding of bather impossible. No part of the nickleplated piping is visible, yet it is all exposed. This part is hidden by the roll of the tub. The device is neat and compact, has no sharp corners or points, is easily installed and cannot get out of order, as there is no rubber ball within to work loose. This novelty should prove of especial merit in an apartment house where water being drawn in a tub in the apartment above is frequently heard by those below. If this be at night or when there is sickness in an adjoining suite, it is sometimes annoying.

WHERE BUILDING MATERIALS ARE NEEDED

The Present Market in Its Entirety—A Report of Every Building Operation in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx.

AN AID TO ALL SALES DEPARTMENTS

AN AID TO ALL SALES DEPARTMENTS.—Plans have been drawn for new buildings to be erected at the locations given below; details as to cost of the new construction, the names and addresses of the architects and the owners are included in each item. This building news represents new construction, including alterations about to be commenced, in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, plans for the work having been filed this week in the Department of Buildings. The official plan number in each case is given at the end of each paragraph.

Building contractors and building material firms may be assured that the information herein given includes every building enterprise of every sort and description contemplated in the two boroughs. The news is absolutely complete, irrespective of cost, including both the highest and the lowest grade of operations. By carefully following the news printed in these columns weekly, contractors and building material firms can possess for their sales departments absolutely reliable and absolutely complete information as to new projects.

HOW TO USE PROFITABLY.—It is hardly necessary to do more than indicate the many ways in which this information may be used.

Architects, owners and contractors can be solicited personally for orders.

Trade literature can be distributed with the certainty of reaching its destination.

Buyers can be apprised of the values of materials and equipment.

Time should not be allowed to elapse in the prosecution of the work of salesmanship. Steps should be taken immediately to handle each case. Even orders not obtained in any single case frequently prepare the way for subsequent sales. Records should be kept of each of these "possibilities," and the results of work done tabulated. Figures will be thus obtained that will throw considerable light on the efficiency of sales methods in operation.

It will not be necessary for us to point out in detail how much information a well-informed building material firm or contractor can easily READ INTO THESE NEWS ITEMS, a constant repetition of which in our columns would only take up space without any equivalent advantages. For instance, the instructed reader does not need to be told what the average equipment would be for, let us say, a seven-story brick and stone loft building, 25x75, costing $35,000, to be built on East Broadway. Plainly an elevator is inevitable; steam heat is inevitable; fireproofing is quite problematic, considering the cost. Everyone can figure that lumber will go into such a building, and a certain amount of rough trim, plastering, window sashes, hardware, plumbing fixtures, etc., etc.

Moreover, it will be understood that as the information that we publish is of an early character, the details of construction and equipment are probably open to a good deal of discussion with the architect and the owner. Red brick might be substituted for white brick, limestone for terra cotta, or vice versa, one type of elevator for another type, and so on throughout all the elements of construction equipment and finish. These points will naturally be very closely followed by an aggressive sales department. Here is where salesmanship, the price and value of a firm's materials will count. THOUGHT AND AGGRESSIVENESS IN THE USE OF THIS INFORMATION THAT WE FURNISH WEEKLY WILL PRODUCE BUSINESS. Don't forget that the entire market for your goods in the two boroughs is here, placed under your eyes, not for reading, but for ACTION. Follow up the news!

The classrooms and assembly hall are to be trimmed in red gulf cypress, the corridors and entrance in quartered oak. Each classroom will be provided with a lavatory, and in the first story corridor will be placed two sanitary drinking fountains. This corridor will also contain foot-warmers for the younger children. Church Construction in Frisco.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Contracts have just been awarded for one of the best examples of church construction since the fire by the members of the First Baptist Church of this city. The site is at the intersection of Octavia and Waller sts, facing Market st. The architects have adopted a classic design freely treated. The exterior will have a base of quarry-faced Colusa sandstone, the upper part being finished on the two street fronts and returns with pressed brick and stone trimmings, and the remaining walls will be of brick and concrete. The building will have a frontage of 102 ft. on Octavia st and 90 ft. in Waller st. Rising from the centre, and surmounting the whole structure, will be a dome 56 ft. in diameter and about 85 ft. high, with windows around the base giving light to the upper part of the auditorium, the main portion being well lighted by windows at the sides. The main entrance, 24 ft. wide, which has been placed in Waller st, opens into spacious vestibules from which the main auditorium is entered, whilst wide and well-lighted staircases lead to the galleries above. A side entrance with vestibules has been placed on Octavia st giving easy access to the auditorium, the gallery, choir rooms, etc. Ample exits with doors opening outwards are provided. Great care has been taken in planning the seating arrangements of auditorium and galleries so that every seat will command an unobstructed view of the rostrum, and it is believed that the acoustic properties will be perfect. The auditorium is 85x60, with a gallery around three sides, the former seating 725 and the latter 525 persons. In the basement is a lecture room 32x48; ladies' room 35x24; baraca room 24x36; philathea clubroom, 14x20; beginners' room 27x25; primary room 14x25; baraca club 13x19; boys' club, committee room, library, kitchens, etc. The pastor's study, robing rooms, choir are adjacent to the baptistry and rostrum, and space is provided for an organ, which is to be one of the finest instruments on the coast. The inside finish will be of Oregon pine specially selected for beauty of grain. Hot water and hot air systems of heating have been provided. Dedicatory ground was broken with religious services on Monday last, conducted by the pastor, the Reverend George E. Burlingame. The president of the Board of Church Trustees is George H. Moore; H. K. H. Mitchell being the secretary of the board and A. S. Weaver the secretary of the building committee. Bids on the entire work have been received. It is stated that the investment will represent almost $100,000, and that the houses will be of entirely different character from any erected in the Forrest Hill section so far. In design the buildings will greatly resemble single-family dwellings and the interiors will be very roomy.

Brief and Personal.

Business is pretty well upset by the celebrations.

New Yorkers have seen parades before, but such crowds!

The real building boom will come next year. But 1909 is doing pretty well.

The dull gray dawn of next Monday will hear the voice of Duty saying, "Get busy."

Preserve the Clermont and Half Moon, but put them where everybody can see them—in the Museum of Natural History.

But, say, what are we living for if we can't celebrate something or other once in awhile. Why not a real estate celebration next?

George M. Bartlett, architect, formerly of Ernest Flagg's office, has opened an office at 103 Park av for the general practice of architecture.

Some of the Hudson River barges used in the building material trade made, when fitted up with tiers of seats, admirable "grandstands" for the naval parade.

The American Woolen Company, which is erecting a building at 4th av and 18th st, is the owner of the largest woolen mills in the world. It has several mills at Lawrence, Mass., and many others in New England and New York State. William M. Wood is the head of the concern.

The plant of the American Enameled Brick & Tile Co., South River, N. J., is running to its full capacity with more than 150 men busy. The town enjoys both rail and water transportation, a fact which contributes much to the success and profit of the brick-making establishments.

Evidence that the fall season has been reached is manifest to those who visit the Beekman and Water st district. A great deal of activity is reported. Manhattan is still an enormous buyer of coal stoves, notwithstanding the vogue of the steam radiator and the gas stove. Dealers report an especially large demand for furnaces from Brooklyn, Queens and New Jersey.

A new company known as the Union Sheet & Tin Plate Company has been organized at Marietta, Ohio, with a capital stock of $800,000, to operate the steel mill in that city built some five years ago, and which has been practically idle ever since. The officers of the new company are: W. D. Park, Asbury Park, N. J., president, P. F. Hogan, New York, vice-president; F. M. Stephenson, Pittsburgh, treasurer; W. C. Park, Asbury Park, N. J., auditor, and George I. Stanford, Milford, Conn., general manager.

During the naval parade last Saturday, the Shamrock Towing Company, of West 52d st, placed the tug "Patrick McGurl" at the disposal of Messrs. Harold Hammond, son of William K. Hammond, president of the Brick Manufacturers' Association, and Frank L. Holmes. Both these gentlemen invited guests numbering eighteen or twenty brick men and their wives, and cruised about the battleships in the river from 9.30 A. M. until 10.30 in the evening. The Shamrock Towing Company extended its hospitality even to the extent of providing an elaborate luncheon for its guests.

Alfred J. Thompson, 71 Broadway, who, prior to 1893, was in the laboratory of Thomas A. Edison for four years, and since then has devoted his entire time to the sale, installation and operation of American machinery in Latin American countries, has formed a selling organization for business in that rapidly developing section. During the past 16 years he has lived in and traveled extensively through Cuba and South America. In order to handle a line of mechanical goods efficiently Mr. Thompson has, it is understood, associated with him in each of the capital cities, a graduate engineer who makes his home there, and who knows the conditions of service and technical requirements of the market.

The Standard Company (35 West 31st st) has purchased a site at Toronto, Can., on which the company proposes to build a modern plant for the manufacture of enameled iron sanitary goods to supply the Canadian trade. For the present the Standard Sanitary Mfg. Company will spend between $250,000 to $300,000 for buildings and equipment, and the experience of its organization will be employed to make it the most complete and economical plant in the country, and the management of the new concern will be composed of men from its various plants in this country. The Standard Company has at present a large jobbing house in Toronto, which it will continue in addition to its new plant. No contracts for equipment or buildings have yet been placed.

John C. Rodgers & Son, the contractors, are making good progress with the Madison av bridge over the Harlem. Some of the big works which Mr. Rodgers has put through in his time are: The Guard Lock at Lachine, Canada; the South Penn Railroad Sideling Tuunel, which is the longest on the line; the new Croton Aqueduct, which supplies Croton water to the city of New York, and of which Mr. Rodgers, with others, built five miles; the tunnel in connection with the power plant at Niagara Falls, which Messrs. Rodgers and Clement built. It is fifty-seven hundred feet in length. The firm also built the Speedway from High Bridge north; the Willis av bridge across the Harlem River at First av, and the bridge at 145th st and Lenox av across the Harlem, in the building of which Messrs. McMullen and McBean were associated. The firm recently completed the approaches to the Manhattan Bridge across the East River, having previously built the tower foundations for the same some years ago.

Celebration Upsets Material Market.

The week-end brings a sense of relief to the building material men. They entered into the spirit of the celebration unflinchingly and generously, even enthusiastically, but "the cold gray dawn" of Monday is expected to put business on its feet again, with more aggressiveness than before. The week was too crowded with events of distracting natures, and the two extra half holidays (Tuesday and Thursday), with Monday an off day, practically robbed the sales forces of any opportunity to do business. Consequently, all markets excepting that for pig iron were dull and inactive. There was scarcely any inquiry; contracts were held over until next week and buyers were few. Pig iron was exceedingly active and its market was strong. Southern advanced a quarter. Sheet metals were quiet. An advance is expected for next week. Structural steel behaved fairly well, but was weak. Hudson River brick advanced a quarter. Raritans stood firm. Lumber was steady and showed no signs of weakening for the big influx of second-hand material that will come in in another two weeks. This is taken as proof that the material has been disposed of. Stone was practically at a standstill. Cement prices are unchanged. The building material market expects a favorable reaction during October, conditions pointing to a brisk business.

Celebration Cripples Brick Market.

Brick has had a bad week. Sales were few and many jobs, particularly those in the parade zone, moved unsteadily. Uptown the situation was about normal, as far as consumption was concerned. Few shipments moved during the week from the yards, but the situation was not as critical as was expected. The Cornell Company brought down some tows on Sunday and Monday. Owing to the fact that manufacturers strained every nerve to get as many cargoes as possible down here last week, only a few came in this week. Figures will show this better. Holdovers, Sept. 20, 10; arrivals, 89; sales, 80; holdovers, Sept. 27, 19. A comparison of the transactions for the first two days of this week and the first two days of the week before shows what effect the celebration had upon the brick market here. It is enlightening because the same holds true for every other department of the building material market, except pig iron.

Holdovers, Monday, Sept. 20	10
Holdovers, Monday, Sept. 27	19
Holdovers, Tuesday, Sept. 21	19
Holdovers, Tuesday, Sept, 28	24

Allowance must be made for a rainy Monday, this week, but the figures nevertheless show how the fete has disturbed building operations.

PRICES MOVE UP A QUARTER.

Toward the week end, however, conditions changed a little and the situation was described as being only a little below normal. Contractors reported that their men were returning to work in better numbers and operations moved with more accord. One contractor prepared to continue, and expected his one hundred bricklayers to report for work on Monday. Twenty-five came in. As it was a rainy day, he stopped, and tried again on Tuesday. Five reported for work. Wednesday he had all his men on hand, and on Thursday he gave up trying to operate during parade days. Other contractors in the downtown section had the same trouble, excepting those along 5th av. In some of those operations the men remained at work so as to take advantage of their lofty perches to see the parades.

DEALERS READY FOR SEASON'S END.

As far as could be learned, no formal action has been taken by any of the manufacturers on the date for closing down their yards. It is, nevertheless, to be supposed that the manufacturing season will not last much more than another fortnight, or three weeks at the most. If good weather rules, it is possible that some of the yards will remain in operation until November first, which will be a month later than the majority of the yards hold on. On the whole, the season has been better for the dealers than for the manufacturers.

Labor is very scarce and most of the Hudson River manufacturers would like to quit as soon as possible. Even the Fall has been a disappointment to the manufacturers, when it had been fully expected that something like a boom was due. Instead, building operations seemed to fall backward. Asked why, in his opinion the boom failed to materialize, the president of one of the leading manufacturing companies said:

DEFEAT OF BUILDING CODE TO BLAME.

"While the revision of the Building Code was in the public eye a great many plans were filed and a great amount of work went ahead. Everybody expected a drastic enactment, and they wanted to get under cover. The vetoing of that measure brought a reaction. Work that would have gone ahead, had the measure gone into effect either late in the Fall or the first of the year, would have brought about the busy Autumn that had been expected. If the measure had gone into effect immediately, as it originally contemplated, there would have been an effect similar to that which now obtains. The real boom will come next year."

This view represents the opinion of a majority of leaders in the building material business. Some think it may come yet, but the season is undoubtedly too late for any decided impetus.

BARTLETT SALE NEXT SATURDAY.

Edward J. Collins and Seward U. Round, receivers for the Bartlett Brick Company of Roseton and Hudson, N. Y., will offer the property of that company for sale next Saturday at noon at the front door of the courthouse at Newburgh, N. Y. The reason for the sale is a disagreement among the partners. The plant at Hudson comprises 75 acres of land with docks, sheds, all buildings, engines and yard equipment, including battons and saddles, planking, cars, barrows, trucks, kiln grates, horses and harness, etc.

The purchaser of the Roseton yard will take over the lease held by D. H. & J. W. Armstrong, which terminates in 1921. This yard contains 24¼ acres, including docks and buildings similar to that at Hudson. The terms of the sale will be 10 per cent. cash and the balance on or before November 9.

Cement More Active—Prices Firm.

While the price of Portland cement remains at $1.43 the quotations for Rosendale or Natural are 80 cents, instead of 90, as heretofore. The demand is somewhat improved for Portland, it is said, and there is an expectancy for a speedy readjustment of prices. No conspicuous sales marked this week, owing largely to the effect of the celebration upon business in general and building operations in particular. The activity that has featured the suburban business during the Fall shows no abatement, one operation of some consequence, in this class of construction, being the Courier-News building in Plainfield, N. J., which will be constructed entirely of reinforced concrete, of extra heavy design and reinforcement.

Iron Active—Steel Sluggish.

Iron held itself well this week and was about the only part of the building material market that did not seem to be affected by the celebration. Southern is higher, with No. 1 Foundry dock, $19.25 to $19.50; No. 2 Foundry, spot, $18.75 and $19, and No. 3 Foundry, $18.25 to $18.50. This is a quarter advance around. Southern and Eastern Pennsylvania are selling for shipments over the first quarter, while Buffalo is taking first half business. The inquiry for New Jersey and New England continues good and sales are in good proportion. Rogers Brown and other important jobbers say they are overwhelmed with business, and that they are straining every nerve to take care of the constantly increasing volume.

The largest tonnage that has been sold in over two years, this firm reports, was disposed of during the last fortnight which closed a week ago. This week's business showed no abatement. This statement applies alike to pig iron and coke. Pig iron men complain that while they are glad to see the improvement come for which they have been looking for many months, it has come upon them almost too suddenly.

Less steel making iron is being sold in the East, but this is to be expected inasmuch as large sales have been the rule within the recent past.

CELEBRATION HITS STEEL.

The structural steel and sheet metal stores felt the effects of the celebration. Last Saturday afternoon was a holiday. Monday rained and business was dull. Tuesday and Thursday were half holidays, so that but little business was done in this material. Eggleston Brothers, Bruce & Cook and other houses reported business only "fair." The suburbs went ahead as usual, but the business in the Hudson River towns was poor.

SHEETS TO ADVANCE NEXT WEEK.

While the mills have announced an advance in the prices of various sheet metals, the local stores will not advance until next week. This is partly due to the fact that the celebration has upset business generally and because the advance would be better sustained then than last week.

Lead was dull but steady. Tin is advancing. Copper is strong and active.

Car Shortage and the Lumber Men.

Most of the largest local wholesale lumber men took advantage of the mid Summer slump and ordered heavily. In consequence, their yards to-day are well stocked and are receiving cargoes every day, despite the fact that the car shortage problem bobs up every year at this time. It was natural to expect that there would be low piles of spruce and other material used in the erection of grandstands, but such did not seem to be the case in the yards visited by the Record and Guide man. Collins & Lavery and Cross, Austin & Ireland, which two firms supplied a very large part of the lumber used in this construction, are still equipped to handle orders in this material in any size. They were wholly prepared to meet the demand, and they have since received new shipments.

LUMBER BUSINESS FAIR.

There was a noticeable falling off in business this week. Those lumber firms who are obliged to use ferries or barges for making deliveries were hampered somewhat owing to the extra large number of pleasure craft in the streams. If anything, business seemed to go from fair to poor as the week wore on except in the suburbs, where it held at fair. It is expected that the September incoming cargoes will bring more than 37,730,451 ft. that came in for August. It is said that competition is still very keen and this has been responsible for the low prices of lumber, although advances have been made from time to time, prices are not at the highest notch. Speaking of competition, there was comparatively little of it for the Hudson-Fulton grandstand operations among the big firms. They took what business that came to them and had all they could do to handle it. Among the smaller companies there was competition, but this was conducted mostly through conditions of sale and not in price cutting.

Stone Greatest Sufferer from Celebration.

Stone perhaps suffered more than any of the other building materials, and, furthermore, got the least out of it, perhaps. Lumber was liberally utilized, sheet metals were used to a considerable extent, lime and plaster were used to some extent in making the decorations, and brick had some consumption during the week, but stone was out of it. The cutters and setters on the jobs were scarce and the festival spirit that took hold of the entire city upset business so that few contracts were closed and very few inquiries came in. Big contracts that were to have been let this week were not awarded, for one reason or another, and some of the contractors gave up trying to set stone while the parades were on. They had no trouble in getting material, as most of the yards are on the East River. Prices remained unchanged.

An Additional Elevator Safety.

The Welsh Machine Works, of 276 West st, for which E. Marshall is sales manager, is installing an elevator in the garage of W. C. Martin, 1934 Broadway, that has a new feature in control. The device is said to make the car, which is designed to take a load of 6,000 pounds, as safe as an elevator of that type and built for that kind of work can be made. Incidently, the device which is merely an addtional safety is said to be the first that has been installed on any machine.

Should all the magnetic fields in the electric control become grounded, and the brake shoes become heated and expand so that they will grip the pulley, and the slack cable safety fail to work, this device will still hold the car.

On the side of the drum is a cam on a worm gear which rises as the car ascends, in about 2 per cent. of the car speed. Should the car begin to race the cam would throw out a switch which connects with the armature. By throwing in the resistance the armature itself is made a brake which would hold the car as long as the power lasted. The device was perfected by Mr. Marshall and is said to cover all danger points in electric elevator control.

Welsh Machine Works elevators have been intsalled in the following recent operations: The Hendrick Hudson apartments, 110th st and Riverside Drive, one sidewalk, 2,000 lbs.; the New York Improved Realty Co., 322 Church st, one sidewalk machine, 2,000 lbs.; B. House & Co., 8 West 39th st, one sidewalk machine, 1,000 lbs.; W. P. Bernagozzi, 88 Watts, one freight, 2,000 lbs; W. C. Martin, 1934 Broadway, one freight, 6,000 lbs.; Methodist Episcopal Church, 6th st, between 7th and 8th avs, Brooklyn, one sidewalk, 2,000 lbs.; George I. Roberts & Brother, 471 4th av, one passenger, 2,000 lbs.; same, one sidewalk, 2,000 lbs.; Newtown Construction Company, Laight and Vestry sts, two freights, 3,000 lbs. each; M. Started With Small Capital.

It will surprise most readers to know that the big bridge building firm of Terry & Tench began business with a capital of but $2,000. Maybe there is a suggestion here for other men who may hesitate at going into business for themselves because of having only a small capital. The firm's capital is now $75,000, after having conducted successfully bridge construction work for fourteen years, in addition to being large manufacturers of patent derrick irons.

This concern employs regularly from four hundred to six hundred men in its construction work, building principally steel bridges, steel buildings, tunnels, etc. The only products sold by it are patent irons for derrick and bridge builders' plants. Among the large contracts the firm has successfully handled are the construction of the New York Central's four-track draw across the Harlem River, the New York end of the Williamsburgh Bridge and footbridge across the East River, and the Manhattan Bridge across the East River. The company accomplished the last mentioned contract in a remarkably short time, the suspended trusses of this bridge being erected from abutment to abutment in 51 working days. It built the elevated railroad section of the subway, including the drawbridge at Kingsbridge and the steel arch across the Manhattan Valley. It also built most of the elevated railroad system of Boston.

Hunting Sheet Metal Business by Letter.

An interesting method of developing business by means of a general form of letter is being followed by P. Feiner, the sheet metal contractor of 712 9th av, Manhattan, making a specialty of cornices, skylights and roofing, and heating and ventilation in that connection. It is a mark of resourcefulness in taking advantage of the publishing of names of architects and building contractors in the Record and Guide when plans for buildings are projected, and when they are filed with the Building Department and Tenement House Department. It is a practice which can be followed or modified by contractors in other lines and in other cities, and it will doubtless be interesting to reproduce the wording of the circular letter, which is as follows:

Through plans filed with the "Tenement House Department" I see that you are contemplating building operations and therefore desire to call to your attention that I can furnish your house or houses with new roofs, cornices, skylights, gutters, leaders, metal ceilings, ventilating systems, and, in fact, anything that is made of sheet metal. Would be pleased to call and give you my estimate on any sheet metal work that you may have. Plans and detailed drawings furnished whenever required.

Hoping that you will please give me a trial I beg to remain, Very truly yours, &c.

P. S. Inclosed please find some blotters to bear me in mind.

This is but one of the many uses that can be made of the valuable information contained in the Record and Guide (and nowhere else in as complete a form) by the business interests of this city.

"Instructions to Inspectors on Reinforced Concrete Construction."

This is a pocket edition of a hundred or more pages by George P. Carver, Assoc. M. Am. Soc. C. E., and consulting engineer. The author was division engineer on the Key West extension of the Florida East Coast Railway and engineer on the construction of the United Show Machinery Co., plant, Beverly, Mass. Part of the contents of the book is made up of instructions to inspectors in these important operations and, therefore, based upon the author's practical experience. The first pages relate to the inspection of cement and subsequent chapters include instructions in general, mixing and placing of concrete, cost data on details of construction, including reinforcement, form work, etc. The book is illustrated with half-tones of work under way in addition to drawings and tables covering the text. Publisher: George P. Carver, 53 State st, Boston, Mass.

Fall Painting Stands Best.

Some who make a specialty of roofing and outside work find more or less spare time in the fall season which can be occupied profitably if the necessary effort is made to possess the right information as to the best time to do painting to insure durable service, and then the energy is expended to bring it to the attention of property owners so as to secure orders for painting. The Paint Manufacturers' Association has prepared five reasons for having painting done in the fall and they are as follows:

In the fall the surface is thoroughly dry. During the spring a surface which needs repainting is sure to contain moisture and dampness or frost, and it cannot be successfully painted until it has thoroughly dried out.

When the wood is dry it absorbs more of the paint; the paint penetrates deeper into the wood, therefore gets a firmer hold on it, giving the paint coating greater tenacity or holding qualities.

Paint cannot be as successfully applied in damp, cloudy or unsettled weather as in warm, sunny weather. In the fall the weather is more settled and uniform and is warmer, therefore it is an execellent time for painting.

A house needs its protecting coat of paint more in the winter months than at any other time. A house in need of painting should never be allowed to go over the winter without this protection.

It is easier to keep the winter's moisture and dampness out by applying a coat of paint in the fall, when the surface is dry and receives the oil and pigment so as to cover and protect the surface.

These reasons apply as properly to metal work, whether roof, conductors, ease troughs or flashings, as they do to wood work, and if they are brought to the attention of property owners a corps of painters may be kept at work to the profit of the enterprising man who finds the work and also has the energy to see that the painters do the work right.

THE PROBLEM OF BUILDING A SUBURBAN HOUSE.

What it Costs in Various Sections and the Financial Arrangements That Can Be Made—Qualms of the Inexperienced.

By WILLIAM A. LAMBERT.

The prospective builder or buyer of a home in the country is usually beset by doubts. He questions the advisability of investing a large sum where it might not be a quick asset in case he should meet with reverses, forgetting the ancient philosopher's counsel that a man should never hesitate to take an improved position in the world for fear of afterward losing it. There are also questions as to cost and mortgages that he wants answers for. An architect of this city, experienced in suburban work, contributed information on these subjects to a book issued by the New Jersey and New York Real Estate Exchange, entitled "New Jersey to the Front," which is reproduced here for the benefit of the city man who is yet to make his first essay as a suburban home builder.

WHEN home building and home owning become synonymous terms, and transportation to and from the metropolis reaches a truly modern pinnacle of improvement, then will the home lover hail the millennium.

Thousands of houses are now being erected in the environs of New York City, which, of course, especially include the north Jersey and Long Island district, but the proportion of these that in the end will be entitled to classification as homes, is an open question. Naturally, much depends upon the point of view.

One man is content to pay rent indefinitely while rusticating in the bottom part of a two-family house in the suburbs, and calls himself happy, because it is his "home," and another man is only half satisfied owning a whole house, with large grounds, because his nearby neighbor owns a bigger house and ampler grounds.

Our ideal home owner, however, stands midway between these two, because, in the first place, he doesn't consider a rented house a home, and, in the second, he has the sanity to strive for the attainable. This being secured, he thanks his lucky stars that he is able to show something for his effort, and rises superior to that envy of another's prosperity, which is so clearly the infirmity of many minds. To that vast body of intelligent men and women who find themselves whirled about in the malestrom of city life, but who fight worthily to lift their heads toward the clear sunshine and pure atmosphere of the country, let it be said that their ambitions may be realized much easier than they imagine, provided they go about it in the right way.

While it is true that most operators and builders erect homes for the people only as a business proposition, it is a fact that any person equipped with reasonable judgment, a very few hundred dollars and some nerve, or, better still, initiative, may, with little trouble and risk, lay the foundation of a "real home" in the suburbs. One of the qualms experienced by the prospective suburban home owner is his fear that he may make a mistake in putting his savings into a house in the country without any assurance or guarantee that he will be satisfied with his surroundings.

THE TIMID MAN'S FEARS.

"What," reflects he, "will I do with a house on my hands in case I want to go back to the city?" There are several answers to this question. Of course, the most pertinent that comes to mind is this: "Nothing ventured, nothing won." A man who is too timid to let go of one thing until he has more than its equivalent double-locked in his own safe is apt to be too conservative to believe he will ever get enough money to pay taxes, let alone interest on a mortgage. In the meantime, he probably forgets that his landlord comes around with remarkable regularity to collect the $30, $40 or $50 monthly stipend and the unfortunate rentpayer doesn't have any chance of dodging, either. Occasionally a bona-fide home buyer gets into the hands of unscrupulous builders or promoters, and comes to grief. But take it all in all, the chances of loss in a home-buying proposition, where ordinary judgment is used by the buyer, have proved to be smaller than in any other kind of business transaction.

Let us assume that the house buyer has found the house and lot that suits him in a restricted residential locality in New Jersey, the house being valued at $4,000, and situated on a plot 50x125 ft. in size, costing $1,000, a total of $5,000. Such a house, containing seven or eight rooms and bath, including all modern improvements, can easily be obtained at the price. The general plan in vogue on the part of the building operator in selling a house of this character is to require the payment down of about $1,000, and the placing of two mortgages, a first and a second, upon the property. The first mortgage runs usually for a term of three years, while the second is payable in monthly installments. On the property described the first mortgage would be about $3,000, bearing interest at 5½ per cent., and the second $1,000, at a rate of 6 per cent. A monthly payment of $40, including interest on both mortgages, would work out as follows:

Interest 5½ per cent. on $3,000	$165.00
Interest 6 per cent. on $1,000	60.00

or approximately $19 per month for total interest payable at the outset; $21, or $252 per year, applies to payment of second mortgage. The latter mortgage is in reality being reduced more rapidly than this, as the amount of annual interest is steadily diminishing. Thus in a period of about three and one-half years the second mortgage is paid off, the owner enjoying a clear equity of $2,000 in his property.

The mortgage of $3,000 has in the meanwhile been renewed, so that at this stage the owner is paying $165 per year interest, taxes (approximately) $50 and insurance $5, a total of $20. Practical experience has proved that the plan of purchase and sale as outlined above is the safest, fairest and most satisfactory that has yet been devised.

It must not be overlooked that price of building is dependent upon locality, as, for instance, to build the house mentioned above would cost approximately 10 per cent. more in Westchester County and 20 per cent more on Long Island. In buying a new house, properly built, a decided advantage is gained in the saving on repairs, painting, etc. As a general thing, it is never good policy or economy to buy an old house, even though it seems at first sight cheap. A single exterior coat of paint and a few minor repairs are all that is ordinarily required during the first five years' occupancy of a new house honestly built. And as a controlling offset to this the value of the property will probably have increased from 25 to 40 per cent. in the same period.

A HELPING HAND.

The building and loan plan has appealed for many years to those of saving instincts who desire to own their homes. Those using this method of gaining a home, first purchase outright the plot, and the association furnishes the amount required to build, or, where necessary, pays the money toward a ready-built house, the equity of the purchaser being satisfactory. The association takes a single mortgage on the whole property, the amount advanced being, say, $4,000. A premium of from $40 to $100 is deducted from the loan. The home buyer pays $40 per month, including interest on the loan at 6 per cent. per annum, keeping up these payments until the full loan is repaid. He is also entitled to share in the profits of the association, which aids to reduce the period of his payments. These usually terminate in eleven to twelve years, and he then receives a cancelation of the mortgage.

In the State of New Jersey several of the title companies make what is known as installment mortgage loans. These loans are limited to 60 per cent. of the value of the combined house and lot. They are payable in a manner similar to the building and loan plan, with this exception, that the earlier payments are somewhat larger, but decrease month by month as the principal is reduced. These loans are usually arranged to be liquidated in a period of about ten years.

A FINAL WORD OF ADVICE.

A word must be said regarding the general architecture side of this subject. Of late years the magazines and periodicals of the country have published considerable on the question of home building, and have undoubtedly created much interest in building and home owning from an artistic standpoint. Unfortunately, a vast deal of these writings have been unintentionally misleading. Reproductions of handsome plans and exterior designs have been submitted to the public, which, to its credit be it said, has snapped quickly at the chance to secure a model home at an estimated cost of perhaps one-half what it would actually cost. A bungalow craze also has been developed, simply because the magazines have shown such beautiful models at so remarkably low a cost. Bungalows have their uses, but, as a matter of fact, as all-year-round domiciles they are more expensive to build and far less desirable than the standard style of suburban residence. These latter, built on simple, practical lines of the old colonial or in the modern Spanish treatment of cement or stucco, with spacious rooms and celler and attic, offer certainly a better suburban combination for both summer and winter in this climate, which the bungalow was never intended to furnish.

AN OFF WEEK.—Property owners' associations have not been active this week. The celebrations have monopolized public attention almost completely. But the Fall promises to be a busy one.

OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Valuable Information Given Weekly Showing Status of Municipal Improvement Proceedings in all Branches.

Owners of real estate frequently get an unpleasant shock when they have sold a given piece of property, and title is about to pass. The attorney for the buyer, or title company, brings out a memorandum which shows that besides certain charges, such as taxes, water rent (in all probability known to the seller), there are one or more assessments which have been a lien against the property for a long or short time, as the case may be. Naturally the seller is annoyed and states that he was unaware that these liens existed. To overcome this condition the Record and Guide publishes all of these proceedings, under classified heads, and in ample time to give the owner abundant opportunity to make a protest, should he deem it advisable. Much confusion and disappointment can be avoided by weekly glancing at this column. At the end of each proceeding the official number is given, and should the owner desire to secure the full particulars of any given improvement, it will aid him materially. This information will be found to be of great use to the real estate broker. It gives him additional information for his files, and should be of considerable aid to him in consummating sales. As an example, should he learn that a proceeding for the acquiring of title by the city to a street on which he had property for sale, he would have an additional argument to place before his client, which otherwise might have escaped his notice.

THE WIDENING OF 32D ST.

Stand on 5th av, at 32d st, looking west, and the facade of the Pennsylvania Depot rises before you as distinctly as if it were much nearer than it is, owing to its size and the straight and unobstructed line of vision. Thirty-second street is perceived to be a natural line of approach to the terminal, and the only object is the narrowness of that approach. Henry Hellman, who has specialized in the section, is one of those who does not believe the widening should be at the city's taxpayers' evpense:

"Railroads have their undoubted uses and should be encouraged," says Mr. Hellman, "but not so much that it must provide approaches to their property. A very nice widening could be made for both 32d and 33d sts if the railroads would slice off 15 feet on each side. As a matter of civic pride, the whole city might consider paying 10 to 20 per cent. of these damages, provided that the valuation of the property is limited to the price paid by the companies when they acquired the property several years ago."

This is the first evidence of public feeling in opposition to the City paying the whole cost of this improvement. Public attention has not been very specifically called to the subject, but when it is the taxpayers will certainly ask to be "shown" how the case stands, and why the Pennsylvania Railroad should not clear the path to its own doorsteps, especially when the taxpayer's back is so heavily weighed down as it is now.

TAXPAYERS COMPLAIN OF THE HARLEM RAILROAD SERVICE.

The Taxpayers' Alliance of the Borough of the Bronx has lodged a complaint with the Public Service Commission against the New York & Harlem Railroad Company and the New York Central Railroad Company because of the alleged inadequate train service given to the stations in the Bronx. The northern suburbs have long complained of the treatment they have received in this respect from the Harlem and New York Central.

The present complaint on the part of the Alliance is signed by President W. W. Niles, and by Harry Robitzek as attorney. It is hoped by the taxpayers that the Harlem and the Central can be persuaded to give better accommodations to Bronx commuters. The complaint, which was drawn up in detail by Lawyer Robitzek, sets forth in substance:

That the line of the New York & Harlem Railroad Company, instead of being managed and operated so as to furnish rapid transit facilities for the sections of the city of New York which it traverses, is managed and operated with practically the sole purpose of furnishing to the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad means of access to the Grand Central Station; whereas its charter was granted for the purpose of securing rapid transit between sections now comprised with the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx.

Consequently, the train service granted by the Harlem Railroad between the Grand Central Depot and the stations in the Bronx is of the "most illogical, insufficient and unreasonable sort." With respect to the frequency of trains and quickness of transit, it is stated that the service has improved little since the time of the lease of the Harlem to the New York Central Railroad Company, in 1873, despite the immense improvements in railroad facilities elsewhere in the country.

Further, it is charged that the passenger tariff is unreasonably high, unequal and unfair, as is set forth in and appears from the table of rates annexed to the complaint. Both train schedule and passenger tariff are calculated to lessen instead of maintain the passenger traffic originating in the Borough of the Bronx, and to force residents of that borough to Manhattan by overtaxed and distant lines of the Elevated and Subway.

The Public Service Commission is asked to direct the New York & Harlem Railroad Company to increase the number of its trains running between its stations in the Borough of the Bronx and the Grand Central Station to at least thirty-five each way in each direction, in order to fully meet the requirements of travel and to furnish adequate accommodations to those desiring to travel on the road, and give the same service with respect to number of trains as it now gives to the City of Mount Vernon, and further to amend and reduce its rates of fare so that they will be just and uniform.

MAPPING RICHMOND BOROUGH.

IN reporting upon the progress of the topographical survey of Staten Island, William R. Hillyer, the Assistant Commissioner of Public Works, says in a report printed this week, that the work covers nearly all of the built up or urban portions of the borough, including, generally speaking, all of the territory which was previously included within the limits of the incorporated villages prior to their consolidation with the City of New York. In that portion of the former village of Port Richmond which lies west of the Morning Star road, some field work had been done from time to time in former years, but only so far as was necessary to get out drainage plans which were needed at once. That work is now being gone over and the territory included being systematically surveyed and mapped to completion. In other parts of the borough similar surveys for the same purpose had been made covering smaller areas. About 60 per cent. of the island remained to be surveyed.

The work of the topographical division naturally divides into two parts. The first comprises the topographic survey proper, which consists of portraying upon the topographic sheets, on a scale of 50 feet to an inch, existing condiions, including both horizontal and vertical measurements. The second part consists of the study and preparation of official lay out plans with grades for adoption by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and to constitute the official map and plan of this borough of the City of New York, and the prepartion of maps required in street opening proceedings.

The Commissioner of Public Works, Mr. Tribus, adds to the foregoing that the first requirement for local developments, as fixed by the Charter of the city, has been an accurate topographical map, and the survey in progress, through ignorance of the subject on the part of many, and wilful perversion of facts by others, has latterly come in for some criticism. Unavoidably, in the prosecution of such an enterprise, with frequent changes in the personnel of assistants, errors arise, causing some work to be done over again, but in general the survey has been well conducted; a large amount of valuable data have been secured, already of great value to improvements carried out and under way, as well as being the base for all future ones. Two years more should see it completed.

"The 'construction' division of the engineer corps uses the topographical sheets to aid in designing drainage and sewer systems and making plans for the physical improvement of such streets as are widened, straightened, extended or opened, through legal or voluntary proceedings, with but little further preliminary work, except to tie in to established points, a saving to local interests of many thousands of dollars which otherwise would have to be included in the assessments.

"It may not be generally known that the money for the survey has been chiefly provided from the sale of fifty-year bonds, chargeable to the whole city; the interest and sinking fund charges alone being included in the annual budget. This reduces the annual burden to a minimum, the charge to the "Borough" being almost trifling, while the enhanced value of real estate should in the fifty years' life of the bonds, exceed the aggregate total expense, fifty-fold."

ROAD PRESERVATION.

The almost universal use of automobiles has developed a new issue in macadam road maintenance and even construction. A well-cared for broken stone road surface, occasionally sprinkled with water so as to prevent disintegration, and kept fairly clean to prevent the accumulation of dust and mud, has in former years been quite easy to keep in satisfactory condition, even under moderately heavy travel; but the passage of high-speed, heavy automobiles, with the tremendous suction power of their big rubber tires, creates an effect that sprinkling does not remedy, for the bond betweeen stones is appreciably destroyed, so that excessive mud prevails when wet, and clouds of dust are raised when dry.

To cure this condition, the last three or four years have seen many experiments, made with numerous materials; first, as "dust layers," and second, as "binding materials," for road building; asphalt, oil and various gummy substances being tried, each exploited vigorously by interested contracting or supply houses.

New York has been perhaps a little slow in experimenting, yet about six miles of main thoroughfare in Richmond Borough were last year swept free from surface debris and treated, in about equal sections, with heavy crude oil, with liquid asphalt and with specially prepared tar, all giving excellent results on the score of dust laying. The general results indicate the desirability of extensive work being carried out on this line, as it seems to be a great improvement over water sprinkling, for the dust-laying feature at any rate, the dust being laid all the time, instead of part time, while it is probable also that the gross cost will be no greater than for water. There will be some constructive work carried on with oil or asphalt as the binder to test the question of durability.

THE DYCKMAN VALLEY.—After Washington Heights will come the turn of the Dyckman valley beyond, as a building scene. The attractiveness of the situation may not be fully appreciated on the first visit, but subsequent acquaintance with the landscape features and the adjacent rivers strengthens the hold which the place obtains upon the affections. Dyckman st is destined to be a great thoroughfare. Hudson River steamboats will land at its western terminus, the same as at 129th st at the present time. Not wholly "country" or wholly "city," the locality combines the good parts of both. The presence of the Hudson and the Harlem rivers and the Ship Canal, and their pleasant opposite shores, make the location exceptionally picturesque. A few years hence and it will be the home of a large population. Streets are being cut through now and building operations for apartment houses have commenced. It will be an ideal home site for those who love to boat, to drive and to walk afield. There are bridges to the Bronx and a motor-boat ferry to the Jersey shore. A number of motor boat clubs have been established in the vicinity, both on the Hudson and on the Harlem sides. The trend of population northward on the West Side makes certain that the Dyckman tract and Kingsbridge sections will be a building field of the near future.

STREET CLEANING IN SAN FRANCISCO.—The Merchants' Association of San Francisco has been conducting a study of street cleaning and sprinkling in that city. A report has been published, reviewing the situation and making recommendations. The wages for laborers are $3 to $3.50 per day. There are 2,735 blocks of paved streets to clean; 33.6 per cent. of which is cleaned by block system, 53.1 per cent. by hand and 13.3 per cent. by machine sweepers. The city is divided into four districts, but the schedule is considered by Engineer H. A. Campbell, who writes the report, as to be "too ambitious," involving an "attempt to cover approximately two-thirds of the city weekly, and the balance more frequently." Sweeping by hand cost 40 cts. per 1,000 sq. yds.; block system, $1.20; by machine and gang pilers, 30 cts.; and by flushing, $1. He recommends putting the force in uniform and under civil service; reducing wages to $2.25; reducing the schedule; detailing special men for paper and litter work; use of a deliquescent salt in sprinkling; and the use of daily, weekly and monthly reports on a regular form.

THE MANAGER'S PERSONALITY.

As a Factor in Successful Superintendency of Buildings—The Relations Between Owners, Managers and Tenants.

CLAUDE B. RICKETTS.*

HAVE you ever stopped to ask of yourselves the question: To what extent does my personality affect the operation of the property under my charge? And if this particular property were destroyed, would my personality carry the same atmosphere of success with it elsewhere? Is it not the "personal" or human element that enters into each and all of these achievements, and contributes largely to the success or failure of them?

What does personality mean? To my way of thinking, personality means the physical and mental attributes with which nature and experience have endowed an individual. This includes disposition, temper, temperament, manner, tact, character—in short, all that goes to make up individualism. It has been well said that "disposition is permanent and settled; temper is transitory and fluctuating. A good disposition will go far toward correcting the errors of temper; but where there is a bad disposition, there are no hopes of amendment."

TACT TOWARD TENANTS.

First of all, what are the manager's relations to his tenants? Right here it is that tact, which has been aptly defined as the sixth sense, comes into play. So essential is this quality to the success of a manager that the lack of it is absolutely fatal. Dealing, as he does, with a mass of ever-shifting, assorted humanity, hailing from the four quarters of the globe, with different standards of judgment and of different temperaments, training and ideals, he must exercise infinite patience and tact in order to reconcile these naturally antagonistic elements and reshape them into a harmonious whole.

Next in order come his relations to his employees. Like master, like man. Does he make them feel that he reposes confidence in them? Does perfect harmony reign? If so, he can command service that no amount of money can purchase. Does he respect them and do they respect him? Will they turn to him in times of trouble, knowing that he will stand by them?

We all know of men of fine reputation as to character and attainments who fly into a passion with an employee and address him in language that is only endured by the unfortunate victim because his position stands between him and privation and poverty. To such an employer service is doled out grudgingly, and it would be difficult to estimate the ultimate harm resulting therefrom, to him.

SWIMMING WITH THE CURRENT.

I further desire to say that office building managers, above all other classes of men holding important positions in the business world, should bear constantly in mind the axiom, that the proper study of mankind is man. In matters of principle it may be well to stand firm, but in trifles, swimming with the current surely involves no sacrifice of self-respect, as so many appear to think. Diplomacy and hypocracy are by no means synonymous terms. For instance: when a tenant remarks that his office is dark, why not say, "Yes, this is a dark room," especially when it is the case. Your sympathy will enable him to bear up under the affliction until better quarters can be secured.

Or, should a tenant complain of poor service, why insist that the service is excellent, when one has but to say, "My dear sir, you cannot imagine how such service embarrasses me! I shall give the matter my immediate attention." Here is where the soft answer that turneth away wrath comes in. Fine words may butter no parsnips, but they certainly grease the wheels of social intercourse to a very appreciable extent.

EVERY BUILDING A PROBLEM.

The fact of the matter is, that every office building and its manager, like every married couple, is a problem to itself, which requires a different solution and must be worked out individually to ensure the smooth running thereof. But there are a few general principles which should be adhered to by us all.

PERSONAL MANNERS.

Our manners should leave nothing to be desired. I recently read an article describing the system pursued by a manager of a certain retail business, having branches in several States. One night this manager telegraphed to each of his clerks: Did you say "Thank you" to every customer to-day? If in the last month you did not say to all of your customers, "Thank you," did you make them feel as if you had? If we cannot attain absolute perfection in that respect, we can at least strive toward this goal. Even the prophet of old did not reach the Promised Land, but died in sight of it.

And, most of all, we must practice self-control, for he who ruleth his spirit is better than he that taketh a city; and often of infinitely greater service to mankind. We have all felt at times that we would give anything in the world to possess the strength and training of a Corbett or a Sullivan and to let go, be the consequences what they may. But sober second thought convinced us of the folly of these desires. The man who keeps his hand on the throttle, the man who is the Captain of his temper is the man who wins. And difficult as the task may be for most of us, it is not impossible. As a wise man once remarked, "Every one can control himself before the Emperor."

And lastly, we can all be gentlemen in the best sense of that much-abused word, considerate and polite to our inferiors, faithful and just to our equals; neither servile nor impertinent to our superiors, if any such there be; keeping watch and ward on our tongues; loth to believe evil, charitable and humane toward all men. If we respect ourselves, others are bound to respect us. Self-reverence, self-knowledge, self-control—these three alone lead life to soverign power.

*Mr. Ricketts is a prominent building manager at St. Louis, and this paper was read before the National Convention of Building Managers at Detroit.

OFFICIAL RECORD OF THE TOWN OF HAAR LAEM DATING BACK TO 1662.

Much interest has been aroused by the exhibition, by the National Arts Club and the American Scenic and Historical Preservation Society, at the National Arts Club in Gramercy Park, of a collection of historical paintings loaned by the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, these including E. L. Henry's "Minuet Purchase of Manhattan Island"; "Fort Amsterdam, 1643"; "Surrender of Mayor Dyer," and John Ward Dunsmore's "Purchase of the Bronx by Jonas Bronck"; "Willett's Capture of Arms in Broad Street," and "Council of War After the Battle of Long Island."

A picture of the company's Broadway building is also shown, together with a map of New York, according to Duke's plan, in 1665. The company also loaned the official records of the old Town of Haarlaem, translated from the original Dutch, and going back to 1662. These records, which are shown in a glass case, are an important part of New York real estate records.

STREET LAMPS COMPARED.

In an effort to end the controversy started by the Market Street Business Men's Improvement Association in Newark over the relative illuminating efficiency of the Toering flaming arc lamps in Market st and the Scott lamps in Broad st, a test of the two was made in public by electrical experts employed by the Public Service Corporation of the Board of Works. After the tests Farley Osgood, superintendent of the Lighting Department of the Public Service Corporation, declared that the entire difficulty could be remedied by a change of globe, and that, when this was done, the Market st lights would measure up to the wishes of the merchants. P. C. Carey, representing the city, agreed that this seemed to be the solution of the difficulty, and expressed the opinion that the change would terminate the controversy. It was a case where the globe made all the difference. The lesson is, be sure that your globe is of a kind to distribute the full power of the electric flame.

LAW DEPARTMENT

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Gentlemen—Being a subscriber for your valuable paper, I would be very glad if you will favor me with the following information through the columns of your valuable publication.

1. In case of a deficiency judgment, could a mortgagee attach personality such as mortgages held by the judgment debtor?

2. Are not satisfaction pieces part of the public records, and are they not open for inspection?

3. In case a borrower makes an untrue statement in an affidavit of title resulting in loss to the lender, how can he be proceeded against?

4. What is meant by "Sueing on the Covenant" in a mortgage?

H. A. TANNENHER.

Answer.—Yes, to first two queries. As to third you can proceed either by civil suit for damages, or criminally for false representation. Sueing on the covenant is a technical legal phrase referring to an old common law form of action, long since abolished in our practice. It was defined as "a form of action which lies to recover damages for breach of a contract under seal."—Ed.

THE WEEK.

THE brokerage business of the week was mainly of the commonplace kind, mostly flats, with a few trades of vacant for improved properties.

In the section south of 59th st, the sale of 6 and 8 West 20th st to Gordon Cunard, the purchase by the Century Holding Co. of 1604 and 1606 Broadway, running through to 732 7th av, and the leasing by Archibald D. Russell and Percy R. Pyne of the former home of the Old Guard at the northwest corner of Broadway and 49th st, the latter to be used by the lessee for his business, are the most interesting transactions of the week.

The announcement by James E. McDonald, executor of the estate of Frank B. McDonald, that the leasehold premises owned by the estate at the southwest corner of 6th av and 32d st had not been sold, was one of the interesting announcements of the week, in that it states that $200,000 had been refused for the leasehold in question, and that with the opening of the Pennsylvania and McAdoo tunnel stations values in Herald Square will advance beyond present day belief. He also states that the property will be immediately improved.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THERE were only thirteen parcels offered at auction this week, all but two being by order of the Court. On Monday Joseph P. Day offered six of the thirteen, two being adjourned to October 4, the other four being bought by parties in interest. On Tuesday Herbert A. Sherman's offering of 210 West 29th st was adjourned to October 5, and Mr. Day sold two to interested parties. Wednesday's offerings were 541 West 29th st and Middletown road, northwest corner of Eastern Boulevard. They were sold for $6,400 and $10,700 respectively.

On Tuesday next Joseph P. Day will offer the Samler estate, lots located on Broadway, at 254th st and opposite Van Cortlandt Park. They are on the direct line of development, a great number of them at or below grade, and together with the liberal terms offered should make the sale a great success.

Y. M. C. A. REALTY CLASS, WEST SIDE BRANCH.

The evening real estate courses of the West Side Young Men's Christian Association will begin their sixth year in an open meeting on the evening of Tuesday, October 12, in the auditorium, 320 West 57th st, at 8 o'clock. The speakers and their subjects on this evening will be: Joseph P. Day, president of the Board of Brokers, "Real Estate Brokerage as a Business"; E. A. Treadwell, "Management of Real Estate as a Business"; Robert E. Simon, vice-president Henry Morgenthau Co., "Real Estate Operating as a Business," and E. B. Boynton, president American Real Estate Co., "Development of Real Estate as a Business." Francis E. Ward will preside. The courses to be opened at this meeting will be those on general real estate by realty specialists, Henry F. Miller's course on Real Estate Law, and Ronald C. Lee's course on Practical Office Management. All interested are invited to attend the opening session, invitations for which will be sent without charge on request to the Educational Director.

THE JAMES ESTATE PROPERTIES ARE AGAIN INVOLVED IN LITIGATION.

A lis pendens was filed in the County Clerk's office on Thursday against the property at the northeast corner of 56th st and Broadway, known as the Rockingham apartment house, the northwest corner of 6th av and 30th st, and several parcels on 12th st, between 5th and 6th avs. A suit has been begun in the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York by Cornelia A. James and Judith C. Prescott against Charles H. Dow, the City Investment Company and the Central Realty, Bond & Trust Company, to have declared void a deed recorded on Oct. 3, 1903, and an alleged ratification of it recorded on Nov. 2, 1903. Holmes & Rogers and Oliver C. Carpenter are the attorneys for the plaintiffs.

Edmund L. Mooney, a lawyer, who with his associates controls a two-thirds interest in the Rockingham property and a half interest in the 30th st and 6th av corner, said that he had not been notified of the suit and knew nothing about it.

BOARD OF BROKERS ELECTION.

There is a contest on in the Real Estate Board of Brokers for the election of a board of governors which is scheduled for Tuesday, October 19.

There are three persons to be elected to the board, and, as is customary, the nominating committee named six members as candidates, namely: Robert R. Rainey, J. W. Mooyer, J. C. R. Eckerson, Irving Ruland, Elisha Sniffin and Charles E. Duross.

Joseph T. Mulligan has been put forward as an independent candidate.

The property adjoins the Studebaker Building and has a further advantage by reason of the fact that the "L" extending through to 7th av has for its neighbor on the north the low structure recently put up by the Provident Loan Society. McDonald Executors to Build—Lease Not Sold.

Referring to an item published in these columns last Saturday regarding the sale of the lease of the premises southwest cor of 6th av and 32d st at a price in the neighborhood of $100,000, the executors of the Estate of Frank B. McDonald, owners of the lease, deny that any transfer of same has taken place. The late Frank B. McDonald, who was a director in the Hudson Trust Company, in 1894 secured a long lease of the northwest cor of Broadway and 32d, and a little later purchased the adjoining premises, 1277 Broadway. In 1902 he was unsuccessful in purchasing the southwest cor of 32d st and 6th av, but secured a long lease of the premises, which run about 50 ft. on the av and about 75 ft. on the st. Along with the Herald he was one of the pioneers of the section and had the utmost confidence in its future. In fact, he refused an offer of $200,000 for the lease of the premises in question. This belief is shared by the executors, who are about to erect a large store and office building on the premises, and the entire building has been practically rented from the plans at prices believed to be topnotchers in that neighborhood. They believe that property in this section has not nearly approached its highest possible point, but that with the opening of the Pennsylvania Terminal and the Hudson Terminal, values will advance beyond belief.

Samler Estate Sales.

More than a thousand inquiries have been received by Joseph P. Day for information about the Samler estate lots in Broadway at 254th st, opposite Van Cortlandt Park, which will be sold at auction next Tuesday in the salesrooms at No. 14 Vesey st.

This is the first important lot sale of the autumn season, and judging by the general interest shown in the sale from the requests for booklets and the great number of visitors to the property, Mr. Day said yesterday that there is a strong demand for good investment property in the line of immediate developments. It has been several years since a large holding of Broadway property has been subdivided, and it will be a great many more probably before such another event in the real estate market takes place, as the few remaining tracts are held by wealthy estates. The terms of sale will enable a buyer to take title to a lot for 20% cash. The city is now finishing the paving of Broadway from Kingsbridge to the city line. The easterly side is finished and the work is well along on the westerly side.

SUBURBAN.

STATEN ISLAND.—Two Westerleigh Plots at Richmond, Staten Island, have been sold by J. Sterling Drake for immediate improvement as follows: For the Chalmers Estate of Richmond, Va., to Titus Challiner, of Bayonne, N. J., size 45x75. For the Layton Estate of Carlisle, O., to Sarah E. Warford, of Brooklyn, N. Y., corner 40x75.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.—William Jeffery, of Plainfield, N. J., has secured the Darby farm of 248 acres, near Plainfield, also the Palmer tract of about twenty-five acres, in Plainfield, and the old Baldwin farm of 100 acres in the Warrenville Boulevard. He has also sold fifteen plots at Mountain View Park, Bound Brook, to Shirley & Johnson, and one plot to H. V. Lough; also two plots to Allen B. Laing, all residents of Plainfield; also thirty-two bungalow plots at Berkeley Heights to Dr. Sidonia Weiss, of New York.

HOKOKUS, N. J.—The old De Vore homestead at Hokokus, N. J., comprising more than sixty acres, has been acquired by the Saddle River Estates, a corporation, of which J. W. Platten is president and J. E. Packer secretary and treasurer. It is understood that George F. Brownell, vice-president of the Erie Railroad, is also interested in the corporation. The property is well located on high ground within a short distance of the station and includes the very attractive woodland near the Ho-Ho-Kus Driving Club. The question of whether or not these new interests are going to develop the property immediately has not yet been determined, although the impression is that development of a high order is contemplated.

DOUGLASTON, L. I.—Plans for a new actors' colony are disclosed in a deed that has been filed in the County Clerk's office in Jamaica. By the deed Frank Daniels and wife, Bessie; William De Wolf Hopper and wife, Nella Bergen, and William Harris, all of Manhattan, convey to the Daniels-Hopper Realty Company for the sum of $55,500 sixty-five lots at Douglas Manor, Douglaston, L. I.

According to the provisions of the deed, no house is to be built on the land for less than $5,000, and there must be no flat-roof building and no two-family houses. No building shall be erected less than twenty feet from the front or side of a lot. No fences will be allowed, hedges and shrubbery being used in their stead. No stable or garage may be built nearer than sixty feet from the street line.

Record Price For Lawrence.

LAWRENCE, L. I.—Franklin L. Partridge and Joseph Fried sold for the Lord estate ten and three-quarter acres at Lawrence, L. I., fronting on Central and Lawrence avs and Broadway, to Henry A. Kayser. There are included in the transaction three cottages, barns and outbuildings; one of the houses, the family home, will be occupied by the purchaser.

The price paid, according to Mr. Partridge, is $225,000, and the fact that it was given by a resident of the town is all the more valuable as a criterion of the manner in which values have increased. Allowing $25,000 for the buildings, the price equals more than $18,000 an acre, there being no record of a higher valuation ever having been given for land in Lawrence, which has developed very rapidly.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1909.

9th.—T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

Sept. 24, 25, 27, 28, 29 and 30.

WHITE LEAD IN PAINTING.

French Congress Passes a Law Prohibiting Its Use after the Expiration of Three Years.

Concerning the final action of the French Congress on the question of the use of white lead in painting, Consul John C. Covert writes from Lyons:

Six months ago this consulate reported that the labor unions of France had unanimously petitioned the Congress to prohibit the use of white lead in paint, alleging that it was very injurious to health. The Congress referred the question to a special committee, which made a thorough investigation of the subject in 86 of the 88 departments of France, as well as in Algeria and Tunis, and reported that of 194 journeymen painters who were sick in the hospitals investigated in 1904 only 27 were sick from diseases caused by the use of white lead. The report said: "The committee has not been able to discover any of the ravages from the use of white lead attributed to it by the labor unions. The death rate among house painters is very low, averaging only 1 in every 7,000 or 8,000 painters." The report declared that the mortality among house painters was large only where there was an excessive use of alcohol.

The bill to prohibit the use of white lead introduced in 1906 was defeated, but another bill for the same purpose was introduced at once. It was enacted by the lower house of the French Congress in 1907 and was discussed in the Senate and by joint committee from time to time until July 13, 1909, when it became a law.

The point upon which the two houses differed was whether an indemnity should be allowed to manufacturers of white lead for damages they might sustain from the loss of a market for the goods they had on hand. The law as finally passed prohibits the use of white lead in painting of buildings, inside or outside, after the expiration of three years. It is calculated that within that time the manufacturers will be able to dispose of their product on hand so that no loss will accrue.

WATERPROOFING OF CONCRETE.

Except for mass concrete foundations, all work should be made as waterproof as possible. Experiment has shown that rich concrete is practically impervious to water, according to the text-book of the Lawrence Portland Cement Co. Mixtures poorer than one to four are apt to be very pervious. Concrete made with larger aggregate is much more impervious than that containing only smaller sizes. Two-and-a-half inch stone, for instance, is far superior to three-quarter inch. Gravel is superior to broken stone in producing imperviousness.

Again, the thicker the wall the less water will flow through it in proportion, and the older the concrete the less pervious it is. Usually, after the flow of water has continued for a few hours, it is found to diminish rapidly in quantity, apparently due to the filling of the pores with the very fine particles carried in suspension by the water. If this action takes place at all, it is produced very rapidly.

On the other hand, if it is not thus rapidly produced, the effect of the water is apt to be injurious, because it and the chemicals it contains will dissolve certain parts of the concrete which will then be carried away and the whole mass become honey-combed, even to the point of failure. The denser the concrete, the less pervious it is; so that the usual line along which experimenters work, is to find means and materials for filling the minute pores which form in the concrete as it hardens. As has been said, extra cement will do this. Hydrate of lime is an exceedingly impalpable material and is often employed. Pure silica or alumina in the form of silt or clay is also effective to a certain extent, and when such clay happens to have the property of slightly swelling when damp, the imperviousness is supposed to be increased.

Certain chemicals are also sometimes added to the cement or the mortar. Some of them are entirely inert and simply act as resisters of flow, because they produce in connection with water a capillary phenomena of a negative variety, similar to that which exists between mercury and glass or between oil and water. Others are supposed to form insoluble precipitates as soon as extra water is encountered, these precipitates filling the voids as does the silt or extra cement above described.

Moisture is prevented from getting below the surface of a concrete structure in many cases by special treatment of that surface. Long continued trowelling will produce a dense condition such as is found in a sidewalk, which is practically impervious to water.

All methods of surface treatment have the disadvantage that they prevent further hardening of the concrete as soon as they are installed, because no more moisture can penetrate to the interior, and it is moisture which is essential to further hardening.

COTTON SUBSTITUTED FOR LEATHER IN BELTING.—So diversified is the builder's and architect's profession that anything new in any department of building equipment is of interest to him. Therefore an improvement even in a power belt commands some attention at least from the owner. Perhaps there have been excessive belt repairs on a fan, a pump, an elevator, an automatic stoker, etc. A local firm is on the market with a solid woven cotton belt made from long fibre, hard twisted yarn, especially selected with due regard to tensile strength, uniformity and durability. The belting is impregnated with a dressing by a secret process. It is waterproof, alkali acids, gas fumes, cold, heat or steam will not effect it. It has no plies, laps, stitches, or cemented parts and therefore cannot peel or curl up. Either side can be run on the pulley, permitting the reversing of the belting. It can be laced in the same manner as leather belting with rawhide or wire. Its arc of contact is said to be greater on the pulley than other types of belting, hence it will transmit more power. It is a belting that should give especially good results in excavating machinery or portable pumps.

Vol. LXXXIV. OCTOBER 9, 1909. No. 2169

THE increase in the rates for call money, which has prevailed in Wall Street of late, is probably only a temporary disturbance, and its effect upon the stock market has been distinctly wholesome. It is wholly improbable that the real estate and building market will during the coming year be disturbed by any embarrassing scarcity of loanable capital, because if for no other reason, the dominant financial interests will not allow the speculative campaign for higher prices in securities to tie up too large a percentage of the available supply of floating capital. At the same time it must always be remembered that the inelastic currency system of the United States distinctly encourages alternate periods of excessive ease in the money market and excessive stringency, and one can never be quite sure that an accumulation of speculative and legitimate business demands on the money market may not suddenly snatch the situation out of the hands of the controlling financial interests. Those interests need to keep money comparatively easy, because of the large amounts of new securities, which they will be obliged to float during the coming year; but there are certain factors in the situation which they cannot control—in spite of the object lesson in the necessity for control, which they received two years ago. They have no way of adapting the supply of loanable capital to the business needs of the country; and they can have none, until some kind of a central bank is organized, with a power of note issue, which can be properly regulated. There is no branch of business in the country that would be more benefitted by an effective regulation of the money market than the real estate and building interest. That interest suffers far more from periods of tight money than it gains from periods of easy money. During periods of easy money the interest rate even on thoroughly good mortgages never falls below a certain figure, whereas in periods of tight money the speculators, the manufacturers and the merchants almost crowd the real estate borrower out of the market. A sound regulation of the supply of loanable capital would consequently help the real estate borrower in periods of stringency without doing him any harm in periods of ease. It is only speculators in stocks and in general business who benefit from very low rates for call money.

THERE is every evidence that the current municipal campaign will not arouse as much excitement among the voters as the last three municipal campaigns have done. The contest will lack the sharp personal moral interest which it had on those former occasions. The most prominent issue discussed by the campaign speakers will necessarily be that of municipal economy, and it is at the present time very difficult to make the New Yorker take a very eager interest in an issue of that description. When taxes are being increased the immediate burden falls upon a few thousand tax-payers, and the hundreds of thousands of tenants who constitute the voting population of the city do not have the fact of the increase brought home to them in any tangible way. Of course they will be obliged to pay most of the increase eventually, but when they pay they will not know it, and it usually takes a good many years to distribute the increasing burdens among the actual tenants of the buildings. This is one of the reasons why in England, where the tenants pay the taxes, the municipal voters take so much more interest in questions of municipal economy. It would be politically impossible, however, to introduce the English system into New York, and it may be hoped that little by little the local voters will come to take more of an interest in questions of municipal economy. The current campaign, however it comes, out, will at least have the merit of familiarizing the voters with certain important aspects of the business administration of New York City. During three elections these purely business questions have been subordinated to moral and personal issues, which, however important and interesting in themselves, tended to obscure the fact that the city of New York is primarily a business corporation. The prominence which these business questions will obtain during the campaign will at least enable the voters to estimate with more knowledge and accuracy the success or failure of any administration that may be elected.

LAST SPRING it looked as if the proposed constitutional amendment of permitting the city to issue as much stock as it wants for subway construction would bulk large in the campaign; but events have since reduced this matter to one of subordinate importance. It is true that the platforms of the several municipal parties all of them favor subway construction with the funds of the city, and that consequently, the party voters will in all probability be instructed to vote for the amendment. Inasmuch, however, as the funds of the city will not be required for the construction of new subways, it is unimportant whether the amendment is or is not passed. At least two responsible bidders have agreed to construct new subways with their own money under the indefinite franchises provided for by the new Rapid Transit Act, and it would of course be foolish for the city to use its credit for the building of new lines, unless it were necessary to do so. No doubt it is still on the whole advisable to adopt the constitutional amendment, because it is possible that the attitude of these bidders might change in case they saw that the city was physically disqualified from protecting its own interest in a municipal subway system. But we do not believe that even though the amendment were defeated, the Interborough Co. and the Gaffney syndicate would refuse to make their bids under the existing law. They must realize that local public opinion is absolutely agreed upon demanding the effective municipal control of the subway system, and that the people of New York would submit to even further delays, rather than consent to any alteration in the existing Rapid Transit Act. They want new subways badly, but they have decided that these means of communication shall not be alienated by the city even for so long a period as has the existing subway.

IN CONNECTION with the subway it is only fair to point out that the anti-Tammany speakers are wholly unjust to the existing Board of Estimate in criticizing it for not having appropriated more money for subway construction. The Board has cordially co-operated with the old and the new Rapid Transit Commission in all their plans for subway construction except one. It promptly approved the plans of the old Board, and if those plans went astray it was only because private capitalists would not and the city could not carry them out. Neither would it have been possible for the Board of Estimate to have authorized the construction of the Broadway-Lexington avenue route. The debt limit was absolutely prohibitive of any such action. The only subway which the Board of Estimate refused to finance which it could have financed was the Fourth avenue subway in Brooklyn, and in this refusal the Board was wholly justified. Moreover it has received its justification at the hands of that very body which criticized it most virulently for its refusal—the Public Service Commission. Under the new law the cost of the Fourth Avenue Subway will be levied on the property benefitted by its construction; and the city will be spared the expense which the Public Service commission wished to impose upon it, and which the Board of Estimate rightly refused to sanction.

THERE can be no doubt that during the past few months Times Square has been the location of the most interesting real estate developments. Indications are accumulative that the long expected business development of the Square is destined to take place during the next few years. It is true that the proposed improvements include two new hotels, and two new theatres, which will tend to keep the Square restricted to its existing employment. But, on the other hand four new office buildings are also either planned or are under construction. One retail clothing concern is already situated on the Square, and another has leased a site a couple of blocks to the north. Hence it looks as if a good class retail trade would gradually take possession of Broadway and 7th avenue between 47th street and the Park, and that the automobile industry would gradually become somewhat less conspicuous in that particular region. On the other hand, the remaining sites available for improvement on the Square will eventually be occupied by office buildings, with the lower floors devoted either to theatres, stores or both. Among the sites still available for improvement must be included not only the old Brewster carriage warehouse, but also the Victoria and the New York Theatre. The sites on which these theatres stand have become so valuable that they will not in the long run be used exclusively for theatrical purposes. A theatre alone cannot earn any sufficient interest on the value of the property. In all probability the improvement of these sites will be postponed for some years; but eventually both of these buildings, which were the first visible evidences of the future awaiting Long Acre Square, are bound to be superseded. Mr. Oscar Hammerstein assuredly proved his foresight in building these two theatres; but he has also shown by the location of the Manhattan Opera House that it is really unnecessary to situate places of amusement on very expensive pieces of property.

THE recession which has occurred in brick-building is now well defined. An estimate from the bricklayers' headquarters to the Record and Guide is that about forty-five per cent of the machanics in that line are idle. Much of the work that was in hand has now been topped out, and new work has not yet come forward to take its place. It will be recalled that in the Spring and early Summer the bricklayers were busy when some other trades were still idle; and now the reverse is true. From the headquarters of the Building Trades Departpartment of the Central Federated Union the Record and Guide is informed that the state of employment in all the trades represented there (which is exclusive of the bricklayers) is "good." All the building trades are busy except the bricklayers. It is not altogether owing to a falling off in the total amount of construction that the brick men are not all employed, but, as a high officer in the consolidated trades says, rival materials, such as concrete, are in part responsible. Later on in the Fall the brick masons expect a full resumption of work in their line. Their judgment is based mainly on the number of plans filed that have not yet been put under contract. This expectation accords with the prevailing public belief that the steady gain in activity in general business throughout the country must in varied ways and through diverse channels produce but one ultimate result, the complete revival of the real estate market for which the builders are now waiting. While plan-filing continues at a low rate, compared with the great number filed during the first part of the year, those plans which are coming in are of good variety and of good quality in their respective classes. Mr. George F. Johnson has filed plans for a twelve-story house at the northwest corner of Broadway and 113th st that is estimated to cost $1,500,000. Some of the costliest apartments in the city have come from Mr. Johnson's hands. This will be another. Morningside Heights, where it is to stand, is the scene of the finest residential development on the island at the present time. Nothing in real estate development could be more certain than the bright future of this section, dominated as it will always be by Columbia University and the Episcopal Cathedral, with the constant uplifting influences radiating from them.

THE SAMLER FARM at Riverdale was an instance where lots regarded as suitable for improvement with a good sort of cottage have brought high prices at auction. The opportunities of obtaining an exclusive home site, at a price not regarded as too costly for a dwelling, are becoming rare in New York for the average home-seeker. This was the second sale this year in the Riverdale section, and it will be interesting to note how long a time elapses before building operations become general at Riverdale, on the properties that have been opened, compared to the length of time required to develop other sections in the city.

HELL GATE BRIDGE.—The engineers of the New York Connecting Railroad Company are working on revised plans for the Hell Gate Bridge, which they hope will meet the approval of the Municipal Art Commission. The construction of the roadbed of the connecting railway will be begun simultaneously with the bridge work.

—President L. T. Miller, of the New York, Westchester & Boston Railroad, says he is pushing forward the construction of the road with all possible speed. It is to be a high-speed electric line with four tracks. President Miller denies that he is paying as much as $6,000 an acre for right of way.

PATRICK J. REVILLE, Supt. of Buildings.

Ebb and Flow in Building.

Bradstreet's, October 9, will say: Returns to Bradstreet's from 86 cities of the United States show an aggregate expenditure for building during September this year of $57,931,459, as against $65,988,028 in August, and $50,191,974 in September a year ago. There is here indicated a decrease of 12.2 per cent. from August, but a gain of 15.4 per cent. over September a year ago. Sixty out of 86 cities show increases over September last year.

WHO WILL PAY FOR THE TESTS?—When Chief Engineer Lewis asked the Board of Estimate for an appropraition of $20,000, with which to carry forward tests of fireproofing materials, the Comptroller moved that he be requested to apply to the Board of Aldermen to issue special revenue bonds. The motion being carried, the matter comes before the Building Committee of the Board of Aldermen.

CONSTRUCTION

EVOLUTION IN DWELLING CONSTRUCTION

Growing Preference For Homes Mainly Fireproof, as Illustrated in Newark—The Structural Process Described.

THE interest aroused in London architectural and building journals over American fireproof houses is responsible for this article. It is an amusing circumstance that a country which produces such impracticable (though picturesque) dwellings should show so great an interest in an intensely practical form of building. What has been a matter of so much conjecture on the other side may still be comparatively unknown to some of the very Americans who are producing it. It is to those that this article is directed.

The illustrations show unburnable homes of the terra cotta type. They would be equally true to their name had their walls been of concrete or brick, but probably would not then have been so novel to the casual reader. The photographs and plans show to what an extent artistic results can be obtained in the new material and how readily it permits of arrangement in plan. The architect will recognize immediately that he can obtain results as readily as in his usual forms of masonry and almost as varied forms as in frame.

But it is not to the architect particularly we wish to appeal, but to the land owner and the builder. The questions which arise in their minds are questions of cost. The real estate man must know the cost before he can form an opinion as to whether or not certain localities will stand certain types of houses. The builder must know how the work goes together before he can figure what it will cost him to put it together. To both of these we will say right on the start that the unburnable house is not the cheapest proposition. If their clients are not people of foresight and people who recognize and are willing to pay for permanence and solidity in their homes, they should stick to the cheaper forms of construction.

The fireproof house is apt to be from the very seriousness of its materials a simpler house than the same plan executed in frame, and this simplicity, while it appeals to the person of taste, looks like barrenness to the uncultivated. If an improved property can only be sold for a fixed sum, the frame building will be larger and more pretentious than its fireproof neighbor and it would be folly to claim that in the market the majority would desire the smaller building. In the nature of things the man who builds his own home is apt to do it better than the man who builds a house to sell and so it follows that in general the home builder will have to educate the public rather than the speculative builder. But he must follow public taste and this will soon demand that he build fireproof houses.

HOUSES FOR MR. J. WILLIAM CLARK AT NEWARK.

Examples of hollow tile construction, with roof and attic floors of wood.

The photographs show nothing of the structural process so a little description of it will not be out of place.

The foundations are in general of concrete up to the first floor beams and, like all concrete, this should be waterproofed. Interior basement walls are of tile set end on end and reinforced by grouting with concrete after setting ⅜-in. reinforcing rods vertically in the openings. On top of the bearing walls so formed are set the alternating concrete beams and tile filling, both being supported from beneath with wood forms. The floor extends to the outside of the outside walls all around and the upper walls are begun right on top of these floors. When the second story lever is reached the forms are set in place again and the process of laying floor tile and pouring the floor beams is repeated.

In the usual case the roof is not thoroughly fireproof largely because of the difficulty of pouring concrete on sloping surfaces. Some daring designers have considered a frame roof to be illogical on an otherwise fireproof house and have built the only type of fireproof roof possible, a flat one. Public taste is not educated to this type and such a building must be treated with the greatest charm to overcome the prejudice against the oddity of its appearance. To further elucidate the problem of building a terra-cotta house we are giving a part of the specification of one of them.

Concrete floor beams.—All floor beams to be 4 x 8 in., of concrete, 1, 2, 4 and reinforced with one ⅝-in. twisted ironrod secured in place 1 in. from bottom by nailing to blocks in form. These rods to be bent up at 45 degrees at a point 6 in. from their bearing, and to run to within 1 in. of the top of the beam and to continue parallel with the top of the beam to the outside of its bearing. All beams to follow framing plans provided by architects, which plans will show sizes of girders, lintels and all structural concrete members.

On top of floors lay sleepers at right angles to beams and bed in cinder concrete.

All lintels that carry ends of floor beams to be 12 ins. deep by the thickness of the wall and to be 12 ins. longer than the width of the opening and reinforced as specified for floor beams.

Sills.—All sills to be of concrete cast on the ground, and to have a drip and to be detailed on top to fit a rebated wooden sill.

Terra Cotta Tile.—No bearing wall, outside wall or floor to be built of tile less than 8 ins. thick. Non-bearing partitions to be built of 3-in. tile. Window and outside door frames to be detailed with a strip on the outside which will bed in the lintel at the top, and will fit between 4 and 3-in. tile, which will form the jambs. Frames to be provided with a beveled strip on outside casing, which will be removed after stucco has been applied, the space caulked with oakum and the joint covered with a mold. The sills to be rebated on the bottom to cover the rebate in the cast concrete sill and for a weatherproof joint.

The question of waterproofing is a troublesome one and will cause considerable annoyance unless it is properly answered.

Good workmanship in laying the tile and applying the stucco are the surest waterproofing methods, but since this is not an insurable condition it is well to waterproof or furr the inside of the tile wall and paint or apply a waterproofing compound to the stucco. Each is comparatively inexpensive and together they insure results.

All the foregoing will prove the assertion that a fireproof house is not the cheapest method of enclosing a living space but will leave no doubt that it is a valuable and permanent way of doing so. The fact that there is an element in America of sufficient taste and appreciation to want simple, safe and durable homes is attested by the great activity in building unburnable homes. That real estate interests are appreciating this is proved by the fact that six of the best class of developments around New York have adopted fireproof methods and have sold their houses. To the man who builds for renting there is no need to discuss the advisability of an indestructible building.

SUPERINTENDENT MURPHY AND THE GRANDSTANDS.

TO safely provide seating accommodations for more than a million persons and not have one accident reported as due to faulty construction is the accomplishment of Superintendent of Buildings, Edward S. Murphy, immediately preceding and during the late Hudson-Fulton Celebration. So heroic was the unprecedented task and so successful was its execution that the Board of Aldermen, the chairman of the Public Safety Committee of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commission, builders and civilians are voicing their appreciation of the work of the man who presides over the Bureau of Buildings at 4th av and 18th st. This is a brief outline of what a tremendous task devolved upon one man.

HON. EDWARD S. MURPHY.

Permits were issued for 900 reviewing stands, seating 500,000 persons. On two days last week every one of those grandstands were filled. For each one of these stands, plans had to be inspected, all the lumber that was proposed to be used in their construction had to be up to the same stress standards maintained in the construction of frame buildings. For two weeks before the opening of the fete Mr. Murphy was at work from early morning steadily until 1 o'clock the following morning. Every stand that was erected in this city had his personal supervision. Responsibility for the safety of the people who were to witness the big parades devolved upon no one else but him.

Twice a day he made tours of the parade route. When he found lumber being used of insufficient strength, out it went. He watched the construction of each stand from the laying of foundation beams to the placing of facing slabs. During the parades he had twenty inspectors watching the stands, to note the first sign of collapse, to check with promptness any attempt on the part of those sitting in the temporary structures to start "swing cheering" as they do at the college foot and baseball games; to prevent any unforeseen accident. Then when it was all over, it was Superintendent Murphy that was responsible for the safe removal of these structures, and when the last stand came down this week, there was not a single charge against the department of carelessness or negligence, and the blotter was free from the reports of accidents.

On Thursday morning William McCarroll, chairman of the Committee on Public Safety of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commission, sent this note:

"The fact that the Hudson-Fulton celebration has passed without accident to mar it indicates the watchfulness and efficiency of your department in regulating the construction of reviewing stands.

"As chairman of the Public Safety Committee I desire to express our gratification and appreciation which the citizens at large must feel in view of the fact that notwithstanding the great number of stands and the demands made upon them, all proved themselves up to the standard of safety."

Letters have come from many sources, and builders seen this week by a representative of the Record and Guide voluntarily commended Mr. Murphy upon his signal success in safeguarding the public in this department.

—In many European cities the street architecture is much enlivened by the high coloring and artistic ceramic decorations on the large stone, brick and especially the concrete buildings.

CONCRETE IN RAILROAD CONSTRUCTION.

The New Standard Platforms and Signal Towers in the New York Central's Electric Zone—Other New Standard Forms in the Metropolitan District.

RAILROADS, impelled by some general feeling of remorse for past neglect and low standards, have begun an architectural Renaissance. Buildings, bridges and platforms of a temporary or poor character are being replaced by durable and more handsome ones. Formerly the standard for a railroad way station was a low red frame building, with plank platforms. In those cities where the law required fireproof walls the "low, red frame building" became a red brick one of like dimensions. Bridge abutments were built of stone masonry, and signal towers were called "shanties," being of rude construction, and nearly always a disfigurement.

Concrete has been a material which has helped along these improvements, by reason of its cheapness, adaptability and lasting qualities. The Atlas Portland Cement Company, of 30 Broad st, has published a book, "Concrete in Railroad Construction" (232 pages, illustrated) which groups together a large number of examples of the use of concrete in various forms by railroads. Concrete has been wonderfully adaptable to the purposes of the big lines. It has become in fact their principal building material, replacing stone, wood and steel in many of their functions, and performing other functions for which they never were employed. From the many examples given in the book, the following notes are taken in relation to concrete work in the Metropolitan district.

KINGSBRIDGE SIGNAL TOWER, N. Y. C. & H. R. R. R.

PLATFORMS.

While plain concrete has been used for many years in the construction of low platforms at main stations the adoption of high platforms on rapid transit and suburban lines during the past few years has opened up a new field for reinforced concrete. The engineering department of the Hudson River Railroad, under the supervision of Chief Engineer George A. Harwood, has designed a standard system of platforms for the stations in the electric zone. The material of which they will be constructed is concrete, and the type comprises two longitudinal reinforced 8-inch walls with a 6-inch reinforced deck or floor plate spanning the walls and overhanging 2 feet 6 inches on either side. The width varies from 12 to 15 feet.

Expansion joints are provided every 25 feet, and all the exposed edges are rounded to a 1-inch radius. The concrete is 1:3:6, surfaced with half an inch of cement finish mixed in the proportion of 1 of cement to 1½ of sand. The suburban stations have two high platforms—one on each side of the group of four tracks, and one low platform in the middle. All stations are provided with overhead bridges or subways, which connect the platforms.

The Avenue J platform of the B. R. T. Company, designed by the engineering department of the system, under the supervision of W. S. Menden, and constructed by Thomas G. Carlin, of Brooklyn, in the year 1907, is another instance of the new style of concrete railroad platforms. Expansion joints are provided every 60 feet by separating the construction entirely with tarred paper. Clinton wire cloth was used for reinforcement.

FIRST AVENUE VIADUCT, BROOKLYN.

A viaduct 788 ft. long, designed by the engineering department of the Bay Ridge Improvement Company, under the supervision of Chief Engineer L. V. Morris, was completed this Summer by W. H. Gahagan, contracting engineer, at Brooklyn, for the First avenue crossing over the Long Island Railroad tracks. The width of 68 ft. 10 ins. is divided by the main girders into two roadways and two sidewalks. For half the length of the viaduct the main girders are supported on concrete piers, and the floor system consists of reinforced concrete floor slabs supported by cross beams encased in concrete. The sidewalks have a granolithic finish one inch thick, consisting of 1 part cement to two parts of trap rock screenings. The pavement for the roadways consists of a 1-inch binder course, with a 2-inch wearing surface of concrete.

THE NEW STYLE IN TRAINSHEDS.

The trainshed for the Lackawanna's new passenger terminal at Hoboken, N. J., was an entirely new departure from the hitherto considered standard type of structure. Instead of comprising a series of high arches, it consists essentially of a low-arched short-span longitudinal sections, just high enough to clear the largest locomotive in use on the line, with smoke ducts of reinforced concrete, through which the locomotive gases are discharged into the open air. Each low-arched section covers two tracks, and the sides of the smoke ducts are built high enough to prevent driving rain or snow from reaching the platforms. In addition to the smoke ducts, the roof, platforms and fence footings are of cinder and reinforced concrete construction. The shed was designed and patented by Chief Engineer Lincoln Bush, of the D., L. & W. R. R., and was erected under his supervision by the company's forces. The same type of shed has been used since for the Scranton station on the same road, and by the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Co. at its new terminal in Chicago.

THE NEW SIGNAL TOWERS.

The standard signal towers of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, within the electric zone, are now built of a combination of brick and concrete. They are two storied and four-sided, and have a overhanging bay window in the second story. The walls are brick, on a concrete base, with sills, lintels, cornice, coping and the bay window with supporting brackets of reinforced concrete.

The excellent finish of this work was obtained by floating the green concrete with water and rubbing it with a mortar brick composed of 1 part cement to 2 parts sand. The floor and roof construction consists of 1:2:4 concrete slabs, reinforced with ½-inch round rods, supported by steel I-beams.

The Grove street signal tower on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western at Hoboken is built entirely of reinforced concrete, from designs by Chief Engineer Lincoln Bush. The side walls rest on creosoted piles spaced 2 feet 8 inches apart, while the front and rear walls are carried by reinforced concrete girders spanning from side wall to side wall. At the first floor level there is a concrete platform leading to the iron stairs in the rear which is supported on reinforced concrete brackets cantilevering 3 feet from the side wall of the building. The roof, which overhangs 1 foot 10 inches, is a reinforced concrete slab.

POWER PLANTS AND SHOPS.

The new power plant of the New Haven Road at Cos Cob, three miles west from Stamford, was designed after the Spanish Mission style of architecture for the exterior. The foundations, column footings and walls up to the water table are monolithic concrete. For the water-table, window arches, coping and window sills, monolithic blocks are used, and the walls above the water-table are of hollow concrete blocks, 10 ins. by 12 ins. by 24 ins. With the exception of the basement floor, which is 1:3:5 concrete laid directly upon the foundation rock, the floor system consists of concrete slabs, reinforced with twisted steel rods, carried on the top flanges of I-beams. The plant was designed, erected and equipped by the Westinghouse-Church-Kerr Company under the direction of Mr. E. H. McHenry, vice-president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

HOBOKEN PIERSHED, D., L. & W. R. R.

The Mott Haven car shops of the New York Central Railroad, erected last year, consist structurally of 2½-in. cement mortar curtain walls reinforced with metal lath, resting on a concrete foundation wall.

METROPOLITAN ELEVATORS TURNED OVER.

The Otis Elevator Company a few days ago officially turned over to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company the six elevators installed in the 700-ft. tower. While some of the lifts have been in operation since the tower was thrown open to tenants by the Hedden Construction Co. almost a year ago, the elevator company has been responsible for the operation of these cars ever since. By its act of relinquishment the installation is officially completed.

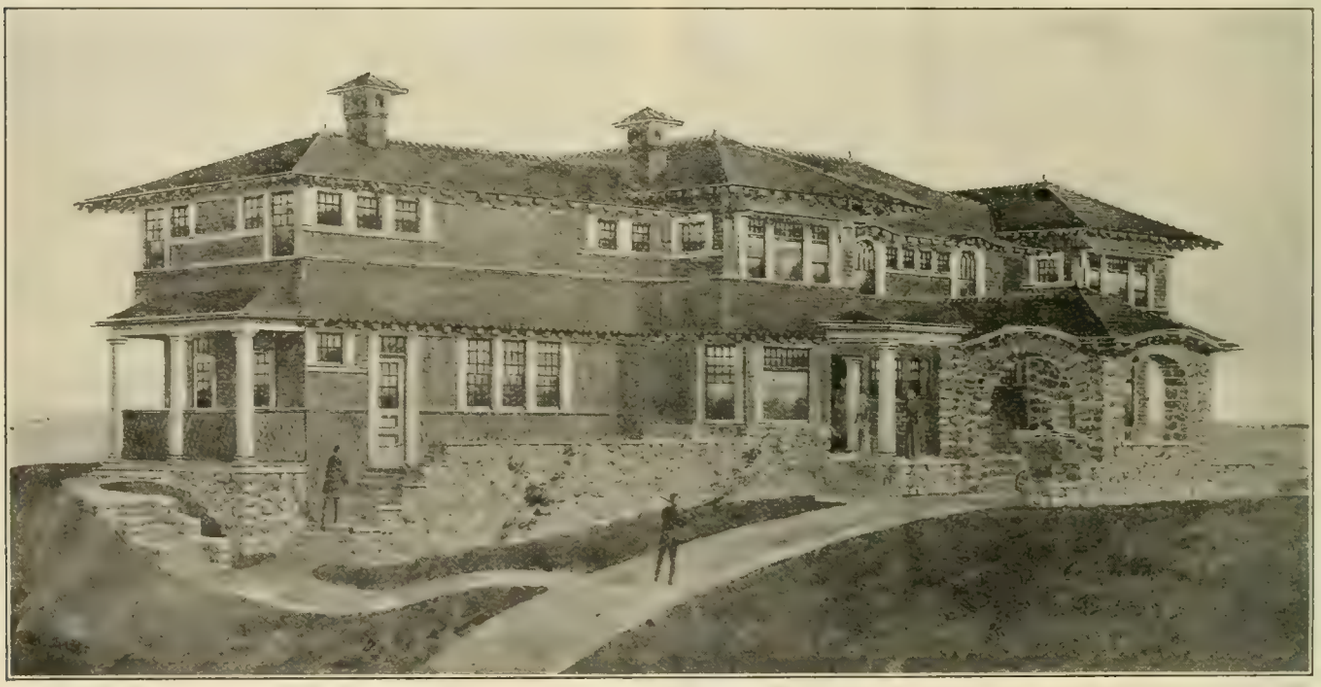
These elevators are the most remarkable of any ever installed in any structure, it is said. They travel a greater height than do those in any other structure, five having a rise of forty-one stories and one continues to the forty-fourth story, or 585.6 ft. above the sidewalk. This elevator ascends to the observation platform directly under the lantern in one continuous trip. The type of elevator is mechanically similar to that in the Singer Building, the pioneer in fast high-climbing traction elevator equipment. In that building the highest rise is 550 ft., or from sidewalk to the fortieth floor. The Metropolitan tower has two more elevators than the Singer.

Improved safety appliances have been installed on the Metropolitan elevators. They have the new Otis spring return oil buffer, the regulation safeties, the three-point drive eliminating end thrust on worm shaft, the Cruickshank safety and other devices. Each car is equipped with an electric switch control and an emergency wheel which, should an accident occur despite all automatic safeties, the operator can use to stop his car and thus lower it from a possible position between floors to the nearest gate.

The absence of balancing chains is a notable feature with these elevators. A special cable was designed to overcome the nerve wracking clanking of chains against the side of a descending car. This cable is 3⅝ ins. wide and ½ in. thick and hangs from the bottom of the car to the bottom of the counterweight. The cars travel somewhat less than 600 ft. a minute, the legal rate. Each car is held by six ⅝ in. ropes of copper and steel and will withstand a weight of 20,000 lbs.

The Otis Elevator Company has installed its general superintendent and construction, repair and emergency equipments in a building on 11th av, between 26th and 27th sts, where an automobile emergency service for both day and night will be maintained. The telephone call will be Chelsea 6400 or Rector 700. The company made this extension so as to save as little time as possible in reaching the scene of elevator trouble, whether it be in a lift of its own make or that of some other company. Its executive office will continue to be at 17 Battery pl.

A WINNING COMBINATION.—The working plans for the new office and theatre building at Times square, southeast corner of 43d st, are practically finished and the site will be cleared as soon as the tenants are out, which Greenwood & Co., the agents in the leasing of the site, say will be within thirty days. The new owners of the lease are styled the "Forty-Third Street Building Company," and Frank R. Tate, of St. Louis, is president. The combination of theatre and office building is expected to be a solution of the problem of making a building pay on such a costly site. It has been tried in several cases in other choice localities, of late years, and each time with apparent success.



NEW HOME AT WEST HAMPTON.

Foster Crampton Building One That Overlooks Both the Bay and Ocean.

WORK is well under way on the new country home of Foster Crampton, at West Hampton, L. I., overlooking Moriches and Quantuck bays, and the ocean beyond. Work has progressed to the first floor. The following features are noted from the plans:

Two stories in height, the house is of rough stone on the first story, with a porte cochere of the same material on the front, supported by Doric columns. The upper part of the facade is of California redwood shingles, as is also the roof. With a breadth of 97.4 feet, the house has a depth of 50.2 feet. There is a front piazza of stone 56.2 feet long and a rear piazza of 32.2 feet in length. At one end is a stone servant's porch, 16.10 feet long. The house has chimneys of light colored brick, surmounted by blue terra cotta tile coverings.

The central feature of this house is a living and observation room in the middle of the first floor, 31.10½x20 feet, with windows and doors affording a sweeping view of the water. Adjoining is a well-arranged reception room, 15.2x15.2 feet, while a wing surrounding one end of the veranda has a sun parlor 15.3x23.6 feet in area. Adjoining the other side of the living room is a spacious dining-room, 15.2x24 feet, while a butler's pantry, 12x8.2 feet, divides it from the kitchen, 16.2x14.2 feet. Beyond the kitchen is a large laundry and a back stairway leading to the servants' rooms above. On the second floor are five large bed chambers, four bathrooms and two servants' rooms, with bath.

A HOME BY THE SEA.
NEW RESIDENCE FOR FOSTER CRAMPTON AT WEST HAMPTON, L. I.
J. Sarsfield Kennedy, Architect.

A broad stairway in the centre of the house is finished in chestnut. Most of the other interior trim is whitewood, while the floors of the upper story are of yellow pine and of the lower story oak.

J. Sarsfield Kennedy, 44 Court st, Brooklyn, is the architect, and Rufus H. Brown, 1357 Rogers av, Brooklyn, is the general contractor. Mr. Crampton, the owner, is a lawyer at 60 Wall st, Manhattan.

COST OF ROCK EXCAVATION.—A method which the late H. Waller Brinckerhoff used in his calculations is given in the Engineering Record by a friend to whom Mr. Brinckerhoff dictated it years ago. "He said this method had been developed by the late John F. Ward and was as accurate as anything of such an approximate nature could be. I wrote the method out in my notebook at the time, and tested it on several occasions, but have not thought of it for 10 years, at least, so I do not know how applicable it may be at present. Possibly some of your readers may like to compare its results with their experience. For open cuts, the rule is to multiply the cubic yards of rock to be excavated by 60 and add to the result the product of 20 times the area in square feet of the bottom and sides of the cut. The sum divided by the cubic yards of excavation will give the approximate probable cost of the work per cubic yard. For example, a cut 30 ft. wide and 15 ft. deep has a volume of about 17 cu. yds. and a surface area of 60 sq. ft. per foot of length. Hence $(17 \times 60) \div (60 \times 20) \div 17 =$ about $1.30 per cubic yard. If the excavation is in tunnel the cost will be twice the amount in open cut, and if in shafts it will be three times as much."

SOUTH BROOKLYN DOCK IMPROVEMENT.

Bids have gone in for the erection of the shed on the first of the six piers to be built at South Brooklyn. These piers will range from 1,300 to 1,600 ft. in length, with a beam of 150 ft., to compare with a length of 829 ft. and a beam of 92 ft., which are the dimensions of the longest Chelsea pier. But the latter are double decked, whereas the South Brooklyn piers will have but one floor; and in respect to magnitude and cost it may be well to state at the outset that the South Brooklyn will not equal the Chelsea improvement.

The longest pier ever constructed in this vicinity was on the Hudson, for the first tide-water terminal of the Erie Railroad. This was a mile long and was built fifty years ago at Piermont. It was abandoned when the Erie bored through Bergen Hill and came out at Jersey City. The South Brooklyn piers will be built on wood spiles capped with concrete, and will have a reinforced concrete floor. The sheds will be of steel-frame. Included in the plans is a seawall to extend from 28th to 36th st, the space inside to be filled and used as a plaza in front of the piers. The depth of water will be 35 ft. Railroad tracks will be installed on all. Estimated cost of piers is $226,000 each. The contracts for the first pier shed have just been advertised. The Morris & Cummings Dredge Company has the contract for all the dredging, at 46.8 cents per cubic yard.

COMMON SENSE IN DECORATION.

By ROYAL CORTISSOZ.

WE have got into a queer way of thinking that there is nothing between the full dress performance of the stately mural decorator and the commonplace stencil of the journeyman, who will put a room in shape by day's work.* There are, of course, any number of interesting and charming effects to be developed between those two extremes if only we would use common sense and make practical use of the modest opportunities that lie all around us, and employ the talent that is everywhere to be found.

As it is with painting, so it is with sculpture. We are fond of erecting statues in our public squares. We set a good many of them every year in front of our public buildings or on the buildings themselves. It is a splendid thing that we should do this, but what of our architectural sculpture generally, the ornamental details in stone or terra cotta which may not be individually so conspicuous as a statue, but which are actually of immense importance to the beauty of a building? Look around you in any city, and you will see that even on the facades of some of our most imposing edifices this work is without any special character, without any artistic value. Why is it? Because we do not use common sense. Our greatest sculptors are rightly kept busy on statues. Why does it not occur to us to occupy their clever juniors on these details? In the renaissance such work was not always left to the journeyman. Go into the old palace at Urbino, into the Certosa at Pavia, or into any other of a hundred buildings in Italy, you will see door frames and mantelpieces that were carved by sculptors, by artists in the fullest sense of the term.

The American who is building a gorgeous house for himself thinks nothing of paying a large sum for a mantelpiece extracted from one of those old palaces. Why has he not the courage to tell his architect to get hold of some young sculptor, and for the two of them to put their heads together and make him a work of art in the shape of a mantelpiece or a door frame? And here again I would point out there are many opportunities for the use of sculpture lying between the great statue and decorative architectural carving. In the Piazza of St. Mark at Venice there are three flagstaffs set upon bronze pedestals, and in all Venice there is nothing more artistic than those very pedestals, which a sculptor, Alessandro Leopardi, modeled. What village in the United States is without its flagstaff, and how often is that flagstaff enhanced by even a hint of beauty? Wouldn't it be wise, wouldn't it be the part of common sense, to spend a compartively small sum of money on a handsome pedestal in lasting bronze? Nay, if you could not afford even that, could you not take pains over something in a cheaper material? An artist can do wonderful things in wood if only he will give his mind to it—and if only we will all get the habit of valuing beauty for its own sake and not make a fetish of its cost.

RAISING CORNICES.

The sheet metal sub-contractors have their own problems to solve when the building is going up. One of them is raising cornices when they are very large. Seldom are two jobs alike, which precludes the use of precedent as an instructor. Henry Hall, in reply to a request for his experiences in this line, stated in the Metal Worker that on very high buildings the derrick is often used, substituting a light steel cable for the rope.

"Naturally it is very slow work to wind twenty or twenty-five stories of cable, and as there is most always a hoisting machine, similar to a freight or passenger elevator, we generally plan to make cornice so that it can be carried or taken up on the elevator. I have known of very large cornices hoisted this way, but 16 ft. seems to be the limit of length.

"Now these elevators by reason of the tremendous amount of material required in the construction of a high building are rushed to their absolute capacity, and the superintendent of the building is adverse to lending it to 'mere roofers.' However, by the liberal use of 'oil' the attendants of the elevator work willingly and smoothly, and by a lot of coaxing and offering to pay well for its use, the superintendent allows the corniceman to have the hoisting machine, stipulating that it be after working hours.

"It pays, though, rather than essaying to hoist by the hand derrick. Still, we must use a hand derrick to set the cornice on the wall, for in most cases there are structural steel lookouts, making it necessary to swing the cornice quite some distance out, and it won't do to take chances of letting the cornice fall or throwing a man from the roof."

"THE CAMPANILE OF ST. MARK'S has now reached such a height as to make an almost startling object-lesson on the terribly prosaic state of hardness, tightness, smoothness, novelty and rigid repair in which the ages of antiquity possessed the buildings we hold venerable," says the London Chronicle. 'It is a perfect facsimile of the original belfry tower of which the fall gave a shock to all hearts," it continues, "and that beautiful tower, before it fell, had a surface, a sweetness, an imperceptible disintegration which was the bloom of time. A random touch of green lodged between its bricks, thanks to the birds or the winds. Its successor is an almost hideous disappointment, and looks like nothing but a part of some monstrous factory."

Henry S. Black, president of the U. S. Realty Company, recently returned from a trip to London. He says that while there are good opportunities for investment in London, improvements are curtailed because of ancient light laws, archaic building laws, and difficulty in securing title to the fee of the land, the general custom there being to give long leases rather than selling outright.

A thorough inspection of New York's and South Brooklyn's terminal and shipping facilities, by the State Barge Canal Terminal Commission, will be made during the month of October, and the shortcomings and advantages of the local port will go far towards determining the policy to be followed in the laying out of the State terminals for the State canals. BUILDING MATERIAL AND EQUIPMENT

Building Material Recovering Slowly.

Building materials continued to feel the effects of the celebration this week. The market was weak, except in steel sheets and shapes. The demand in these two departments was barely sufficient to sustain the ten and twenty cent advance made by jobbers following similar action by the mills two weeks ago.

Brick was steady. Cement was weak up to Wednesday, when it showed a disposition to recover. Pig iron stands at last week's quotation. Lumber had a fair market. Stone will not move at normal pace until next week. Slate has a good demand in the city but was not as brisk in other parts of the district east of Pittsburgh. The quarries, in roofing material, are hard pushed to meet demand. Structural slate is not as active.

Building material men expect a good Fall if favorable weather prevails. They understand that a large number of big operations are in sight, which will hardly begin this Fall, however, but which will be ready to go ahead early in the Spring. They note that operators are showing a disposition to finish up work now in hand and to hold new work, particularly if it is sizable, until next year. For this two reasons are given; first, that a large quantity of the available money is being used in the West to move the crops, and second, that by Spring the local election will be over and business will have nothing to disturb it. Materials undoubtedly will be higher next year, but this does not seem to be a deterent factor. Collections are good.

Brick Steady—Sales Light.

Hudson River brick met a light market at $5.25 to $5.75 per M. This is because most of the dealers stored liberally to forestall a possible celebration blockade and were working off their stock. Raritans had practically no market, but prices held firm in expectation of better demand next week. Sayre & Fisher Co. has taken no action as to time of closing its yards, but it probably will not be before Nov. 1. The yards are well filled. Labor is not as scarce along the Raritan as in Hudson yards. Some boats are still being chartered for long trips. Transactions on the Exchange were light this week, there being not more than half a dozen buyers on the floor on Monday. Most of the brick transactions were in small lots.

The dealers expect a good October, although it is too late to look for a boom. All interests report that business was better in June than in September and so far in October, except, of course, iron and steel. As far as can be learned most of the dealers look for a good deal of winter work. Operations that are going ahead now will carry over three or four months any way, with fair working weather conditions.

Dealers are not stacking this year to any extent. One firm last October had 1,500,000 in yard, while this year it has about one-third of that amount. This is fairly true throughout the city. The Hudson yards have an excellent supply of of good brick and are so fixed that they can send down a few cargoes during the winter and still be in shape to handle early spring business.

YARDS WILL DROP OUT FROM NOW ON.

Three or four consecutive days of rain will cause any number of yards to cease operations. The fair weather that has ruled this week had much to do with keeping the kilns going.

Less than 50 per cent. of the hands are still at work, and those that remain are, for the most part, not skilled men. Last week the incoming cargoes were light and this week they promised to be even lighter. Many barges are looking for freights, showing that manufacturers are not shipping.

The frost that fell upon the yards this week was not serious, but brick at this time of the year dry slowly, and the fact that snow has been reported not very much further up-State bodes well for early closing. Transactions for the week ending Oct. 2 follow: Holdovers, Sept. 27, 19; arrivals, 51; sold, 54, and left over Monday, Oct. 4, 16. Sales were quick and regular boats were given good dispatch.

RESUME OF THE PRESENT SEASON.

On the whole the year has been good for dealers, but not quite so favorable for the manufacturer. The demand has been good, but the low prices that prevailed are chargeable directly to over-production caused by the drought. Few of the yards will make very costly improvements this year because the year's business did not warrant a large expenditure of money. Some yards contemplated installing electrical plants, but as this entails a big expenditure, this improvement will carry over, probably for another year. Some manufacturers, however, are keeping their own counsel regarding contemplated improvements. These are they who are making themselves ready to handle the big business that 1910 is expected to bring.

Conflicting Cement Price Reports.

Cement had a fair market this week, considering that it immediately followed the celebration before which all dealers stacked heavily to be prepared for contingencies. One of the companies reported that it had practically all it could handle in business, but most of this was outside of New York City. There is no doubt that conditions are gradually evening up and that interests that have been most strenuous in their desire to maintain the present cut are relenting.

This came out at a conference in Philadelphia recently. It led to two reports being placed in circulation this week; first, that no price readjustment need be expected until early Spring, and the other was that the price in cargo lots would be $1.53 in this city within a month or two.

There is no doubt that conditions are equalizing themselves, and that a change will come about shortly. At $1.43 cement can be made and sold at a profit, which was not so true when the price was $1.33, in July. Cement at $1.43 does not give the margin that it should. Therefore, it would be well were cement to move back to the $1.53 mark or even higher. When a fair profit is permitted, all the companies can afford to maintain careful analysis of rock, can maintain its system of screening and its general supervision from working breast to barrel. It is, therefore, desirable to give all manufacturers a price fair enough to permit them to give the same high standards that prevail when they can sell at a fair figure.

Iron Strong, But Less Active.

For the first time in almost eight weeks, no change in the price of either Northern or Southern pig iron is reported. This is due to a slight falling off in demand, and in some degree to the recent importation of foreign ore. There is, nevertheless, persistency in the report that $20 pig iron will rule before the end of the year and that coke will jump up to $3. Importations amount of almost 300,000 tons, but a large part of it is Spanish ore. Among iron people there is a question whether the foreign mines can produce that amount of ore within the time specified for deliveries, the amount available being well known here to be limited under present conditions, which, by the way, neutralizes the present slight advantage that foreign ore has over domestic.

Most of the present buying is to cover shorts. Mills usually buy their year's supplies in February and March. Owing to the remarkably steady drain on the mines and the heavy call from rail and structural mills during last summer, the mills find themselves short and they have to cover. In consequence jobbers here have been besieged with business during the last eight weeks. Some have stopped taking business for this year's deliveries and most of them are selling into the first quarter and first half. Some even have feelers out for the third quarter.

The fact that basic figures largely in pig iron inquiries is the most trustworthy indicator of building tendency next spring. Basic is used in making structural steel, and a large part of the probable supply is already spoken for by fabricators and structural rolling mills in this vicinity.

ADVANCE IN SHEETS AND SHAPES.

Important changes were announced this week by jobbers in sheets and shapes. Prices are up 10c. and 20c. around. This is due not so much to demand as in the increasing prices of raw material. We have referred to the prediction of $20 pig iron and $3 coke. The demand is sufficient to sustain the upward shift, but in the causes leading up to higher prices the advance in raw materials is primary. Further, the mills are three months behind in their deliveries. Orders placed now cannot be expected at jobs before Jan. 1 without premium. Some mills are not taking business until they catch up.

FABRICATED STEEL QUIET.

Fabricators report business in small lots only. This has ruled for two months. One future is that from the Dock Commission, which is expected to ask for bids for a steel viaduct; the exact tonnage of which has not yet been announced. Levering & Garrigues have been supplying these jobs, among others: a loft building at 15-17 East 32d st, 500 tons; the Townsend apartment house, 91st st and Riverside Drive, 800 tons; the New York Edison Company's new 44th st station, 600 tons; the Hensler Brewing Co., Newark, 300 tons; loft building at Hudson and Vestry sts, 250 tons; the Queensboro Building, 250 tons. These show the general size of contracts being taken. During the week, however, there was an improvement when Post & McCord took a 2,000-ton contract for the Arbuckle Brothers coffee warehouse. The Hinkle Iron Works took one for 500 tons.

FABRICATING COMPETITION.

Fabricators say that competition is still keen. Prices have been low, but they are now getting back somewhere near normal figures. Slow mill deliveries hold up shopwork, and in consequence other construction business is retarded. October is expected to show up well, but 1910 is expected to be a banner year, business picking up early and continuing late. New prices follow:

Lumber Market Weak.

Lumber was weak with only a fair demand. Spruce coming in in irregular sizes met a ready sale. In fact, spruce has fared better since yellow pine moved up than it did all Summer. Still, there is not a great deal of spruce coming in, only just sufficient for actual needs. Prices continue good. Shipments will cease on or about November 15, and it will be about December 15 or January 15 before the last boat loads will arrive here. Yellow pine moved well, but there was a falling off in roofers.

A great deal of the grandstand lumber, used during the celebration, is finding its way into some of the extreme downtown sash mills and to wholesale houses, which can use roofers for making heavy packing cases.

Slate Leads Dull Stone Market.

Slate was the most active feature of the stone market this week. There was a better demand for roofing. Structural lagged. Prices remained firm and conditions are holding right for another advance on or about December or January 1. Most of this demand, however, was from out of the city, in the territory lying east of Pittsburgh. The inquiry in this city was better than it has been in two weeks. Structural has been dull for a month, but shows signs of awakening.

Marble was active outside of the city. The Woodbury Granite Company, of No. 1 Madison av, closed for the Amityville, N. Y., bank, which will take $7,000 worth of Woodbury gray, and the contract has practically been closed for the Navy Memorial obelisk to be erected at a cost of $105,000 at Vicksburgh. It will be 200 ft. high and 20 ft. square at the base. Cutting will soon begin. This will also be Woodbury gray.

Some of the big stone men are looking ahead for some fine contracts that are about to be let soon. The John Pierce Company expects soon to get out of the receivers hands and will be ready for new business. Really good conditions are not expected to arrive until early Spring.

Architectural Iron Firms Merge.

The Wells Architectural Iron Company, located at 144th st near Park av, is gradually establishing a business of manufacturing the better grade of ornamental iron work. It is already closely connected with and represents the well-known firm of James McKinney & Son of Albany, N. Y., which has long been famed as manufacturers of fine architectural cast iron work. The combination of the Wells Company and McKinney & Son has proved to be a satisfactory one; the superior work, prompt service and close attention to details having made it so.

The James McKinney & Sons' plant is one of the most completely equipped in the country and has the capacity of producing a very large volume of business. It stands preeminent in the manufacture of fine and intricate cast work. The Wells Company's factory is also thoroughly equipped for the manufacture of wrought work in iron and bronze, Mr. James Wells, the proprietor, having been formerly connected with the Jackson Architectural Works and the American Bridge Co. of New York.

Some of the work recently done by this combination can be seen in the School of Mines, Pittsburg, J. L. Stuart, contractor, Palmer & Hornbostel, architects; Hamburg-American Bldg., C. T. Wills, Inc., contractor, R. L. Daus, architect; Union Dime Savings Institution, Crow Construction Company, contractor, A. H. Taylor, architect; Garfield National Bank, C. T. Wills, Inc., contractor, James B. Baker, architect; Saranac Hotel, H. C. Pelton, architect; St. Luke's Hospital, Ernest Flagg, architect; Provident Loan, C. T. Wills, Inc., contractor, Renwick, Aspinwell & Tucker, architect; Rogers, Peet & Co., C. T. Wills, Inc., contractor, Townsend, Steinle & Haskell, architect, and Municipal Palace; National Theatre, Panama.

Son Continues Construction Business.

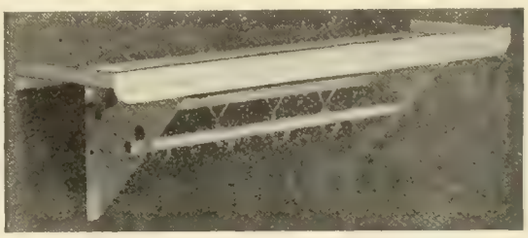
Since the death on July 17 of William L. Crow, founder and developer of the Crow Construction Company, of 287 4th av, the organization which practically carried on the business for three or four years previous to the demise of its originator, has been continuing it at the same address under the supervision of Mr. R. L. Crow, the founder's son. Associated with him is a staff which has been identified with the company for many years. The company has had a remarkable growth within the last half-decade.

One of the most important operations now in hand is the Union Dime Savings Bank at 40th st and 6th av, which will cost $250,000 and which will be completed within a month or two. Also, the Tilden building adjoining it at 105 to 111 40th st, costing $300,000, built of steel, stone and terra cotta; the Babies' Hospital, a remodeling and extension job, costing $75,000; two factory buildings for the American Type Founders Co. in Jersey City and the Terminal building at Hoboken, which will cost $100,000. Among the residences that this company has in hand now is that of Peter W. Rouse, in Garfield pl, Brooklyn. This company is doing the concrete flooring.

There are some novel features connected with the buildings now being erected by the Crow Construction Company. In the case of the Tilden building all four sides will have full daylight. The side adjoining the Union Dime Savings Bank is being treated the same as the front elevation, with gable wall and light face brick and terra cotta trim. On the sides facing Mendelssohn Hall and the Comedy Theatre all the offices will have full daylight. In the case of the Babies' Hospital the old building at 55th st and Lexington av will be remodeled and an extension 20x50 and 8 stories high will be constructed.

The Crow Construction Company has just completed two buildings for the American Type Founders' Company and have been awarded the contracts for the two additional ones mentioned. The Terminal building in Hoboken is the tallest office building along the Jersey water front. In addition to its eight stories the Prudential Insurance company will lease the top floor, and on the roof will erect a sign 100x75 ft., from which will flash at night a reproduction of the Rock of Gibraltar, the company's trade mark, in electric light. It will be the largest sign of its kind on the Hudson river.

Have Shelves in Your Houses.



The white enameled metal shelf that was recently patented by Albert Dahl is now being manufactured by the Dahl Manufacturing Company, of 302 West 144th st. Albert Dahl is president, William Schaefer is vice-president and treasurer, and Henry Harknett is secretary of the company.

The White Enameled Metal Shelf is made of sheet metal enameled and baked. It will not rust. With folding brackets, it is so constructed as to fold flat; and with the screw holes in the flanges, it can be screwed into studs in the wall.

The rod in front is to hang towels on, while the hooks on the rod behind are to hold toilet articles, shaving and toothbrush mugs, drinking cups, sponges, and bathroom and kitchen accessories.

The shelf has the strength and durability of iron, is fireproof and neat in appearance. It costs less than a shelf made of wood and put up by a mechanic, and is one of the most economical and attractive shelves that can be introduced in newly built houses by the building trade.

For shipment the shelves fold flat. Nickel-plated screws come with every shelf. Several different styles are made. One with an upturned edge is adapted to vessels.

STYLE C, WITH UPTURNED EDGE.

A Consolidation in the Plaster Board Trade.

Announcement is made of a consolidation of interests by the Sackett Plaster Board Company and the United States Gypsum Company. By this amalgamation, the plastic board industry is assured, in perpetuity, of the most economic conditions of production and distribution; owns its mines, makes its own plaster, and has immediately available for general distribution throughout the United States, the full force of the fine sales organization of the United States Gypsum Company; also, full control of the manufacture of wall plaster, with which to finish our product on the wall, to the tumost satisfactio of the ultimate consumer.

The office of the Sackett Plaster Board Company will be conducted, for the present, as heretofore, with Fred L. Kane as manager.

OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Valuable Information Given Weekly Showing Status of Municipal Improvement Proceedings in all Branches.

Owners of real estate frequently get an unpleasant shock when they have sold a given piece of property, and title is about to pass. The attorney for the buyer, or title company, brings out a memorandum which shows that besides certain charges, such as taxes, water rent (in all probability known to the seller), there are one or more assessments which have been a lien against the property for a long or short time, as the case may be. Naturally the seller is annoyed and states that he was unaware that these liens existed. To overcome this condition the Record and Guide publishes all of these proceedings, under classified heads, and in ample time to give the owner abundant opportunity to make a protest, should he deem it advisable. Much confusion and disappointment can be avoided by weekly glancing at this column. At the end of each proceeding the official number is given, and should the owner desire to secure the full particulars of any given improvement, it will aid him materially. This information will be found to be of great use to the real estate broker. It gives him additional information for his files, and should be of considerable aid to him in consummating sales. As an example, should he learn that a proceeding for the acquiring of title by the city to a street on which he had property for sale, he would have an additional argument to place before his client, which otherwise might have escaped his notice.

NEW REAL ESTATE FIRM.

Herbert Gulick and Louis J. Halle have incorporated the Gulick-Halle Co. and opened offices in the "Devonshire," 2872 Broadway, at 111th st, for the transaction of a general real estate brokerage business. Mr. Gulick has been handling real estate in Manhattan, Long Island and Brooklyn for the past eight years. His offices heretofore have been in the Lawyers' Title Co. Building, 160 Broadway. Prior to that he was manager of the Long Island department for the McVicar-Gaillard Realty Co. Mr. Gulick's sales this year have included the Latham, 122d st and Morningside av; the Hudson-Grant View, Claremont av and 122d st; the Bellehaven, 515 West 124st, sold and resold, and other properties on the upper West Side. Also, 40 East 80th st, corner of Madison av; 1045 Madison av, adjoining; three large dwellings at Belle Harbor, L. I. The total valuation of these transactions is well over a million and one-half dollars, and as the dealings of an individual broker during part of a rather dull year augur well for the success of the Gulick-Halle Co. Mr. Halle is a newcomer in the active brokerage field, although he has had a wide experience in real estate investments, while conducting a large import and export business at 66 Wall st, with branches in London and Paris. He is a director of the new Audubon National Bank, and is especially interested in that section as well as the West Side in general.

ALLIANCE REALTY CO. DIVIDEND.—At a meeting of the Directors of the Alliance Realty Company, a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. was declared, payable Oct. 15, to stockholders of record on Oct. 9. The capital of the company is $2,000,000, the net earnings for the nine months ending Sept. 30, 1909, were $177,026, and the undivided profits on the same date were $1,103,706.

THE BUILDING AND LOAN IDEA.

When building and loan associations are purely mutual and co-operative they are a help to men of small means having steady employment and reasonably certain of being able to meet the monthly payments that are required of them. We heard of an instance this week from an authentic source. A young man bought from a builder three two-family houses situated in a west side section of Jersey City, at the price of $7,000 each. In payment he gave only $500 of his own money on each house. The balance he borrowed from his building and loan association. After paying his monthly installment to the association, including interest and dues, and also his taxes, insurance and water rates, he has left out of the rents he receives from the three houses a balance each month of $26, which is sufficient to defray the cost of keeping the houses in repair. At the end of ten years, if he meets with no reverses, he will own the houses free and clear, as the fruits of an original investment of only $1,500.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

The matter below is sent out by the New York State and Metropolitan Leagues of Co-operative Savings and Loan Associations. Its object is to call attention to the underlying principles of the associations which these Leagues represent. The principles are: (1) To promote the ownership of homes among self-respecting men and women through a plain, simple business method of co-operation that has stood the test of time ($800,000,000 assets, 2,000,000 members in the United States); (2) to promote systematic thrift, by receiving small amounts of money weekly or monthly.

You will agree that these institutions are alone in their objects, and that, properly managed, their plan is synonymous with good citizenship. The committee has no ulterior purpose in urging that you print this matter; its members are actuated only by the highest motives, and there are no hidden axes to grind. Yours respectfully for the Committee on Propaganda,

ARCHIBALD W. McEWAN, Secretary.

2161 Bathgate av, Bronx.

"Co-operative savings and loan associations are steadily growing in the United States, the latest statistics, prepared by H. F. Cellarius, secretary of the United States League of these organizations, showing a membership of nearly 2,000,000 and assets of $800,000,000. In some sections expansion of purely co-operative organizations has been retarded by the confusion of names of institutions which had nothing in common with them. Most of these concerns have failed or have gone out of business, which has 'cleared the air,' and the average person now knows the purposes of real co-operative savings and loan associations.

"There are in this State 235 associations of the co-operative type, with assets of $39,000,000 and 168,500 members—a good showing, when it is remembered that here the schemes of concerns which masqueraded under the name 'savings and loan' or 'building loan,' had their highest development, and their failures gave the co-operative movement a decided setback for a time.

"The true co-operative building and loan association, wisely managed, rests on as secure a business system as any other financial institution. Its money received from saving members is loaned to borrowing members, and the security is first mortgages on borrowing members' homes. The association lends its members perhaps as high as 80 per cent. of the value of their property, and the members pay off their mortgages in monthly instalments. The fact that the members are buying modest homes (the average mortgage of these associations in this State is $3,000), and that the character of the applicant and his ability to make the monthly payments are the principal factors in granting the loan, coupled with the sentiment of owning a real home, add to the stability of the assets.

"That these co-operative institutions are doing a great amount of good without any flourish of trumpets is well known to every person who keeps in touch with good citizenship movements. There are thousands of homes in this State now occupied by their owners and paid for through these associations, that would not have been acquired in any other way. Those who are unfamiliar with the movement should investigate the co-operative associations in their own neighborhood (either for home-getting or saving), as officers welcome inquiries and all business is transacted in open meetings."

Supplementing Secretary McEwan's statement, the Record and Guide notes that a large interest in building and loan associations is being taken in the State of New Jersey. The local papers contain numerous announcements of their meetings. The following information is typical:

At the recent annual meeting of the Consolidated Association, of Harrison, the annual report of Secretary John J. Willey was presented and adopted, and printed copies of it were distributed. It shows a prosperous condition of its affairs and profits exceeding 13 per cent. for the last year on the average and amount of investments of its members. The assets are given as $15,206.36, and consist of the following items: Bonds and mortgages, $14,520; stockholders in arrears, $103.50; personal property, $72.50; balance in bank, $510.36. The liabilities, in addition to the present worth of the stock of all series, are as follows: Due on loans granted, $3,217.20; advance payments, $61. It shows assets amounting to $48,459.65, consisting of the following items: Bonds and mortgages, $46,000; loan on shares, $1,505; installments in arrears, $367; interest in arrears, $255.50; premiums in arrears, $8.56; fines in arrears, $89.57; insurance advanced, $33.50; furniture and fixtures, $188.46; cash in bank, $11.46. SUBWAY ADDITION FOR HEIGHTS.

Plans for the extension of the subway by means of a tunnel from 191st st and St. Nicholas av westward a distance of 1,900 feet to Broadway, Fort Washington av and Riverside Drive, thereby bringing one of the most desirable parts of the city within easy reach of the City Hall and involving improvements worth many millions of dollars, were approved by the local Board of Improvements of the Washington Heights district this week.

The importance of this step will be appreciated when it is known that more than ten miles of frontage of property will be easy of access by the end of 1910. This section of land, which is traversed by Riverside Drive, Fort Washington av, Chittenden av, Overlook Terrace, Broadway, Broadway Terrace and many other thoroughfares, is the choicest in New York for residential purposes and has been called "the Transvaal of Manhattan," because of its charming topography.

Chief among the property owners in the section west of St. Nicholas av, between 180th and 202d sts, who petitioned the local board for the extension of the subway westward by means of a tunnel in which cars may be operated, are the Hayes estate, W. H. Fischer, B. Loth, J. M. Libbey, H. W. Boettger, G. A. Feld, Loyal S. Smith, James A. Lynch, the G. S. Bedford heirs and many others.

The plans for the tunnel were provided by J. O. B. Webster, engineer of the Highways Department, and they provide for a commodious tunnel of the same dimensions as that of the subway, which will run for a distance of 1,900 feet, or about one-third of a mile. Three outlets are designed, one at Broadway, another by an elevator with two cars at Fort Washington av and a third at grade on Riverside Drive. It is thought likely that an outlet will be provided for each point named.

The work of constructing the tunnel will be started as soon as provision for payment of the cost, which will aggregate some $350,000, has been made by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, which is expected to take action at an early date. The tunnel will be bored from both ends, one crew working from 191st st and St. Nicholas av, the other from Riverside Drive. Competent engineers estimate that the work can easily be completed within fourteen months.

The Interborough Company is now constructing a station at 191st st and St. Nicholas av. An excavation 50 feet square has been made to a depth of 100 feet or thereabouts, and its total depth will be 140 feet. This station will break the present long ride from 181st st to Dyckman station and provide residents living midway between the stations named with easy transportation facilities, besides opening up a wide residential territory to improvement and settlement.

Justice Blanchard, of the Supreme Court, appointed Charles Buermann receiver of the rents of 807 3d av, a 6-sty tenement, pending a suit brought by Robert Main against Herman Von Wien and others to foreclose a second montgage for $10,000.

POINTS ON BUILDING MANAGEMENT.

NEITHER the superintendent nor chief engineer should be allowed to purchase anything for use in the building. When supplies are needed, a requisition should be made to the manager on blanks supplied for that purpose. Nothing can then be purchased without the knowledge of the manager, and he has an opportunity to inquire regarding the items. All purchasing should be done by one man in the manager's office who can keep his price cards carefully posted and placed where they can be referred to at all times by any one in the office.

WORK FOR TENANTS.

It is sometimes necessary to change partitions and do other work for new tenants. The cost of all work other than the janitor service done in each room should be entered daily upon cards for that purpose arranged by room numbers in a file. This enables the manager to know at a glance if a tenant is asking too many favors and gives excuse for refusal to do more work except at the expense of the lessee.

RECORD OF CLEANING.

A tabulated book should be kept on which the dates of all cleaning work can be entered, such as floors scrubbed, windows washed, furniture cleaned, vacuum system used, woodwork washed, etc. All that needs to be entered under each heading is the date the work was done. The report of work done should be turned in to the superintendent daily by the day and night foremen on forms for that purpose.

STOCK ROOM.

There is no place where expenses can roll up as quickly as in the stock room. If a card system stock inventory is kept in the manager's office where the stock clerk never sees it and no supplies are given out by the stock clerk except on an order and receipt from a foreman, and the receipts are turned in to the superintendent every day for entry on the stock cards, there can be no leakage without its becoming instantly apparent. The stock cards can be taken to the stock room and the goods checked at any time. In this way the stock clerk cannot regulate or change the entries on the cards, and a shortage must show at once. The manager, of course, could appoint some one other than the superintendent to check the stock so that a collusion of any party with the stock clerk would be shown easily.—J. E. Randell (St. Louis) in the "Building Management."

TAXPAYERS WANT PLENTY OF WATER.

Supreme Court Justice Bischoff reserved decision on Wednesday on the argument of counsel for James H. Killough, suing as a taxpayer, for an injunction restraining Aqueduct Commissioners John F. Cowan, William H. Ten Eyck, John P. Windolph and John J. Ryan, from taking further proceedings in the construction of the Patterson Reservoir in the upper part of Croton River Valley.

J. Hampton Dougherty, counsel for Mr. Killough, argued that the proposed reservoir was an attempt of the Commissioners to prolong their official life. This was denied by the Commissioners' attorney, Morgan J. O'Brien.

Allied with Mr. Killough is the Merchants' Association.

Mr. O'Brien asserted that his clients had acted in good faith in advising the construction of the reservoir. He asked the court not to substitute itself for the Aqueduct Commissioners, 'upon whom rests the obligation of developing the Croton system to its capacity in order to avert danger of a water famine from the city."

The United Real Estate Owners' Associations and other taxpayers' associations claim that it is necessary to provide additional reservoirs for storage and also to save the waste water in our Croton Watersheds. Further, they believe that the Aqueduct Commissioners have not proceeded contrary to law. It is of record that the Aqueduct Commissioners requested Commissioner O'Brien, of the Water Department, to submit plans for the Patterson reservoir as long ago as June, 1908; and if plans had been submitted at that time, a contract could have been awarded then, and water collected behind the dam at this time. Instead of acting promptly, however, Commissioner O'Brien failed to submit plans at all, according to the officers of the associations.

A committee of the United Real Estate Associations finds that public bodies and the majority of citizens believe it wisest to save the waste by building extra reservoirs in our Croton Watershed. The United Real Estate Owners' Associations is one of the largest incorporated organized bodies of taxpayers' associations in the Borough of Manhattan, consisting of the following associations:

West Side Taxpayers' Association, Harlem Property Owners' Association, House and Real Estate Owners' Association of 12th and 19th Wards, Taxpayers Association of the 10th, 11th and 17th Wards, 18th and 21st Ward Taxpayers' Association, Real Estate Owners' Protective Associations of 12th and 22d Wards. All approve of the building of the Patterson reservoir.

The United Real Estate Owners' Associations believe that the move on the part of the Merchants' Association to tie the hands of the Aqueduct Commissioners and stopping them from providing additional storage reservoirs to save and store the overflow at Croton, is unwise. In a recent letter to this paper, Mr. Louis Schrag and others said that if the injunction is sustained, it will give the politicians an opportunity to keep on telling the public that there is a shortage of our city supply, in order to install water meters in every house, even for private use; this would be a hard blow to the over-burdened taxpayer, especially the apartment and tenement house owners, where the owner cannot control the water consumed by the tenants, nor is IT RIGHT TO RESTRICT THE TENANTS TO THE FREE USE OF WATER FOR DOMESTIC PURPOSES.

REAL ESTATE BROKER NOMINATED.

John J. Boylan, secretary of the 22d Ward Taxpayers' Association, has been nominated by the Democrats of the 11th Assembly District to succeed Owen W. Bohan as member of the Assembly from this district. Mr. Boylan, who is engaged in the real estate business, has been active in taxpayers' movements of the middle West Side for many years. It was largely through his efforts that the present ambulance system was established in the 22d Ward. He was also instrumental in getting the Mayor to approve the repaving of Columbus av for its entire length.

BIG BUDGET REQUESTS.

Requests for more than $56,000,000 were entered at this week's hearing of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. These requests include increases of about $8,758,000 above the appropriations for 1909.

The Board of Education increase includes $3,500,000 for a new salary schedule, which does not recognize the "equal pay for equal work" principle, but which does embody the results of a summer study by the Board of Education. The Public Education Association asked a large number of citizens to write to the Mayor, the Comptroller and the President of the Board of Aldermen at their homes before this week's meeting, urging that school requests be granted.

This is the first time that the Department of Docks and Ferries has been represented at budget hearings. Because it "paid its way" it has not heretofore told in advance how much it wanted to pay. Perhaps the most surprising feature of the hearing was the small requested increase for the Fire Department, only $192,000. At least $500,000 increase was expected.

The requests and the increases over the previous year are:

	Request for 1910.	Increase over 1909.

MAYOR McCLELLAN IN A NEW CITY HOME.

Mayor McClellan has moved his town house from Washington Square North to an apartment at 37 Madison av, in the Madison Square Apartments. It is understood that he has done so on the grounds that it was impossible to stay after Oct. 1 in the Washington Square house he has rented for so long without signing a long lease.

THE WEEK.

THE brokers this week reported a fair amount of business. The demand included dwellings, apartment houses, flats and lots, most of the deals being north of 59th st, with more than the usual number in the Bronx. Of the apartment houses which changed ownership, 507 to 513 West 113th st, the St. Catherine, at Madison av and 53d st, and 945 to 951 St. Nicholas av, were the most important. The St. Catherine is assessed at $240,000. Park av is to have another private dwelling, Oakleigh Thorne, president of the Trust Co. of America, having bought the northeast corner of 73d st for the purpose of building a residence for his own use. A number of dwellings, both east and west of the park, changed hands, that purchased by Joseph Fox, president of the Columbia Bank, of 18 East 55th st, being the only high-priced one.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THE lot sale held in the Vesey Street Salesroom on Tuesday by Joseph P. Day realized a total of $260,700, and was one of the most successful held in recent years, the sellers making a profit of close to $100,000. The property consisted of 240 lots known as the Samler estate, at Riverdale, opposite Van Cortlandt Park, between 254th and 256th sts.

The crowd at the sale was made up entirely of small investors and they paid, with few exceptions, high prices for the property. The lots on Broadway, which sold from $3,800 to $4,125 for inside lots, were cheap, and are certainly worth at the present time $5,000. The offerings by Mr. Day on Thursday of a miscellaneous lot of property was well taken, all but four of the parcels being sold.

BROKER GETS COMMISSION.

In a suit tried on Tuesday in the Supreme Court before Justice Brady and a jury, Isaac Goldstein, a real estate broker, testified that he had been employed by Maas & Meyers to sell the property 14-16 East 118th st, that he submitted the property to Elias Kullman, and that he went back and forth between these parties submitting various offers. After a four-weeks' illness, preventing his giving attention to the matter, he found that Kullman had bought the property for $61,000. Kullman refused to pay the commission to Goldstein, who assigned his claim to his wife, who brought suit.

The defendants denied the broker's testimony, claiming that the sale had been made through another broker, and produced as witnesses the buyer, a friend of his named Adler, and the other broker, to whom the defendants said they paid $363.50 commission.

Mrs. Goldstein's attorney, Jacob Friedman, claimed that there was collusion between these witnesses to deprive Goldstein of the commission, and in cross-examination elicited evidence tending to support this contention. The jury rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for the full amount, $610, and $87.20 interest.

SUCCESSFUL DEFENCE BY THE REALTY LEAGUE.

The Realty League has scored one more victory in protecting a member of its organization from an unwarranted prosecution, a thing for which this organization was largely formed.

Webster B. Mabie, of the well-known firm of Webster B. Mabie & Co., 1178 Broadway, was charged by the Commissioner of Labor through the local bureau, of which the Chief Factory Inspector is William W. Walling, with having failed to supply suitable toilets in a factory loft at No. 34 East 12th st.

The building is a new 10-sty fireproof up-to-date building with two toilets, one for men and one for women in each loft.

The Factory Inspector, through one of his deputies, obtained a warrant against Mr. Mabie, who was brought before Magistrate Finn in the Jefferson Market Court on the 7th inst., and after hearing the case for the Factory Inspector, and without any witnesses being called for the defense, the Magistrate dismissed the proceeding. The case was defended by the Realty League through its counsel, Carlisle Norwood.

WHAT DO YOU OBJECT TO IN THE PRESENT CHARTER?

The regular monthly meeting of the Taxpayers' Alliance of the Bronx will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 13, at Masonic Temple, 1931 Washington av. This will be an open meeting and all property holders in the Bronx are asked to attend, as all of the candidates for nomination on the various tickets have been invited to attend this meeting, which will give taxpayers an opportunity to find out where the candidates for office stand in the coming campaign.

The Legislative Committee of the Alliance, consisting of Harry Robitzek, chairman; A. C. Hottenroth, Douglas Mathewson, J. D. Powers and J. H. Hildreth, have requested all taxpayers of this section to submit to them before Oct. 20, 1909, in concise form their objections to the proposed Charter and Administrative Code submitted to the last Legislature by the Charter Revision Committee so that the committee can submit the same to the Legislative Charter Committee appointed by Gov. MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

Oct. 1, 2, 4, 5, 6 and 7.

The Lloyd Construction Company has secured a building loan of $200,000 from the Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust Co. on the property at the southwest corner of Amsterdam av and 160th st, 100x100.

Edwin T. Greaves has been appointed receiver of the rents of 218 and 220 East 80th st, tenements, pending a suit brought by Susan Van Praag against Henry Rockmore and others to foreclose a mortgage of $12,000.

William P. Hyde took title on Monday from the New York Public Library, Lenox, Astor and Tilden Foundations, to the plot in the north side of 70th st, 148 feet west of Madison av, 30x100.5. A purchase money mortgage of $110,000 for three years at four and one-half per cent was also recorded.

The New York Press Club obtained permission from Supreme Court Justice Blanchard to mortgage its new club house, at Spruce and William sts, to the Seamen's Bank for Savings for $130,000, the mortgage to run for five years and bear five per cent interest. The club intends to use the money to pay off its outstanding obligations.

At a meeting of the directors of the Alliance Realty Company, held yesterday, a quarterly divident of 2 per cent. was declared, payable Oct. 15, to stockholders of record on Oct. 9. The capital of the company is $2,000,000, the net earnings for the nine months ending Sept. 30, 1909, were $177,026, and the undivided profits on the same date were $1,103,706.

W. H. Britigan has joined the office force of Joseph P. Day. Mr. Britigan has been connected for some time with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in the office of its comptroller, Walter Stabler, and as educational director was largely responsible for the success of the classes in real estate connected with the West Side Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association.

To protect themselves against speculators who buy big tracts of land without putting up a dollar and build rows of houses on nerve, contractors and dealers in building materials organized the Building Contractors' and Materialmen's Association, with headquarters at No. 220 Broadway. Such speculators operate through dummy corporations. The new association will keep a careful record of all such transactions and retain lawyers to prosecute frauds.

Shepard K. De Forrest and others conveyed, this week, to the De Forrest estate, a corporation, for a stated consideration of $320,500, 118 East 36th st, 25x98.9, subject to a mortgage of $25,000; also the property in the north side of 27th st, 70 ft. east of 3d av, 53.4x98.9, subject to a mortgage of $60,000; also the southwest corner of 4th av and 31st st, 63.2x60; also the plot in the south side of 31st, 60 ft. west of 4th av, 20x63.2, and the plot in the north side of 30th st, 48.6 ft. west of 4th av, 74x31.6.

Charles Warren Trembly, the factory and waterfront specialist, of 5 Cortlandt st, in addition to the sale of an industrial building in Hoboken to a Western coffee company, as mentioned in the Record and Guide (Sept. 25, page 575) has just leased for one year, with option to purchase, a 3-sty brick factory, 50x200, and tower, with a large plot of ground, at Asbury Park, N. J., for the M. L. Bamman Co., of 86 Worth st. The company plans to erect additional buildings and install heavy machinery.

For the improvement of the site now occupied by the Clarendon Hotel, at the southeast corner of 4th av and 18th st, with a 20-sty store, office and loft building, Henry Corn has obtained a loan of $1,200,000 from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. The loan is for a period of ten years and bears six per cent. interest during the period of construction and five and one-half until October 1, 1914, and five per cent. for the balance of the term. The property was transferred on Monday to Mr. Corn by Alice D. Weekes, as executrix, for a stated consideration of $550,000.

—There are in America many instances of the use of tile or ceramic mosaics on the exterior of concrete buildings, and in every city in which the experiment is tried, it has soon a host of imitators. The same kind of decoration is equally applicable to buildings of brick, stone, or of any other inorganic material.

NO THINKING MAN could have mixed with the enormous crowds that flooded the streets during the Hudson-Fulton celebration without being struck by the fact that the problem of surface track congestion would during the next ten years become the most critical problem connected with the future growth and prosperity of New York City. It is absolutely essential that steps should be taken in the near future to study this problem from every point of view and to consider the most practical methods of dealing with it. The question is: How can the pressure of vehicular and pedestrian traffic, particularly during a period of public celebration or excitement, be taken care of with safety and without too much expense? The building of Subways will obviously do nothing to make this problem less acute and momentous. On the contrary, improved means of transit will, at least so far as Manhattan is concerned, tend to increase rather than diminish its difficulties. When the whole outlying district within a radius of fifteen miles from the heart of Manhattan is directly connected with the central borough by express trains, the result will be a still greater congestion of traffic, whenever and wherever there is any reason for a crowd to congregate. There are over 5,500,000 people living within this territory at the present time. In another ten years its population will be almost 7,500,000. In another twenty years it will be at least 9,500,000. Manhattan will be the place to which a large increasing proportion of these people will come for a certain proportion of their pleasures and business. In the meantime that borough will be passing through a corresponding process of local growth, in order to provide the necessary facilities to enable this crowd to amuse themselves and to transact their business. An increasingly large number of people from all over the country will be sojourning in its hotels. Its chief avenues and streets will become a solid mass of skyscrapers. The constant process of improvement and cheapening that is taking place in motor-cars will result in an increase in vehicular traffic greater in proportion than the increase in population. If it is difficult for the street system of the city to accommodate this traffic now, what will it be fifteen or twenty years from now, when that traffic will have at least doubled in amount. A man has only to recollect what has been accomplished during the past ten years in the way of building up Manhattan and of increasing the crowds of vehicles and people on its streets to understand that a corresponding process, extending over another ten years will produce a condition of congestion which will gradually become intolerable.

THE PROBLEM of dealing with this present and future congestion has never been really seriously, scientifically and comprehensively studied. Obviously, some means must be adopted to increase the capacity of the streets of Manhattain in certain central and peculiarly congested locations. But what means? Various plans have been proposed to increase the street capacity by cutting through new thoroughfares or by widening existing ones. Some of these plans must eventually be adopted, but it is becoming increasingly obvious that proposals looking towards an increase of street room in the central districts of Manhattan are becoming impracticable, because of the expense. It is still possible for the city to improve its street layout by cutting through Sixth and Seventh avenues to the south, because the property which would have to be acquired for the carrying out of such plans is not prohibitively expensive. But, manifestly, it is no longer possible for the city to increase the area of such centres of congestion as Greeley and Longacre squares by the purchase of abutting private property. Ten years ago the expenditure might not have been prohibitive; but now, when real estate values near the most important centres of congestion, run all the way from $100 to $300 a square foot, it is obvious that not even New York can afford the luxury of such improvements. Yet, it is in precisely such centres of congestion as Longacre and Greeley squares that some increased street room is absolutely necessary. The question remains, then, what can be done; and assuredly this question cannot be answered without a close and comprehensive examination of the problem in all its bearings. The new Board of Estimate should cause such an investigation to be made; and the taxpayers' associations of this city should urge upon the Board the importance of such a step. The report of the Commission appointed by Mayor McClellan did not cover the necessary ground. There is no use at all in laying out a comprehensive scheme of street improvement that would cost hundreds of millions of dollars, and of shifting the responsibility upon the remote future of finding the necessary money. What the city needs to know is what can be done now or within the next fifteen years to meet the immediately critical situation? No plan or part of a plan should be approved without a careful consideration of the probable expense, and without possible means of raising the money. Such a commission is becoming an absolute necessity; and the increasingly intolerable condition of congestion will force its appointment sometime within the next few years.

WHEN SUCH A COMMISSION is appointed it will do well to consider a suggestion recently made by Mr. Theodore Starrett in a letter to The Sun. Mr. Starrett's idea is that the streets in all centres of congestion should be double decked. The idea has, of course, frequently been broached before; but it has never been embodied in what looks like a really practicable method of constructing the double-decked streets. "A continuous elevated sidewalk of glass and iron, forming a balcony at or about the level of the second story window sills, with bridges over the street crossings would," he says, "theoretically double the sidewalk capacity; but owing to the fact that the traffic would be unobstructed the pedestrian capacity of the street would be fully quadrupled." We agree with Mr. Starrett that even the briefest investigation of this idea bestows upon it some surprising advantages. It could be built piecemeal, first for a block or two at such congested points as Broadway and Forty-second street, Fifth avenue and Thirty-fourth street, Fourth avenue and Forty-second street and Broadway and Forty-second street. Gradually the system could be extended to cover the principal arteries of traffic. A balcony attached to the steel frames of the buildings, leaving the lower street level unobstructed would be the most advantageous form of these sidewalks, but in the beginning the balcony in front of old fashioned buildings could be supported by iron posts. When the pedestrian travel is diverted to the upper level, the present footways could be narrowed on all the streets, just as they have recently been narrowed on Fifth avenue. A lower sidewalk ten feet wide would be sufficient for all people who would wish to travel there; and in this way the congestion of vehicular and pedestrian traffic could be relieved at the same time. Mr. Starrett is also right in believing that double-decked sidewalks would be extremely profitable to the property owners in front of whose buildings they were placed. Instead of having only one ground floor, they would have two; and this would be an enormous advantage from the point of view of retail trade. Customers alighting from vehicles would for the most part enter below and pedestrians from above. The circumstance which contributes most to the value of real estate is the number of people who pass by it and to whom it is accessible; and this idea would increase the accessibility of all centrally situated property without in any way injuring the interests of the abutting property owners. The owners of neighboring real estate are always hostile to street widenings and extensions, because such improvements usually cause them great inconvenience and loss, and if they wish to avoid such losses in the future, they will do well to consider very seriously Mr. Starrett's suggestion. It has the unusual advantage of accomplishing a necessary public improvement, not only without hurting any individual property owner, but also with every probability of being as beneficial to the private interests affected as to those of the public.

ANOTHER FAMOUS NEW YORK HOTEL is coming down —the Gilsey House. The "Gilsey House" is a comparatively modern structure. Unlike the "Fifth Avenue" and the "Clarendon" it was not built before the war. It was erected in 1870, and consequently its life has not much exceeded that of one generation. Moreover, inasmuch as it has not been profitable as a hotel during the past five or six years, its prosperous period was limited to only a very little over thirty years. Among the many changes in standards that have taken place in New York during the past fifteen years, none has been more radical than the standard of hotel decoration and equipment. Beginning with the building of the Waldorf-Astoria, one new sumptuous hotel after another has been constructed; and their construction has resulted in the gradual but remorseless crowding out of the older buildings. A modest apartment hotel on a side street is now decorated with more expense and is better equipped than the Gilsey House was a generation ago. One cannot help wondering whether these newer hotels will have a longer life. How will the Waldorf-Astoria compare with the hotels that will be erected in New York twenty-five years from now? How much longer will the neighborhood of Fifth avenue and Thirty-fourth street be considered a desirable location for a hotel? It seems scarcely conceivable at present that a building such as the Waldorf-Astoria can ever be as completely superseded like the present Gilsey House, but stranger things have happened. One cannot help wondering, however, whether in case the Waldorf-Astoria is to be replaced, what kind of a building will be substituted for it? In order to make the operation profitable, it would have to be a building at least thirty-five stories high, and we doubt whether it will be legally possible to erect thirty-five story buildings much longer in New York. But perhaps the Waldorf, like the old Hotel Bristol, will be turned into an office building situated on a double-decked street and containing two tiers of shops. Two tiers of shops in such a location ought to bring in a rental twenty-five years from now equal to the gross rental of the existing building at the present time.

BUILDING OPERATIONS ON A CASH BASIS.—The growth of the amount of work for loft and office buildings, which is apparent to everyone, is offset by the falling off in tenement house construction. Since the first of September there have been few operations of this class started in Manhattan. In part this is owing to the disagreement still existing between the speculative operators and builders, on the one hand, and the contracting mechanics on the other. The mason contractors have made a rule that hereafter they will accept no contract for doing merely the mechanical work on a building, without furnishing any of the material required in the construction. If they cannot supply the brick, lime and cement that are to be used, they will not do the job. Heretofore many owners have been accustomed to contract directly with the dealers for the materials required, and simply to have the mason contractors put them together in the building. To this arrangement the owners or operators have not yielded; they insist on the privilege of dealing directly with the dealers, for one reason because the dealers have been more liberal than the contractors in the matter of credit. The generally liberal attitude of the dealers toward small speculative builders has heretofore encouraged a far larger amount of building than would have been the case had they insisted on business being transacted on a cash basis. If building is to be confined to a cash basis, and the operators interpret the action of the mason contractors to mean practically this, then not one-half, nor even one-quarter, as much building will be done hereafter, the operators declare. If the real-estate market were in a condition to find buyers for new houses as fast as they might be constructed, the public would be better able to weigh the value of this opinion; but as almost the opposite is true of the capacity of the market at present, the strained relations between the contractors and some operators are not of primary importance. We are inclined to believe that when the builders can readily find buyers for their buildings, they and the contractors will not be long in coming to an agreement. But in the meantime both parties are "standing pat." About forty-five per cent. of the bricklayers in New York City are idle. They have topped out all the jobs they had and are waiting for new ones. The mechanical trades which follow them in the order of construction are all still busy, and the general state of the building field is good. Brooklyn is doing twice as much as last year, and plans for between thirty and forty houses are being filed every day. Plans for 408 new buildings were filed in Queens during the month of September. In Manhattan there is marked activity in loft construction. Another new skyscraper was announced this week for 4th av. The transformation of this thoroughfare is proceeding with remarkable rapidity. Riverside Drive and Morningside Heights are getting a number of new apartment houses of the first rank. The building movement on the Heights has been one of the fine distinctions of the year.

A NEW BUILDING MATERIAL NEEDED FOR RESIDENCES.

ON the part of suburban builders there is a pronounced demand for the introduction of lighter forms of fireproof construction than are now available in this territory for dwelling-house work of a speculative nature. The opportunities which would present themselves to builders who could produce a fireproof dwelling that could be marketed for seven or eight thousand dollars were typified to the writer by inquiries made this week by a Newark builder among reinforced concrete engineers and architects here. This builder, who is now well engaged with contracts of the usual order, has had a proposition made to him by a large syndicate to produce a detached dwelling of fireproof construction that can be sold at the average price which homeseekers can pay. This builder informed the Record and Guide that the forms of fireproof construction which he is acquainted are too heavy for the class of small houses which it is desired to build. He is required to show a specimen house, and if he can meet the conditions he will expect a contract to erect hundreds.

The demand seems to be for a fireproof house no more expensive than one constructed of wood. It is not a vain hope. We understand that a process has been invented by a New York engineer by which concrete can be rapidly molded into hollow tile suitable for building purposes of the kind referred to, but which has not yet been publicly offered. Hitherto concrete building blocks have been made of "dry concrete," which does not possess the mechanical strength of or the weatherproof qualities of normal concrete. The new process is said to be revolutionary in the concrete industry, as it is the only method ever devised that permits the delivery of wet-process concrete in hollow shapes from molds with speed and economy.

It can be used for foundations, floors, walls, roofs and partitions, strong, true and light, to which stucco and plaster will adhere and which can be procured at a cost that will bring the dwelling within the limit of cost heretofore mentioned, and it is said to be especially suitable for the application of stucco. Many new textures and colors are now available in stuccos, and in addition there are beautiful effects derivable from the use of color masses in faience, mosaics and other materials which are destined in time under more favorable circumstances to do wonders for suburban architecture.

BRYANT FOUNDATIONS FINISHED.

The Foundation Company, of 115 Broadway, has completed the caisson work for the new 31-sty Bryant building at Nassau and Liberty st. The caissons were sunk to a depth of 95 ft., which is said to be lower than any other building in the city save that of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., the deepest caisson of which went to a depth equal to that just reached for the Bryant structure. The company began work on this operation on May 1 and has continued work night and day. The foundations are of solid concrete without anchor rods. The W. J. Cornell Co. has the plumbing contract for this building.

NEW BRIDGE FOR PARK AVENUE.—In May of last year the New York Central and the Harlem railroad companies were directed to construct for public use a footbridge over its tracks on Park av at 100th st. On July 2, 1909, nothing apparently having been done by the companies looking to the construction of the bridge, the Board of Estimate adopted a resolution directing the Corporation Counsel to take such steps as might be necessary to enforce its action of May 1, 1908, if the bridge were not constructed within the proper time. An inspection by city engineers on July 26, 1909 (two days after the work was required to be completed), showed that outside of a few concrete steps and piers in the roadways, nothing had been done by the companies. In view of this fact, on July 27 the Board put the Corporation Counsel on the trail. The Corporation Counsel wrote to the railroad companies asking to be advised as to what were their intentions in the matter, and under date of August 9, 1909, received a communication from Mr. Alex. S. Lyman, general attorney for the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company, who stated that the completion of the structure was delayed owing to the inability of the steel company to deliver the steel necessary; that it was understood that such delivery would be made during the then current month, and that the bridge would be wholly completed and ready for use on or before September 15. In view of these facts the Corporation Counsel left it to the Board to decide whether action should be begun against the company for its failure to construct the bridge within the time stipulated. An extension of time until November 1 has been granted.

SEVENTH AVENUE has begun to participate in the new commercial building movement, and will get its first 12-sty office and loft building as the result of the recent purchase of the southeast corner of 54th st by the Selkirk Realty Company. It is understood that an automobile agency will occupy part of the building, a fact which may be somewhat significant of a future rivalry with Broadway for this line of trade.

CONSTRUCTION

LAYING OUT COUNTRY ESTATES.

Landscape Architects Following in the Footsteps of Downing —Some of the New Places—Mr. Ramsdell's Garden.

A FAMOUS landscape architect, Mr. Downing Vaux, confirms a public impression that there is a decided revival of interest, and of actual operations as well, in the direction of large country estates and the mission of landscape architecture. What is referred to is the reverse of the fashion which for many years drew families of wealth and standing to build houses with large grounds at a limited number of socially approved watering places, as at Newport.

To understand the change aright, the reader should know that in the first half of the century the finest country estates on this continent were in the South. Comparatively few large places in the North were better than ordinary farms until Downing's time. Beyond the work of Andre Parmentier, a French landscape gardener, who had settled in Brooklyn, and a few English gardeners imported by wealthy landowners, there were no precedents in the North for the special architectural profession which Downing founded in America. A prevalent puritanical prejudice, of ancient New England lineage, was opposed to houses and grounds having a very ornamental quality, and this prejudice had to be rooted out.

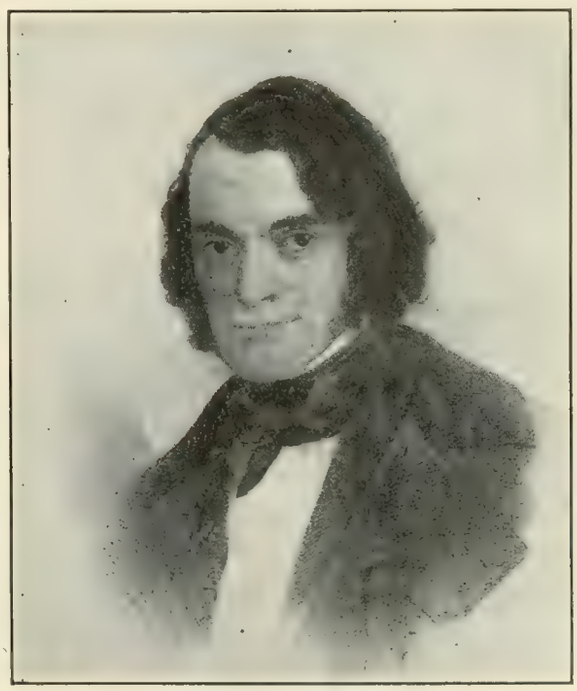
The fancy for laying out beautiful places, which developed along the Hudson and around Boston in the forties, received encouragement from the literary leaders of the time, notably Nathaniel P. Willis and George William Curtis. The "New York Mirror" and the "Horticulturist" were their allies. Downing was the editor of the "Horticulturist" and Willis of the "Home Journal," and they were near neighbors on the Hudson, whose shores saw some of the best of the early examples of Downing's work. Willis preached that the ideal life was not wholly in the city, nor entirely in the country, but combined both city and country. Around every fair village and town on the river families of wealth and position began to settle, and for many of them Downing and his partner, Calvert Vaux, the father of the Downing Vaux of our time, laid out charming places. The movement peopled the shores of the river with representatives not only of the first families of New York, but in the summer season—this was before the Civil War—many official and ambassadorial families from Washington gravitated there, besides foremost men in the arts, literature and sciences. Thus, in one town there lived permanently the families of no less than ten admirals of the navy, attracted by beautiful surroundings and by the cultivated society to be found there.



After the war Saratoga, Balston Spa, Long Branch and Newport, chiefly, became the vogue, and the newer generation of well-to-do Americans satisfied their craving for country residence with a villa at some such fashionable resort. These were summer residences merely, palatial no doubt, but still only temporary homes, and set most often on cramped plots. They were much different from the old places, which contained many acres, with the mansions set far back among the trees and approachable only by winding drives and through massive stone gateways.

Taste for mere villas is very evidently being superseded by a new preference for the characteristic occupations of a life combining business in the city with a large estate in the adjacent country. A number of families long prominent in Newport society have made this change, and are back on the old place, it may be where their fathers and grandfathers lived. True, many of our first families never went to Newport, or seceded from the old home.

Indications new and strong are that more families are intending to qualify for the dignity of having suburban homes large enough and graceful enough to be called "estates." When a manor house is erected in a park having an extent of 20 to 500 acres, it is merely an incident in the layout of a whole estate, rather than the supreme thing that the villa on a scanty acre or two is. There must be a sightly outlook, preferably with water in the distance, and a background of foliage, with the conveniences of a thriving town not too far distant; and the well-bred country gentleman and his family take a genuine interest in the choice and improving activities of that town, and to some extent become part of it.

Regions within touching distance of the Metropolis where a stronger interest in country life is to be noted, are the Hudson River counties, the Connecticut shore, the Jersey coast towns, the Palisades and the Montclair region in New Jersey.

"The country spirit is having a great reawakening," remarked Mr. Vaux this week. "There is a new and wider appreciation of life out of doors, which the automobile and the motor-boat are partly responsible for. More and more people of judgment are realizing that the landscape architect is a necessity when they start to improve their grounds, and have ceased to look on him as one useful only in making pretty flower beds. The idea that he is only to be employed by the wealthy is also passing away. And the time is near those who entrust work of importance, that should be done by the landscape architect, to plausible, but untrained foremen, will be laughed at." The new homes of the Harrimans and the Rockfellers are prominent examples of recent work among many which could be mentioned. Landscape architectural practice is not confined to new grounds. Some of the best new work is being done on old estates. Mr. S. D. Coykendall, president of the Ulster & Delaware Railroad, and also president of the Cornell Steamboat Company, has been making fine improvements to his place in the Catskills, and the George Goulds are also taking a new interest in their estate in the same region, where their father's boyhood was spent. Mr. James A. P. Ramsdell has had considerable done to his grounds at Balmville, besides adding thirty acres. On this place is a very famous glen, which is being left in its natural state as far as possible. Mr. Aspinwall is laying out grounds and building an all-the-year house in the same neighborhood.

Calvin Tomkins, president of the Municipal Art Society, is laying out a new place near Stony Point, and Mr. Foss's new house and grounds in course of erection at Nyack have been heretofore referred to in this paper. Hon. Seth Low, former Mayor of New York, is improving a new place at Bedford, in Westchester County. Stuyvesant Fish at Garrisons, Mr. Stillman at Cornwall, Colonel Astor at Rhinecliff, Mr. John D. Rockefeller at Tarrytown, and Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan at West Point are all taking new interest in their Hudson River homes. Mr. Astor's yacht the Nourmahal and Mr. Morgan's Corsair contributed a large measure of distinction to the up-river celebrations in honor of Hudson and Fulton.

Mrs. Harriman will hereafter make "Arden House" her all-the-year home. She will have the mansion completed from the original plans and the 42,000 acres laid out and maintained as Mr. Harriman wished. Two million dollars more is the estimate of what will be spent in improving the estate, whose payroll averages $18,000 weekly. Carrere & Hastings are the architects.

Richard Schermerhorn, Jr., relates in the "House and Garden" for September some of the incidents in the career of Andrew Jackson Downing. He says that while it is well known that there are many places existing to-day, particularly on the Hudson, which were laid out by Downing, it is very difficult to trace them. The period of sixty years back is beyond the recollection of most persons living to-day and it is a pity that no records of importance were ever kept. Downing's most well-known work, however, was in connection with the Capitol grounds at Washington, the White House and the Smithsonian Institution, for which he made plans in 1851.

Several private estates known to have been laid out by Downing at Newburgh are described by Mr. Schermerhorn. He says of one of these, the David Barclay place: "Here we may recognize Downing's work in the well-placed clusters of large trees that give the very attractive old-fashioned house such a picturesque framing. We may also recognize the judgment with which a thick grouping of spruces was placed on the northwest side of the house to form such a desirable windbreak against the cold winter winds and also help toward the enclosing of an attractive vista from the road. The other large oaks and maples are so arranged that it surely looks as if none but an experienced hand were concerned in this. The winding driveway which approaches the residence from the main road some four hundred feet away, is graceful and picturesque and bears the stamp of professional treatment. Perhaps Downing stopped at this point, however, as there is a scarcity of group planting of shrubbery and low growing trees which is so necessary to bring out variety and enhance the charm of a place. The lawns surrounding the house are well kept and broad, but we miss the gradual blending between the works of nature and man which the landscape architect is accustomed to develop by the judicious use of shrubbery and the various horticultural aids. The character of the design of the house is particularly suggestive of the time of Downing & Vaux, and the interior as well as the exterior is full of old-fashioned charm. Furniture of decided artistic merit and of the style of several generations ago is predominant in every room, and paintings and prints of bygone days cover the wall."

SPEEDING GIMBEL STORE ERECTION.

The Thompson-Starrett Company, 49 Wall st, erected the first column of steel for the big Gimbel store, at 32d, 33d sts and Broadway, on Tuesday. The completed structure, which will be 10 stories above and 3 below grade, will contain 11,000 tons of steel, and it is planned to erect it at the rate of over 1,800 tons per week.

This schedule, of course, will demand terrific pressure and, if adhered to, it will mean that before December 1st, next, or within about six weeks, every pound of steel will have been riveted into place, and his company will have created a new record for rapidity in steel erection. With the setting of steel under way, the numerous other lines of work will follow in logical succession.

W. S. Dinwiddie, 2d vice-president of the Thompson-Starrett Company, who is in charge of all the company's construction work in New York and adjacent cities, said: 'It's pretty early to make forecasts regarding the exact completion date of a building of this magnitude, and we do not care to be committed on the point just yet. But with fair weather conditions, and always barring possible contingencies, the building should be ready for New York to shop at Gimbel's in the Spring, although our contract does not call for completion before the Fall."

The lease to the Gimbels and the contract for the erection of the building were both signed April 23, 1909. At that date Messrs. D. H. Burnham & Co., the architects for this operation, had not started on the working plans. If, therefore, the Gimbel Building is opened to the public during April, 1910, it will mean that the drawings and specifications, and the preparation and assembling of materials for this structure—which covers 80,000 square feet and contains 27 acres of floor space—will have been performed within twelve months. About 120,000 cubic yards of rock had to be removed before the plot was ready for actual building operations. This in itself is held to be a feat in construction accomplishment, but the plans approach the realm of the stupendous when it is considered that the whole operation will be finished in twelve months.

A HOUSE ON UNIVERSITY HEIGHTS.

The new house of Charles E. Dowdall, on University Heights, with a situation as peaceful and suburban-like as its outer form, has attracted pleasant attention from those passing on Aqueduct av. It is built of white pressed brick, and white limestone, laid with the Flemish bond, the mortar joints wide and open.

The roof is of red Spanish tile with moulded corner gutters and valleys—a fine, strong, sturdy roof, covering the house with vigorous lines and extending down below the wall summits, broken only by the chimneys and dormer windows. The broad porch also has a red Spanish tile roof, which is supported on large brick piers, and two plain columns. It has much the general character of an outdoor sitting room. The floors are of red tile.

The entrance hall is divided into two sections by columns. On the left are the library, dining-room and kitchen. The parlor is on the right. The vestibule, hall and stairway are trimmed in quartered white oak, handcraft finish; the library, dining-room and a den in chestnut, and also finished by the handcraft method. Parlor and bedrooms are in ivory white and old mahogany.

The library contains an ingle-nook, with built-in seats and book-cases, and a brick fireplace. The floor of the ingle-nook is raised six inches above the library floor, and faced with large red Welsh tile measuring six inches by nine inches each. The joints are made with olive green cement. The hearth of the fireplace rises four inches above the tiling, and is in red brick, laid in herring-bone fashion. The mantel is built with common Hudson River brick in large open joints. On each side of the mantel are two art windows, glazed with rondels. The ceiling is beamed and the wall wainscoted with wide boards V jointed.

The dining-room contains a square bay with a built-in seat and a fireplace. The walls are wainscoted. The general treatment of the dining-room is similar to that of the library. The ceiling is beamed.

The den is on the second floor, and is a pronounced example of the craftsman idea. The room is fitted up as an ideal smoking room and den. The rows of small windows on either side admit floods of sunshine. There are four bedrooms, a study and a bathroom.

TRADE JURISDICTION.—Mr. James Kirby, president of the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor, at the convention of that department at Tampa, Fla., on Monday, made a speech in which he showed some of the difficulties which the building trades unions have undergone during the past year. In Denver, he said, the fight between the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and the Brotherhood of Carpenters had resulted in the almost complete disorganization of one of the best organized cities in the United States. The organization of building trades councils, he reported not to have been very much of a success in a considerable number of places and he recommended that in order to reduce to a minimum the injurious effects of friction in local labor organizations that new rules or laws be adopted to provide that all jurisdictional disputes in local building trades councils be referred at once to the president of the department, and pending his decision no one should be disturbed in the performance of work. The question of jurisdiction has at times been found exceedingly troublesome here in New York. The disputes between the marble workers and the freestone cutters are instances of the fact.

—The first monthly meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers for 1909-10 was held in the Engineers' Building on Tuesday evening, October 12. A paper was presented by Professor R. C. Carpenter, of Cornell University, upon the "High-Pressure Pumping System of New York City."

THE AMERICAN BOY'S CHANCES.

The Restrictions Which Trade Unions Place on the Number of Apprentices—The Reasons Therefor Explained—How a Boy Can Get a Start.

What is to be the future of the American boy? What his means of obtaining a livelihood and discharging the duties which good citizenship imposes? In other days there was no question about a boy being permitted to settle into some good trade; the only question was as to his own preference and his fitness for the trade. We often hear boys advised to learn a trade, but when one applies for work, he finds, in the majority of cases, that no more apprentices can be taken; the union limits the number and the waiting list of applicants is a long one. What is the surplus boy to do? Is it right to deprive the American boy of the right to learn a trade?

The question was submitted by the Record and Guide to the chief executive of the building trades council in New York, Mr. Roswell D. Tompkins, in the form of some remarks by the secretary of an employers' association, and his answer follows:

BY ROSWELL D. TOMPKINS.

IN a recent article on the labor subject, Mr. A. C. Marshall, Secretary of the Dayton (Ohio) Employers' Association, made remarks on the subject of restricting apprentices, and what he says is this: "The restrictions which trades unionism places on the number of apprentices, thereby robbing the youth of the country of their birthright—the right to follow the example of their father by learning a trade and becoming skilled mechanics—are among the abuses and crimes perpetrated in the name of organized labor. 'What can I find for my boy to do?' is the question which is asked thousands of times a day by anxious parents.

"Once a boy could be apprenticed to learn a trade—not so now. Organized Labor works the ruin of hundreds of thousands of young men by preventing them from learning a trade.

"From this class come the inmates of reform schools, workhouses, jails and penitentiaries. Depriving boys of the right to learn a trade drives them into idleness, and idleness leads to crime.

"The time is not far distant when there will be an 'open door' to all such, and it will be the door of the 'open shop.' The time is at hand when an outraged public sentiment will so influence legislation, State and National, that Organized Labor will be compelled to plead to the indictment of crime against God and mankind, preferred against it by the boyhood and motherhood of America."

Now let us go into this and see what Mr. Marshall knows, as he shows only one side of the shield. There is another side, which is seen by organized labor, and that is, "The law of supply and demand." Even in boom times there seem to be in most of the industries MECHANICS ENOUGH FOR ALL THE WORK TO BE DONE, AND OFTENTIMES THERE ARE TOO MANY.

Is there any town in the country where there are not already enough "correspondence and trade school graduates" who have been misguided into the fallacy that bricklaying, plastering, plumbing, carpentry, painting, electrical and other mechanical trades can be learned in a three-months course costing from twenty-five to one hundred dollars per trade?

Imagine a course by mail on "How to carry the Hod," for ten dollars the course. When the Secretary of the Dayton Employers' Association realizes that Organized Labor represents the brawn and muscle of the Building Trades, and that each and every one of the members has seen fit to choose his own profession, studied it as an apprentice, helper and improver, until he is to-day the master of his craft, such remarks will seem unwarranted from any man, no matter what his calling or how he earns his living, whether it be by the sweat of his brow, or by sucking the lifeblood out of unorganized labor. (The latter is generally the way the calamity howlers gets theirs.) An attack of this nature clearly shows to those who know differently that the person who writes such rot understands naught of what he speaks, and cannot be taken seriously by anyone.

HOW TO LEARN A TRADE.

The American Boy in the Building Trades to-day has better conditions and prospects than the mechanic of to-day who twenty-five years ago was himself the "boy." Let us go over the crafts and see how a boy can learn a trade. THE QUESTION ITSELF IS ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT OF THE AGE. In old times it was not a question of a boy being able to settle into some good trade; the only question then was as to his preference and fitness. We have the "open door," not the "open shop," for bright, intelligent boys in trades, which imposes from three to five years' apprenticeship, and a helper or improver system. As the supply far exceeds the demand, a limit has to be imposed, just the same as a corporation limits the number of its directors or the Stock Exchanges limit their membership, or the Army and Navy limit their forces to a given number.

The bricklayer, carpenter, cement mason, stone-cutter, sheet-metal worker, tilelayer, marble-cutter, boiler-maker, machinist, elevator constructor, steam-fitter, electrician, plumber and gas-fitter, roofer and waterproofer, painter, lather, mosaic-worker, plasterer, rigger, house-shorer, machine stone worker,, iron-worker, engineer, marble polisher, coppersmith, tinsmith, insulators and others, all start to-day as either "apprentices" or "helpers," and advance to "improvers" or "juniors,' then to full-fledged mechanics or journeymen.

Let me say right here that they are not run out of their trades like a circular off a printing-press, but when their time comes for advancement and the demand is there for their services, they advance and make room for other boys. Anxious parents who themselves never contributed any of their labor to the trades cannot expect the machanic who is the father of one, two or a half dozen boys, to make his own sit idly down while the self-styled "anxious parents' " offspring hops in.

A boy's chances are better to-day in the Building Trades than ever, providing he is fit; but as we see so many unfit ones, who are lazier than mules, and prefer some one else to support them in idleness, what's the use of discussing such?

WHAT A BOY CAN DO.

If a bright, intelligent boy is desirous of entering one of the crafts in the building trades, and no immediate member of the family is connected with organized labor, let this boy seek the acquanitance of any union man on any building under course of erection and ask him what the chances are for a boy entering upon the trade, and you can depend on it that the representative of organized labor will enlighten the boy.

Another aspect of the question is the large number of skilled mechanics entering this country from foreign lands. They have to be considered as a factor, and organized labor attaches them to their ranks upon application.

The phrase, to quote Mr. A. C. Marshall, "Organized Labor works the ruin of young men by preventing them learning a trade, and from this class come the inmates of workhouses, jails, etc.," is out of place; for if any young man or boy so far forgets himself as to violate the laws, it is better for organized labor that this selfsame person never should be a member. He will learn a trade in prison, and then his output will be put in competition with honest labor on the "open shop" plan, as prayed for by such employers as are always looking for cheap labor and never give a thought to "the laborer worthy of his hire." It was always thus, and no doubt will continue.

The time is not far distant when all civilized persons will realize that they are entitled to one hundred cents for one dollar's worth of labor, and not get paid at the rate of fifty cents on the dollar; for organized labor does not go into bankruptcy like many mushroom employers do. A reliable employer respects Organized Labor, and Organized Labor respects the employer and gives its labor for the rate of compensation mutually agreed upon for services rendered on the "closed shop" plan. Competition is beggarly and always has proven itself so under the "open shop" system, and as they sow let them reap.

THE FORT GEORGE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY by Frank Hedley, president, has requested the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to authorize the refunding of certain sums heretofore paid to the City of New York under and pursuant to a contract dated May 31, 1907, granting to the company the right to construct, maintain and operate a street surface railway on St. Nicholas av, from 190th st north along said avenue and across private property to connect with the rapid transit railway station at or near Dyckman st. The particular sums mentioned are the initial payment of $5,000 and the security deposit of $7,000 paid to the city in 1907. It having been determined that a rapid transit station shall be constructed at 191st st and St. Nicholas av, there is no further need for the construction of the Fort George Street Railway Company as planned. The Comptroller now has charge of the case. The Fort George Street Railway Company was organized by the Henry Morgenthau Company, which was the owner of property on both sides of St. Nicholas av, between Fairview av and 190th st. The property is situated on a high hill and the rapid transit railway passes beneath the property at a depth of about 170 feet, and as it lies about midway between the station at 181st st and that at Dyckman st, a distance of nearly a mile, it was not very accessible.

EXCHANGE OF SEWERAGE.—What may prevent litigation between Orange and West Orange, and incidentally make it possible for each municipality to save thousands of dollars, is a plan for an exchange of sewerage privileges which has been suggested by Judge Thomas A. Davis, as acting Town Counsel for West Orange. Eventually the two towns will be consolidated, and in a case like this co-operation would seem to be the part of wisdom.

RESPONSIBILITY OF ARCHITECTS.

The measure of responsibility an architect assumes when he engages to superintend the construction of a building is stated in an opinion just handed down by Justice Gerard of the New York Supreme Court, First Department.

The question in the case is whether it is within the duty of an architect employed to superintend the construction and erection of a building to superintend also the work of the contractors, not merely to the end that the building shall be in accordance with the plans and specifications, but ALSO TO THE END THAT THE OWNER SHALL NOT BE MADE LIABLE FOR DAMAGES sustained by reason of any neglect. The names of the parties do not fully appear in the copy of the paper handed down, and only the principles of law are set forth.

Justice Gerard has overruled the demurer of a firm of architects of this city to the counterclaim set forth in the amended answer in the case in question. The gist of the counterclaim is, briefly, that the defendants, as the owners, employed the plaintiffs as architects to prepare plans and specifications and to superintend the construction and erection of a certain building in the City of New York, and that the plaintiffs negligently suffered and permitted the contractors engaged in the construction of the building to carry on their work contrary to the laws of the State of New York, in that they negligently permitted the openings and shafts through which the hoisting apparatus, elevators and elevating machines were operated to remain unguarded; that the inclosure of such openings is usual and necessary to prevent persons from falling into the same, and it is required by the laws of the State of New York; that one George Henry W., while lawfully on the premises, fell through the shaft or opening on the fifth floor of the building and died at a result of the injuries thereby sustained; that the accident was due to the negligence of the plaintiffs in permitting such opening or shaft to remain unguarded and in permitting the contractors engaged in the construction of the building to carry out their work in a negligent and unlawful manner; that one Charles W.., as administrator of the estate of said George Henry W., brought suit against the owners in the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York and recovered a judgment against them for the sum of $11,656.30, and that the defendants expended the sum of $814.40 for attorneys' fees, witness fees and other expenses incurred by them in the defense of said action.

To this counterclaim the architects, as plaintiffs, demur. A demurrer to the counterclaim contained in the original answer was sustained by Mr. Justice Bischoff, and the plaintiffs claim that under the authority of his decision the counterclaim of the amended answer is likewise demurrable. The original answer seems to have been drawn, says Justice Gerard, as reported in the Law Journal, upon the theory that the plaintiffs had bound themselves that the contractors engaged in the construction of the building would perform their work in conformity with the requirements of the laws of the State of New York, and agreed that such contractors would use ordinary and reasonable care in the performance of their work; that is, as Justice Bischoff said, that the architects had by agreement assumed an obligation to respond to the owners for the negligence of the contractors or other persons engaged in the construction of the building. This the court said was not incidental to the services ordinarily rendered by architects in superintending the construction of a building, and that the plaintiffs in attempting to set forth the agreement, had pleaded only their conclusion.

"The counterclaim of the amended answer, however, is based on negligence. That an architect is liable to his employer for negligence in the performance of his duties is well settled, and the DEMURRER RAISES THE QUESTION WHETHER IT IS WITHIN THE DUTY OF AN ARCHITECT EMPLOYED TO PREPARE PLANS AND SPECIFICATIONS AND TO SUPERINTEND THE CONSTRUCTION AND ERECTION OF A BUILDING, to superintend the work of the contractors, not merely to the end that the building shall when completed be properly erected in accordance with the plans and specifications, but also to the end that THE OWNER SHALL NOT BE MADE LIABLE FOR DAMAGES by reason of the fact that the building is constructed in a manner prohibited by law.

"I can find no authority whatever on this question, except possibly the statement in Hudson on Building Contracts (2d ed., vol. 1, p. 51), that an architect, acting as superintendent, is bound to give all notices required by law to the local and other authorities and to adjoining owners, and that if the contractor binds himself to give all necessary notices the architect is none the less bound, as superintendent of the works, to see that the contractor does what he bargained to do, or to inform the employer if the contractor fails to do so. I do not rely on this statement, but, disregarding it, I think that it is the duty of an architect employed to superintend the construction of the building to generally represent the owner on the premises and in every way protect his interests in relation thereto with reasonable care and diligence, to see to it not only that the building is erected in accordance with the plans and specifications, but also to exercise reasonable care that the owners shall not be made liable to pay damages for personal injuries by reason of failure to comply with the requirements of the law.

"The plaintiffs also claim that the counterclaim fails to state a cause of action for the reason that it contains no allegation that the defendants have paid the judgment recovered against them by the administrator of W——; that it is not the recovery of a judgment, but the payment thereof, which constitutes the foundation of an action for indemnity. This may be true, but it is unnecessary at the present time to decide that question, as the counterclaim alleges the expenditure of $814.40 for the necessary expenses of the defense of the action brought against them by the administrator, and if these expenses were reasonably incurred they form a proper basis for an action (Phoenix Bridge Co. v. Creem, 102 App. Div., 354, aff'd 185 N. Y., 580). Demurrer overruled."

New York, Oct. 11, 1909.

To the Record and Guide Co., 11 East 24th St., New York City:

Gentlemen—As a regular subscriber to the Record and Guide, it occurred to me that you would be interested to know how successfully I have used the information it contains each week, in getting business.

I recently finished a contract that was worth over $2,000 to me that I obtained through following up a lead given in the Record and Guide under the heading "Where Building Materials are Needed." I would never have heard of this job had it not been for the fact that you publish such information as soon as plans are filed. While at first I was skeptical regarding my ability to get any good out of your paper, I am now thoroughly convinced of its merits.

Yours very truly, A. G. BROWN.

Mr. Brown conducts a general plumbing, steam and gas-fitting business at 239 E. 42d st, and is prepared to give estimates on any contract in his line. His work on the contract referred to in his letter, located at 235 West 46th st, was, we are informed, so satisfactory to the owner, a prominent builder, that future contracts will be given him.

Who can say it did not pay to take a chance on investing $8 covering a year's subscription to the Record and Guide?

COMPOSITE BRICK AND CONCRETE BUILDING CONSTRUCTION.

ONE obstacle in the way of securing cheapness in constructing reinforced concrete buildings is the cost of the forms, which frequently cannot be used again. Mr. F. W. Dean, mill engineer and architect, of Boston, has recently designed a number of buildings with brick walls and reinforced concrete floors and roofs which remove this obstacle and overcome the objections frequently urged against the appearance of reinforced concrete buildings unless the owners are prepared to spend sufficient money to finish them up in an attractive manner.

Unfortunately, this is not often done in buildings of the manufacturing type. By the use of brick walls it is, however, possible to obtain the excellent appearance of brickwork, and to do so without the use of forms. In the buildings designed by Mr. Dean the concrete girders and floor slabs are connected to the brickwork without difficulty. The result is that the advantages of a reinforced concrete building are obtained at less cost and without any special knowledge of concrete for the walls.

The accompanying illustrations show the method of construction employed by Mr. Dean. The building, 48 feet 4 inches wide

ADVANCE REPORTS.

Manhattan Builders Bid for Bergen County Court House.

HACKENSACK, N. J.—Bids were opened at Hackensack, the county seat of Bergen county, last week, for one of the finest court houses in the United States. As designed by James Riely Gordon, architect, of 402 5th av, Manhattan, the building will be of classic style, after the Italian school—massive, graceful and conspicuous for simplicity and beauty. From an historic standpoint, the site selected has several things in its favor. It will face the "Village Green" and the First Dutch Reformed Church, long known as the "old church on the green," being the oldest church building in New Jersey. The bids submitted from four firms for the new building were lengthy affairs and had numerous items on the different parts of the work. All submitted bids for three kinds of stone—granite, white sandstone and marble. The contestants are all well-known Manhattan contractors: Wm. H. Fissell & Co., 1133 Broadway, Manhattan, at $497,300, were the lowest bidders. Other bidders were: The Brady Construction Co., New York, $564,840; W. H. & F. W. Cane, New York, $594,309; Hedden Construction Co., New York, $626,396. Each bid was accompanied by a certified check for $75,000. It was explained by the committee that these figures do not include grading, foundation work, sculpture nor interior finishing of different descriptions. In all probability the bid of Fissell & Co., which is for work from the lowest floor up, will bring the total cost of the new buildings up to at least $800,000. Many of the items which are included in the base bids will be cut out or will be altered. Judging from the figures submitted, Fissell & Co. will get the contract. The building committee includes James M. Gulnac, George M. Brewster and Walter Christie, all of Hackensack. (See issue Feb. 27, 1909.)

The main floor will provide for seven classrooms, auditorium, stage and ante-rooms, reception room, principal's offices, board room, toilets. On the second floor will be contained eight classrooms, two recitation rooms, library, teachers' rooms, toilets. The third floor will consist of eight classrooms, physical and chemical laboratories, lecture room, instructors' room, teachers' room, storerooms, toilets. The plans show a building of brick and terra cotta with steel columns and girders to be finished with faced brick, stone and terra cotta. The cost is placed at $285,000. Anticipation far exceeded realization in the matter of beacon fires along the Hudson last Saturday night. There is a remarkable unanimity all along the river that the public got "stung" in this particular. The steamer Mary Powell, with a party of friends, searched from Rondout to Haverstraw for gorgeous mountain fires, but found none of consequence. Old-fashioned bonfires would have made a bigger blaze than the peat, which is used for heat, rather than for light.

Mr. Francis Wiley Jones, a past vice-president and charter member of the Institute of Electrical Engineers who resigned from the Postal Telegraph Company two years ago, has recently become a resident of Spring Valley, N. The first Columbus Day decoration of the Slater Buildings, in 42d st, opposite the New Public Library and the Court of Honor, is helped by the notable Italian frescoes done on the fronts for the Hudson-Fulton celebration. The scheme planned and executed by Joseph P. McHugh & Co., includes a plastic replica of an old Genoese medallion of Columbus as a central feature of the balcony enrichment; Roman palms, laurel wreaths and garlands are outlined against a graceful drapery of antique Spanish damask in dull gold and old red colorings, showing at intervals the flat balustrade of the balcony in laurel green and Roman gold.

Market Brisk and Steady.

Building material men looked upon the effort to make Columbus Day a holiday as an annoyance. They considered that in view of the events of the last few weeks there have been holidays enough. In consequence, operations were not halted to any extent. Skilled laborers continued in most instances while the unskilled men paraded. Good weather helped to make the market brisk and steady. Hudson River brick had a good demand while contracts kept Raritans on the move. Cement was a little easier. Iron stood firm with rising tendency, while structural steel began to follow tin sheets in something like famine conditions. Sheet metals held strong and aimed upward. Lumber was steady at firm prices, the retailers ordering liberally and the wholesalers stacking. Stone was the most optimistic of the materials. An increasing demand has followed the celebration days and retailers no longer find themselves "bumping along on the bottom." Collections, however, are still slow with them. Announcement was made that retailers need look for no increase in prices before Jan. 1. Exchange sales were brisk this week, although only part week could be counted, the doors being closed on Tuesday. Suburban business is holding neighboring material men well and most of them are stacking brick.

Brick Finds Good Demand.

Brick had a good demand. Sales were quick at from $5.25 to $5.75 although three-eighths to a half ruled. Toward the week end trade was brisk. Monday opened fair and Tuesday was a strong day despite the fact that it was a legal holiday. Cargoes unloaded slowly that afternoon because most of the Italian laborers quit work to march. This did not interfere with many jobs as contractors figured on little trucking on account of the blockade of streets and the fact that unskilled labor would not be available; and carted heavily on Monday.

Wednesday consequently fell away in sales, but they improved as the week wore on. That the demand for Hudson rivers is good—no more and no less—is shown by last week's transactions: Holdovers, Oct. 2, 16; arrived, 68; total, 84. Sold, 79. Holdovers Oct. 11, 5. The transactions for this week on the whole were normal.

FROST NIPS SOME YARDS.

Several Haverstraw yards closed and several more will shut down to-day. Ice formed on Tuesday night in Fishkill. Each section is sending in its quota of brick, but this is true mostly in the up-river districts, where the shipments are heavier. Some of the most important yards, such as the Hammond establishment, will remain open for some time. Some of the Haverstraw yards will close down this week.

LITTLE STACKING IN CITY.

Despite the fact that the making season is rapidly drawing to a close, few of the dealers here are stacking to anything like the extent they did a year ago. This is accepted as an indication that the biggest contractors do not expect much work to come out before early spring, March, for instance. Interviews with several leading architects indicated that work in hand will not be ready to go ahead with until the end of January anyway. The dealers report a good demand which they describe as being requirements for average work only. We find that contractors are optimistic and expect next year to be a banner one. Present consumption is fluctuating but the movement is for a good winter.

RARITANS HELD BY CONTRACTS.

With only a slight improvement in the market for Raritan River hards the yards of Sayre & Fisher are being kept busy with contract work. The present quotations are $5.25 to $5.75 with $5.50 ruling. Most of the contracts are for suburban operations in four of the boroughs of New Jersey. Newark is taking large quantities and most of the shipments now are to suburban dealers who are storing in expectation of a busy winter. No announcement is made as to when the Raritan River yards will shut. The disposition is to keep open as long as possible to take care of contracts it has on hand.

BARTLETT SALE POSTPONED.

The eyes of the brick makers all along the Hudson have been rivited upon the Bartlett brick yards which were to have been sold at a receiver's sale on Saturday at noon in Newburgh. At the last moment application was made to postpone the sale for thirty days, which will schedule the transfer to take place at the Newburgh courthouse at noon November 9. It is understood that negotiations are on foot for an amicable adjustment of the difficulties involved.

Rosendale Business Picking Up.

The reduction in price of Rosendale or Natural cement reported in this department several weeks ago and since continued, has resulted in improved business in the last fortnight. No change has been made in grade nor in manufacture, the cut having been due indirectly to competition with Pennsylvania natural cement. Rosendale has not been as low as 80 cents in many years.

HALTING PLANS HURT CEMENT.

Every passing week there is a greater tendency to hold off new work until spring, or at least until the first of the year, and in consequence there has been a large falling off in volume of local cement business. A possibility of a restoration of better prices by the North American Portland Cement Company is as remote as ever. The opinion was voiced by a member of the Building Material Exchange, on Monday, that while the Fall is showing fair business, the winter will be dull for no other reason than that operators will not go ahead with work for which plans have been filed.

Pig Iron In Fluctuating Market.

The week in pig iron opened laggardly, but on Tuesday, a quasi-holiday, greater strength developed. This continued during the remainder of the week.

Inquiries were fairly plentiful, but some of the furnaces have reached the stage where they will not take any more business under first half except for those firms who buy prompts, and who are willing to pay the full price asked by holders. Basic is not available for this year's delivery, and only at $18.50 Delaware, for next year's shipments. Buffalo is selling into the first half, but Pennsylvania is taking only first quarter business.

There is still some pig iron being imported, the United States Cast Iron Pipe Co. having two boats on the way from Middleborough, England, at this time. Prices stand on last week's quotations, but it is admitted by well-posted iron men that $20 iron is not far off, despite the advantage at present enjoyed by foreign producers. The demand is best illustrated by the purchase of 46,000 tons of Bessemer by the Cambria Steel Co. last week which cleaned out the valley furnaces of that grade. A shortage that has a leaning toward famine conditions is looked for by Bessemer interests in Pittsburgh. New records are being made in this commodity each month, the situation being quite unprecedented.

GREAT SCARCITY OF TIN PLATES.

There is a continuing scarcity of tin plates, and conditions are bordering upon famine in this product. Many jobbers are out of sizes and cannot fill orders except in odds, and even in these their resources are limited. Some of the larger companies are scouring the country, not to mention the city, for plates. Prices are no object. The Steel Corporation is four months behind its deliveries and is not making much progress in catching up. Some of the big consumers are cutting waste.

The situation is serious, but while it will have a subsequent effect upon building, there is no need for apprehension at present. Flashings come under the head of tern plates upon which deliveries are being made, although slowly, and prices have an upward tendency. Roofing may feel the rub later, but for the present the local jobbers are looking out for them with the supplies they have at their command, providing, of course, they are regular customers.

BUILDERS SAFE UNTIL DECEMBER.

We warn builders contemplating the use of large quantities of tin to order now; first, because prices will go very much higher after December, and second, because in that month canners will buy their stock for next year's fruit season, and the mills will have all they can do to meet this demand, following the delays and backward deliveries of the first three-quarters of this year.

CAUSE OF PRESENT STRINGENCY.

Present conditions are a fulfillment of the Record and Guide's prophesy made in June just before the big strike at the tin mills. We advised buying then. Some did and are safe now. After the mills shut down, the final revision of the tariff brought returned confidence, and business that had been held back came in with a rush. Prices advanced and still the volume increased. Instead of a Summer lull, as was the case with other building material markets, sheets held firm, sustaining every advance. Even when the quotations were marked up 10 per cent. it failed to check the buying, and the mills were swamped. In consequence the mills to-day have more specifications in hand than they can dispose of before the first of the year at the very earliest.

STRUCTURAL FEELING BOOM.

The first hint of a visitation of sheet-metal conditions upon structural steel is in the present scarcity of soft steel bars. The recent rise has not checked business, but on the other hand the demand is rapidly exceeding the supply. The mills are filled to from 85 per cent. to full capacity and are not making scheduled shipments. There is no question that the present boom will be reflected in early building activity in this city, as nearly all the fabricating plants are filling up with small business, large quantities of which always presage large tonnages to follow.

IMPORTATIONS NOT A MENACE.

While there is no reason to doubt that higher prices in this material will come before Spring, there is little likelihood of importations cutting a wide swath in structural steel. It might be brought in cheaper, but few builders care to take the risks involved. If foreign shapes are not up to specifications, they cannot be shipped back. They are practically unsalable here and duplication cannot be insisted upon for rectification. Delays are costly. It is therefore probable that better prices will prevail and that most of this business will be held in American mills.

Lumber Situation Satisfactory.

Lumber, on the whole, is doing well for this season of the year. The yards are replenishing their stocks by schooner and rail and are stacking heavily for the winter. The retailers are busy, they say, and have been drawing heavily on the wholesalers. Hardwoods are holding their own and the mills are hurrying orders as fast as possible, but they are unable to meet the business in the volume it has come in of late. As an indication of the trouble that some of the Southern lumber yards have had in getting water power, which has hampered some of them considerably, the Strasburg Manufacturing Co., which has an office at 12 West 31st st, where E. P. Gebhard is the local representative, is planning to install a water system of its own. Mr. Gebhard has been in Strasburg, West Virginia, all week, looking after the engineering features of the work. Prices for various grades stand as quoted:

Stone Shows Great Improvement.

Stone had an active market. Big contracts are about to be let and the disposition this week was that of optimism. Arlando Marine, a wholesaler in building stone and marble, is so confident in what the local market has in store for the stone men next year that he has ordered 50,000 cu. ft. rough stone to be delivered in this quarter. Other stone men have made large requisitions on the quarries but few equal or exceed the above figure.

PRESENT PRICES TO STAY UNTIL JAN. 1.

Although the stone market is improved and has shown a better tendency since the mid-summer slump the Record and Guide is able to assure retailers that they can rely upon present prices remaining until Jan. 1. Conservatism will at that time undoubtedly prevail.

The quarrymen feel that with building material in general moving up and in consideration of the fact that since the panic no material advancement has been made in building stone as has been the case with other materials, they are entitled to some of the boom business that is expected to come next year.

RETAILERS SLOW TO RECOVER.

It has been said that when hard times come, it is always the last man who feels it who gets it the hardest. This is undoubtedly true in the building stone market. The cutters felt the pinch the hardest and while other building material people have gotten out of the slough of despond and have felt the improved building conditions of summer and fall the stone men are just getting back into deep water after a hard fight for nearly eighteen months. Many wholesalers are carrying along accounts which, while perfectly good, are slow, simply because money is tight among the retailers, who find themselves obliged to immediately plunge into the big operations of the pre-boom season after a season of reaction and slow collections.

MERELY FOLLOWING SLATE.

Stone is following the lead of slate. Slate cut first, then stone came down. It was only recently that the Record and Guide announced an advance in the price of roofing slate and since that has been well sustained it is said that the stone quarrymen at their January meeting will take similar action and possibly advance some kinds of slate some more.

MAY SELECT MARBLE.

The Record and Guide is informed that marble will probably be selected as the material of construction for the Bergen County Court House, at Hackensack.

Thatcher Heating Surface Enlarged.

Attention is invited by the Thatcher Furnace Co. to its "Progress" Boiler, in which, through slight changes in formation, the already large heating surface has been materially increased. The result of a careful and scientific test shows, in the 36 different sizes, conservative ratings in direct heating power of from 525 to 15,000 sq. ft. in steam and from 850 to 24,000 in hot water. Special attention is called to its "D" series, ranging in capacity from 6,000 to 24,000 sq. ft., which may be used as a single boiler or by simply closing the proper cut-off valve operated as two separate boilers, each independently of the other. This is a new and economical feature in large boiler construction, and full information will be cheerfully furnished to architects, heating engineers and steam fitters by writing the manufacturers, The Thatcher Frunace Co., 110-116 Beekman st, New York, or 154 Lake st, Chicago.

How Concrete Withstood a Hurricane.

When the daily papers reported the big West Indian hurricane this week railroad men at once inquired what effect the big storm had had upon the concrete spans carrying the Florida East Coast Railway Company's trains from the mainland out to the Keys. Quite as anxious were the officials of that railroad to know how the concrete structure had withstood the battering of the waves and the ramming of wreckage against the structure practically along its entire length. Engineers' reports received by local officials of the road stated that the structure itself was undamaged although the waves swept over it higher than the roofs of the cars.

The great viaducts, built, by the way, with Alsen's American and German Portland cement, upon coral reefs, stood unscathed, while the storm leveled almost every structure in the little town of Key West. There was some loss of life among laborers extending the viaduct over the final stretch to Key West, but the only property loss reported was a tug boat. Reports received by the local officials are still meagre. This is the second severe storm that the structure had withstood. While the viaduct was only half built a storm swept over the Gulf and killed 138 men at work on the moulds and destroyed all equipment, but the structure itself stood fast.

This company is also supplying its cement for the Wallkill syphon that will bring water from the Ashokan dam under the Hudson River to this city. More than 100,000 barrels of Alsens' have been used so far in the work, some idea of which may be gained by the statement that the duct is 17 ft. in circumference and built entire of concrete. Alsens' has more hydraulic work on hand now than any other kind. Its product is known to have exceptional water resisting qualities.

Alpha Cement Purchases Verified.

Positive verification was obtained this week of the purchase recently by the Alpha Portland Cement Company of the plant of the Catskill Portland Cement Co., at Catskill-on-the-Hudson. This places the Alpha in line with the Atlas and Alsen (American) Portland cement companies, which have important properties up the river. There are one or two other companies that have acquired property of late along the tidewater route, but as they are situated some distance from the river itself it is not considered probable that they will build at once.

It was stated that the Catskill plant will continue as heretofore, only under the control of the Alpha Company, which will also continue to operate its Lehigh Valley mills. The movement was said to have been prompted by the general awakening of the Portland cement companies to the desirability of the Hudson valley as a cement-producing district. While the cost of coal will be a little more than from the mines to the Lehigh mills, the saving in freight on the finished product to this market will overbalance that objection.

Another incentive for the general rush into the New York State field is that public works are taking large quantities of Portland cement, which has been supplied almost exclusively heretofore by companies comparatively near the operations, such as the Alsen and the Glens Falls companies.

"Are not the subsidiary companies of the North American Portland Cement Company preparing to develop their export business?" was the question asked a gentleman well posted in cement affairs this week. The fact was suggested that perhaps it had been found desirable to find an outlet for the overproduction at certain mills. It was also asked if perhaps the big companies were preparing to take advantage of the South American and Oriental trade that might be opened up to the American Portland cement companies upon the completion of the Panama Canal five years hence.

"It is possible," was the guarded reply, "but not probable. Home consumption under normal conditions can take care of the output of the American mills, but until recently conditions have not been normal. As for developing the export business, it may come later, but not at present. There is room enough for development here. The advertising being done by various companies indicates that that fact is generally recognized.

"In the Orient the Japanese cement can beat the American product in an open market. In competition with the highest grade of German cement, it holds a lead in quality and price, the latter because of cheaper labor. Some of it is fighting for a foothold on the Pacific slope of our own country to-day, and is giving satisfaction. It is therefore improbable that an outlet for future overproduction in American mills can be found in China or Japan."

In connection with the sale of the Catskill plant, a local cement authority has received a letter from J. W. Kittrell, secretary and treasurer of the retiring concern, which is characteristic of the Annapolis engineer and builder of the big works. Part of the missive follows:

"I shall not butt into the cement business again. I am looking about for something easier that will take a lot of heavy standing around. I hope to have time to visit you once in a while so as to give you an opportunity of singing your song of woe, as I will enjoy it very much hereafter on account of its being a solo and not a duet."

Mr. Kittrell has been a familiar figure and highly respected by every one in cement circles for years because of his quiet, retiring manner and keen humor, yet aggressive in business affairs. He has many friends in this city.

Guarding Against Ice Lawsuits.

The recent cold snap has forcibly brought to property owners' attention the desirability of looking to vestibule approaches, steps exposed to the weather and incline passageways, to guard against lawsuits arising from pedestrians falling and injuring themselves when the ice and snow comes. The Murray and Jacobs Manufacturing Co., of 141 West 36th st, is out with an improved stair tread, made of gray iron in the surface of which is cast a fine grade of corundum, or "Alundum," as it is known in the trade. It has greater strength, it is said, than carborundum, but is equally hard, enabling it to withstand the constant wear of scraping shoes.

It is said that alundum surfaced cast iron is ideal for stair tread use, railway coach door sills, car steps, platforms, running boards for moving machinery and elevator door approaches and, in fact, any place where non-slipping surfaces are desirable. The Murray & Jacobs device is known as the "Perfection" tread. It is distinctive in that the non-slipping feature is flush with the nosing of the step, thus insuring against slipping while descending. This company also makes removable "Alundum" surfaced buttons for use between the glass discs of vault lights.

Activity of the Perlman Iron Works

The Perlman Iron Works (Inc.), manufacturers and designers of high-grade architectural iron doors, windows, cagings, elevator doors and decorative shafts, etc., has been having a remarkably busy Fall and contracts now in hand are sufficient to warrant expectations of a busy Winter and Spring. Some of the recently completed contracts that have been turned out at the shop at 1357 West Farms road, follow:

The 13-sty fireproof elevator apartment house on the northwest corner of 113th st and Riverside Drive, Bing & Bing, owners, and Schwartz & Gross, architects. The 6-sty fireproof elevator apartment, northwest corner 151st st and Broadway, B. Crystal & Son, owners, Gaeton Ajello, architects. And a private residence at 22 West 56th st, S. Fridel, owner; L. Kantor & Co., general contractors, and H. A. Jacobs, architect.

Those that it has now on hand are two 12-sty fireproof elevator apartments on the north side of 110th st, between Broadway and Amsterdam av, Bing & Bing, owners, and Schwartz & Gross, architects. The 8-sty fireproof elevator apartment house, north side of 111th st, between Broadway and Riverside Drive, Harvard Realty Construction Co., owners, and William L. Rouse, architect. The 8-sty fireproof elevator apartment house on the north side of 112th st, between Broadway and Amsterdam av, Hennessey Realty Co., owners; Schwartz & Gross, architects. The 8-sty fireproof elevator apartment house on the north side of 115th st, between Riverside Drive and Broadway, the Alcazar Realty Co., owners, and William L. Rouse, architect. Inspects Water Meters and Saves Money.

The Water Supervision Co., of 3 Park Row, has a proposition to offer owners of buildings, whether they are large or small, that means money in their pocket. It stops leakages and sees that the meter is doing what it should do. The company is in its third year, and the thousands of letters in its files from satisfied customers is proof positive that it does what it agrees to do—save owners money. Only experts are employed, and they keep track of the building's entire water service.

Preserving Blueprints.

In order to preserve blueprints, which are apt to fade when brought into the sunlight, or even in a strong light, without being in the direct sunlight, the following remedy is recommended by the American Machinist: Expose the prints until badly burned and then wash in clear water until all emulsion is removed. While still wet lay prints, with the blue side up, on a smooth surface, and by means of a paint brush cover the print smoothly with peroxide of hydrogen. This will bring out the background very blue and the lines perfectly white, and make a print that will not fade to any extent in the sunshine.

THE WEEK.

WHILE the week was very dull, there being a total of only thirty-seven sales reported, there is a distinctly good tone to the market, and there have been a number of transactions closed which the brokers are not at liberty to report, one being a high-class dwelling which sold for close to $400,000. In the midtown section, the Success Building, at 29 and 31 East 22d st, the plot at 24 and 26 West 25th st, and the Gilsey House plot at the northeast corner of Broadway and 29th st, the last two for improvement with modern buildings, were among the sales reported.

The hearing before a committee of the Board of Estimate on Wednesday to consider the project of widening 32d st, from Broadway to 7th av, developed a number of important suggestions which are of interest to the entire midtown section.

Patrick F. McGowan, president of the Board of Alderman, suggested the abandonment of Greeley square, holding that its usefulness as a park was at an end and that the traveling public needed the space. The suggestion in connection with the widening of 32d st is of importance, and property owners in the entire district would do well to give this project a little attention.

The sale of the southeast corner of 7th av and 54th st for improvement with a 12-sty loft and office building, and the announcement that it had been leased from the plans to an Eastern automobile concern, marks the first important move of that industry from the centre established along Broadway. From the West Side and Washington Heights there were several sales, the most important being the sale of the large plot at the north corner of Riverside Drive and 93d st for improvement with a 12-sty apartment house.

THE AUCTION MARKET

LEGAL SALES, with one exception, made up the budget for the week's auction market, these being scheduled for the 12th, 14th and 15th. That by Samuel Marx on the 12th was adjourned for one month. On the 14th Joseph P. Day offered eight parcels, seven of which were sold to parties in interest, and one, Morris av, 2349, was adjourned to November 11. No. 14 1st av, offered by L. Phillips & Co., was sold for $39,500, and Charles A. Berrian sold 311 East 106th st to the plaintiff for $17,725.

AUCTION SALE OF OAKDALE WATER FRONT.

Real property on the South Shore, east of Babylon, close to the railroad station is considered a far better proposition now than in the past—the flow of properous people to the waterfront, located near New York, is strong. Subways and river tunnels have never yet failed to bring tremendous advantages to property along their lines of transit—trains will be running from the Pennsylvania station at 8th av and 34th st in the early part of February, and the running time to Oakdale will be cut down to about 50 minutes. Some of the finest estates are to be found at Oakdale, located amid charming surroundings.

Magnificent in both area and development, all land ownerships in Oakdale are carefully restricted and its character as a high-class residential section can never be destroyed.

Bryan L. Kennelly is to conduct the sale at 14 Vesey street on Thursday, October 21, at noon. The south bound of property is at high water mark—the shore is high, dry and level—interior plots carry shore rights in perpetuity. Sixty per cent of the purchase price may remain on mortgage for three years at 4 per cent, with titles guaranteed.

TAXPAYERS' ALLIANCE.

A regular monthly meeting of the Taxpayers' Alliance of the Bronx was held on Wednesday evening, October 13, in the Bronx Masonic Temple, Washington av and 177th st, President Hottenroth in the chair.

The Committee on Transportation, consisting of W. W. Niles, chairman, Harry Robitzek, Douglas Mathewson and President Hottenroth, reported that the New York Central R. R. Co. and the New York & Harlem R. R. Co. had answered the complaint lodged by this association with the Public Service Commission.

The railroads' defense is that to increase the number of trains at present would interfere with the work being done on their terminals. Also that this matter is not within the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission, but should be taken before the Interstate Railroad Commission.

Mr. Niles made a plea for subscriptions so that the Alliance would have the necessary funds to prosecute the case when it comes up early in November

The invitations issued by the Alliance to candidates for Borough President on the various tickets to be present at the meeting and declare themselves, was accepted by Cyrus Miller, the Republican candidate, who made an address.

Louis F. Haffen and Arthur F. Murphy sent letters in which they promised to do everything in their power in the interest of the taxpayers in the event of their election.

The Committee on Legislation reported that they would appear before the Charter Legislative Committee in February. They will also attend the hearings on the city budget.

The Committee on Parks reported that they had conferred with the Hudson-Fulton Committee and the Bronx Zoological Society for the purpose of obtaining the Half-Moon and the Clermont for the lake in Bronx Park. Secretary Harry Robitzek read a paper on the "Business and Manufacturing Opportunities of the Borough of the Bronx."

TAXES A LIEN.—Taxes became a lien on property on the first Monday of this month. Certiorari proceedings must be begun before the first day of November.

Mr. Olson, the purchaser, who has operated extensively in this section contemplates improving the property with a 20-story office building from plans by James Riley Gordon. ELECTRIC PROTECTION.—The Electric Protection Company of New York, by its president, Mr. Alfred Goldstein, has petitioned the Board of Estimate for the right or franchise to construct and maintain wires and other conductors with necessary poles, pipes, conduits and appliances in the streets and avenues of the city for the purpose of electrical operation of electrical call boxes in connection with telephones, telegraph and other systems for providing calls and signals for electric protection service. This company was incorporated in May, 1909, and as yet possesses no franchise of any description from the city. It has, however, obtained permits from the Fire Commissioner for the right to locate its registers for recording automatic fire alarm signals in the central offices of the Fire Alarm Bureaus in the Boroughs of Manhattan and Brooklyn; such permits, however, being subject to the granting of a franchise for the use of streets to the company by the Board.

OAKDALE WATER FRONT AT AUCTION

No argument is needed to prove that Oakdale Water Front property is a desirable purchase. The location, elevation, transportation and sporting facilities are unexcelled elsewhere—climatic conditions are ideal, the shores of Great South Bay and Great River are only 10 minutes' walk from the Oakdale Station and within 6 minutes' run of the Motor Parkway Terminal at Lake Ronkonkoma.

The recent sale of the Lord Estate of 10 acres at Lawrence on the Rockaway shore at $18,000 per acre (vacant land) has again confirmed in the most impressive way the fact that property on the water front within an hour's ride of New York is the most profitable of its kind in the country.

A remarkable opportunity is offered and parties will be greatly repaid in attending the auction sale of attractive water front adjoining "Idle Hour," the home of W. K. VANDERBILT.

OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Valuable Information Given Weekly Showing Status of Municipal Improvement Proceedings in all Branches.

Owners of real estate frequently get an unpleasant shock when they have sold a given piece of property, and title is about to pass. The attorney for the buyer, or title company, brings out a memorandum which shows that besides certain charges, such as taxes, water rent (in all probability known to the seller), there are one or more assessments which have been a lien against the property for a long or short time, as the case may be. Naturally the seller is annoyed and states that he was unaware that these liens existed. To overcome this condition the Record and Guide publishes all of these proceedings, under classified heads, and in ample time to give the owner abundant opportunity to make a protest, should he deem it advisable. Much confusion and disappointment can be avoided by weekly glancing at this column. At the end of each proceeding the official number is given, and should the owner desire to secure the full particulars of any given improvement, it will aid him materially. This information will be found to be of great use to the real estate broker. It gives him additional information for his files, and should be of considerable aid to him in consummating sales. As an example, should he learn that a proceeding for the acquiring of title by the city to a street on which he had property for sale, he would have an additional argument to place before his client, which otherwise might have escaped his notice.

RESPONSIBILITY IN APARTMENT HOTELS.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, First Department, is being asked, in the case of Ralph H. Booth vs. Edward H. Litchfield, to decide upon the question of the liability of the proprietor of an apartment hotel for the property of a tenant on quest, as the case may be.

Attorney William C. DeWitt of Brooklyn, counsel for the defendant, asserts that the common-law liability, that of an insurer, existing as to an innkeeper and his guest, was not applicable to the case, inasmuch as the defendants were not inn or hotel keepers and the plaintiff was not a guest.

The plaintiff occupied an apartment, in an apartment hotel, which had been loaned or sublet to him by a friend, the permanent occupant. The clerk of the house took charge of certain valuables for the plaintiff but gave them up to a messenger, who said he came from the plaintiff, but who was in fact a thief.

Further, Counsellor DeWitt contends that Booth is neither a tenant nor a guest of the defendant, having paid nothing for the accommodation of services enjoyed by him, so that at most the proprietor was merely a gratuitous bailee, under the duty of exercising only slight care and liable only for gross negligence.

The decision of the Appellate Division is awaited. The case has just been argued before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court on an appeal taken by the defendants from a determination of the Appellate Term of the Supreme Court affirming a judgment of the City Court for $764 in favor of the plaintiff.

The final decision will settle a long disputed question. The courts thus far have held in effect in such a case the house accepts responsibility when the trust is accepted.

CONGRESS OF TAXPAYERS.

A regular meeting of the Congress of Taxpayers was held at the association room, No. 165 Broadway, on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 13, 1909. A resolution was passed recommending the various associations of the Congress to endorse the candidacy of Judge Gaynor for Mayor.

A CALL TO MERCHANTS.

Chas. Reid, secretary of the North Side Board of Trade, Harry Robitzek, secretary of the Taxpayers' Alliance of the Bronx, and John W. Dunn, the merchant, have called a meeting to be held in the rooms of the North Side Board of Trade, Carr Building, 138th st and Mott av, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 19, to form a Retail Merchants' Association in Bronx Borough. The object of the association will be to promote the business interests in the section. All merchants are invited to be present.

WHY SEVENTH AVENUE SHOULD BE EXTENDED.

A SPECIAL MEETING of the Greenwich Village Public Service Committee was held on Wednesday evening, Oct. 13, at 297 West 11th st. The object of the meeting was to start a vigorous campaign in favor of the southerly extension of 7th av. It was decided to send to all taxpayers of the West Side the following letter:

"Look upon the map of Greenwich Village boundary, including from 14th to Canal st, with Hudson st to the west and Broadway to the east. Bearing this in mind, you will at once recognize at a glance how we are hemmed in on all sides without an outlet. A north and south thoroughfare piercing our congested district, where none now exists, with our unfrequented streets following the 'cow paths' as the village was laid out one hundred years ago. We have honestly paid our taxes in improving the city up to us, and then it jumped over us, and we still continued to do our share beyond, and in the outlying boroughs. Not only have we done this, but we have equally contributed to the building of the bridges that span our rivers, staring us in the face as monumental gallows of our suicide to take from us, and sink us, and sink us into further decay.

"The tunnels and subways that we have helped to build, stand forth as sacred emblazoned epithets, over the silent vaults that are burying us, and yet, withal, in our cry of abject despair to do, and stem the tide that is enveloping us, there seems none to help or hear.

"We are asked to bear our burdens alone; why draw the line upon us, and single us out as a helpless target of indifference and humiliation? Does not the Golden Rule work honestly both ways? What man dare rise to say, after what we have done in all those years, to help this and outlying boroughs, that they are not equally bound to help us in return?

"We are the most centrally located section in the Borough of Manhattan, with the business section to the south, the hotel, shopping and life district to the north, and the great steamship docks to the west.

"We ask that 7th av be extended, to give us a north and south outlet, that business can be done, that we may be able to retain and increase our population, for by this improvement we would make room for five hundred thousand more people, a noteworthy fact to be considered. Seventh av is our widest central av, and but little used, winding up against a brick wall at West 11th st. With the Pennsylvania tunnel station at 32d st, within a few months dumping three hundred thousand people upon 7th av, it speaks at once for the imperative and immediate need of extension. Even the smallest of cities see to it that they have open streets and the best car service to accommodate the public.

"What has this city done, what does it offer to relieve this inevitable congestion? What can relieve it but a 7th av extension? We have gone back, and our property value decreased one-quarter, in the past thirty years, whilst most of the other sections have increased from one to a hundred fold. We are overtaxed far more than we can sell for in the open market. Is this discrimination right?

"The extension of 7th av is not a local improvement, but a general one, benefiting the city at large. The cost of this improvement would pay for itself in about five years. The 8th and 9th Wards pay taxes alone on two hundred millions of property. This improvement would be one of the greatest for benefits to be derived in the history of our great city."

RIVERSIDE AND MORNINGSIDE.

The regular monthly meetings of the Riverside and Morningside Heights Association will be held at 8 o'clock Monday evening, Oct. 18, 1909, at the Hotel Marseilles, Broadway and 103d st.

These are very interesting sections of the city, and Morningside Heights especially is having a large development.

Residents of the vicinity are desirous that the city should retain the piers and floats now at the foot of 110th st for a permanent public landing-place for yachts. This refers in part to the "Water-Gate" used during the Hudson-Fulton celebration. A permanent landing-place for small boats, with the connecting bridge over the railroad tracks, would be a fine convenience.

STREET WIDENING PROTEST.

The proposal to widen 32d st from 6th to 7th av on account of the great increase of the traffic expected after the opening of the Pennsylvania terminal in 7th av met with a sudden check this week.

Some 100 property owners or their representatives gathered in the Council Chamber at the City Hall at the adjourned hearing by a sub-committee of the Board of Estimate, consisting of Comptroller Metz, President McGowan, of the Aldermen, and Borough President Ahearn.

It was clear from the start that the proposal was unpopular and many objections were raised. At length Comptroller Metz seized on a suggestion that all that was necessary might be accomplished by revoking on 31st, 32d and 33d sts the stoop and area privileges, as has been done on 5th av, and the hearing was adjourned to permit the sub-committee to visit the locality and determine what proposal was the most feasible.

WHAT CONSTITUTES A WORKING DAY.

Editor of the Record and Guide:

Dear Sir: The legal snag which our association has recently run across is "what constitutes a working day" as it is termed in a contract, between the city and the contractor (oftentimes a favored one), for city work, especially for widening, regulating and grading of the thoroughfares.

The property owners of the East Bronx, due to their small population, are at the mercy of the politicians, who have asked money for improvements to be applied where it will go the most good to their organizations, and oftentimes the least good to the taxpayer, who, after all is said, foots the bills. In order to protect themselves they have asked the borough officials to define for them what is a legal working day, and they have evaded the issue by stating that they do not answer legal questions. The same question was sent to the Corporations Counsel's office, but they have ignored it.

The only attempt to define a legal working day on a proceeding for regulating and grading of a street, was defined as a day on which an inspector on the pay roll of the city of New York has been over the work, and this decision was handed down by the court.

Is it any wonder that nothing can be accomplished, and that every time you bring it home to the delinquent contractors there is always a loophole for their easy escape?

This problem ought to be given due consideration by other property owners' associations.

LEON G. LOSERE,
Chairman Press Committee Mapes Estate Property Owners' Protective Association.

HOUSE AND REAL ESTATE OWNERS.

The regular monthly meeting of the House and Real Estate Owners' Association, 12th and 19th Wards, was held at Central Turn Hall, 85th st and Lexington av, on Friday, Oct. 8. President Beck has appointed a committee to attend all budget hearings. The following members were elected as delegates to represent the association in the United Real Estate Owners' Association for 1910: Adolph Bloch, Henry Bloch, George H. Beck, J. Fred Boss, Michael Carew, Joseph Ceyka, P. M. Clear, Herman Eisenkramer, Edward Engel, Charles W. Eidt, Frank Eberhart, Henry Hersh, Geo. H. Heddesheimer, Jacob Heil, William H. Mehlich, Louis Moeschen, Arthur G. Muhlker, Adolph E. Nast, Charles Sayer, B. H. Strauss, Charles H. Schnelle, Fred Schwegler, Rudolph Troest, John Volz, H. G. Wynn, Samuel Wollheim.

After the written business of the meeting had been disposed of, the chair introduced Deputy Tenement House Commissioner Abbott, who spoke at length on the subject of Tenement Houses.

18TH AND 21ST WARD TAXPAYERS.

THE "HOFMAN" RULE.

ITS APPLICATION IN VALUING A CITY LOT THAT IS CUT.

We are requested so frequently to answer the question, "What is the Hofman Rule?" that we do so now in our columns.

The scale became known as the "Hofman Rule" through Judge Murray Hofman publishing it in his "Digest of the Charters, Statutes and Ordinances of the City of New York" in 1866.

The rule is based on a lot with 25 feet frontage and a depth of 100 feet. The lot is divided into cross strips, the first one ten feet wide and the others five feet each. On this basis the value of the lot by strips would be as follows:

25x 15 feet, 23.50 per cent. of full lot.
25x 20 feet, 31 per cent. of full lot.
25x 25 feet, 37 per cent. of full lot.
25x 30 feet, 44 per cent. of full lot.
25x 35 feet, 50 per cent. of full lot.
25x 40 feet, 56 per cent. of full lot.
25x 45 feet, 61.50 per cent. of full lot.
25x 50 feet, 67 per cent. of full lot.
25x 55 feet, 71.50 per cent. of full lot.
25x 60 feet, 76 per cent. of full lot.
25x 75 feet, 87.50 per cent. of full lot.
25x 85 feet, 93.50 per cent. of full lot.
25x 90 feet, 96 per cent. of full lot.
25x100 feet, 100 per cent. of full lot.

LAW DEPARTMENT

AN ARCHITECT'S FEE—HOW TO COLLECT.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Which is the best way for an architect to collect his professional fee from an owner or builder? Can he put a mechanic's lien on the building, or should he take the regular course of law, by bringing a suit and recovering by judgment?

Answer.—A mechanic's lien may be filed to cover such services as have enhanced the value, such as overseeing, erection, etc., but not for drawing plans; and a regular suit for value of services rendered can, of course, be brought.—Ed.

"RENT—COUNTERCLAIMS."

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Can a tenant put in a counterclaim of failure of landlord to make repairs, as a defense to a dispossess proceeding?

Answer.—This is one of the most difficult of modern lease questions to answer. Of late the habit on the part of defendants to do this very thing has become quite general, and the courts in a seeming change of attitude towards the question, in an effort to try everything at issue between the parties, in one action, have in many cases sustained it. This to us seems a wrong attitude, as the summary process is in the nature of a proceeding, not an action for the trial of issues between the parties,—and depending for its basis on the one simple state of facts—rent due and unpaid.

For the same reason that questions of title involved cannot be settled in such a proceeding, so also should other issues between the parties be relegated to the general courts of adjudication in proper actions.

It seems to us that when a tenant does not pay rent the statutory summary remedy was introduced to restore possession to a landlord, leaving money questions and damages to actions at law for their settlement.

In a summary proceeding brought and defended on much the same points involved in the query, the Appellate Division in reviewing the two defenses put in, one for failure to make alleged promised repairs before beginning of the lease, and the other for similar failure to make repairs afterward during the lease on the occurrence of a fire, approved the refiction of the first as a defense by the trial court upon the ground that the tenant knowing the repairs had not been made, still entered upon the premises and began the lease.

The second defense was also disposed of and refused on the ground that the landlord had not agreed to make any repairs during the term, and if the fire had not caused damage enough to justify the tenant in quitting the premises, as shown by the fact that the tenant did not leave, he could not stay in and refuse to pay rent.—Ed.

"THE REVOLUTIONARY AEROPLANE."

In this somewhat startling title no intent is had to classify the coming air machine with our sister South American republics, nor to cast any slurs upon the early tendencies of the Wright Bros.' and other aeroplanes to "turn turtle."

These preliminaries settled, we turn to our title and its relative definition with respect to a bearing the Record and Guide and its readers are all most interested in: the apparent coming invasion of the rights of ownership in land, and the dominion of its owner—"Cupis est solum, epis est ad coelum," whose is the soil, his is to the heavens," or as Pope would probably translate with freer hand, "whose is the earth, his are the stars." For such was the free-handed interpretation early given in the English law to the lavish grants of the "Conqueror" to his aiding and abetting Barons and "help-me-eats." At all events there is even now no more settled doctrine in the real estate law than that "Land has legally an indefinite extent upwards as well as downwards." (Gerard on "Titles to Real Estate," p. 100.)

And carried to its most ridiculous extent, as in the allegories and parables of some of our later-day reformers, the time is within estimation, if not approximation, when the lucky survivor of the fittest (probably a corporation as most fully realizing the term) shall say to all the rest of his (or its) fellows "Get off my earth."

We had not looked for the coming of the airship before the advent of such a day in history, "necessity being generally the mother of invention," but the issue has been forced upon us, right here and now, for the airship has really come, and apparently to stay! Its early arrival, at any rate, removes from us the dread of the above possible threat, and on the authority of our worthy contemporary, the New York Herald, our "martian" neighbors have already apparently "taken to the air."

We, too, can now less excitedly discuss what we shall do when the timber and coal are all gone, petroleum and "Standard Oil," things of the past, and the world really (as Edward Atkins and other statisticians would long have had us believe), but one day removed from starvation.

But seriatim (seriously), to return to our subject and its present-day applications, the coming of the airship is bound to produce some commotion in land owners the world over, from John Bull who fears invasion of his tight little island, the the German who dreads the French air "ships which pass in the night" his frontiers, Uncle Sam, and Loeb, who fear the failure of higher tariffs to fully protect the Canadian or even ocean boundaries from air-smuggling inventions, down to the simple-life flat owner who may not tolerate with impunity, while a court shall be there to prevent the taking of his wind, light, or sunshine, by any passing airship, without due compensation.

With a reckless disregard of consequences that might later flow from so sweeping an ownership of land, as that at first given to tenures of land, as above quoted, the courts have ever since had to deal; and by "distinguishing" in new cases, from old precepts and decisions (a favorite method with courts, which hate "to retire" other than gracefully), to limit and curtail the sweeping and almost limitless "up and down" of early delimitation of land tenure.

Had the early generosity of grant not been so boundless, and Government really not been construed in such courtly fashion, as giving with the grant of land to the individual more than a right to occupy surface according to his then needs, going beyond, on permission only, and further franchise, the need of a dictator would not have been felt a few years ago to save the coal-barons and their serfs from cutting us off, between them, from the needed coal deposits, or restrain the city corner lot owner from crying out at the really logical injustice under the old theory of restricting him in the number of stories to which he may aspire in his modern tower of Babel!

But the mischief was done in the early court declarations, and as with the old English principle of "every man's house his castle," a similar back track had to be taken in logic, concealed beneath the cloak of Progress.

By the theory and shibboleth that "every man must so use his own as not to injure his neighbor," and under the doctrine of "Police Power," the retreat to a saner basis of ownership and enjoyment of land has been reached.

In this country States have been deprived of their bitterly fought-for sovereignty over navigable waters within their territory, by extended "interstate commerce" and "navigable waters" constructions of the National Constitution; and prices for products may be yet regulated as desired by our growing Socialist brother, through the same first-mentioned doctrine—we wonder how he would like a similar involuntary application of the principle of wages!—Likewise in individual land tenures the restriction of private dominion has been carried along, regulating the depth of building below the surface, the undue absorption first of underground springs of water found there, and later of seeping mineral waters, the appropration as a private right of sloping veins of mineral deposit (even within one's own boundaries), of drifts originating in other property; while the uses to which surface land may be restricted, as well as the height, character and materials of construction thereon are being rapidly provided for by the other court theory and principle, "Police Power."

Once relegated, where it really belongs, to the scrap heap of legal maxims, the municipalities, nations and other forms of governmental control will find no more difficulty in dealing with the private ownership of "air supported by land," than did the United States Supreme Court with the now-seen-to-be ridiculous (but then believed justifiable) claim of the State of New York, just 100 years ago, to issue letters-patent to Robert Fulton and the Livingstons, for the sole rights to traverse the waters of the State (and incidentally of New Jersey, too), in steamboats.

As fared State ownership of land covered by water then, when confronted by the majesty of the National Government, so will fall all claim of private ownership in air above land before the majesty of the law as represented by "Aeroplane Permit No. 91,123, N. J.." of the State or Municipal Licensing Bureau.

In fact the first attempt to put a speed limit on airships in this country was recorded when a young inventor who has built a sixty-foot aeroplane with the aid of local capital, took his machine to the lake shore, where a Justice of the Peace informed him that he would arrest him if in his experiments his aeroplane exceeded twenty miles an hour.

Not that the regulation of them and the holding of them to accountability will not be strict, and probably as in the case of the automobile, at first even harsh, but as regards trespass on the dominion of the owner of private land, as free from responsibility as the bird that flies!

Later, the same transition from municipal to State regulation will follow as the State highway, the farmers' lanes; and by similar process, the public highway of the air, over land, once wrested from the individual through the media of the municipality and the State, will as "Aerial Demesne" follow the theory of "Navigable Waters" into the jurisdiction of Interstate Commerce, and the Supreme Court of the United States. There, like corporations, incomes and successions, the system m readily be connected into a productive support of high-flying administrations and Congress, of which the present woe-begone taxpaying individual has not yet even dreamed!

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1909.

9th.—T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

October 8, 9, 11, 13 and 14.

Vol. LXXXIV. OCTOBER 23, 1909. No. 2171.

WHEN the present municipal campaign first began it looked as if its chief educational value would consist in the educational value of the discussion which would take place of the financial condition of the city. As a matter of fact, however, such has not been the result. Financial issues have been obscured by the personal issues which have come to the front during the past two weeks, and the speeches of the several candidates, Mr. Bannard excepted, do not place much emphasis upon the problem of a more economical administration of the vast business interests of New York. Nevertheless, the campaign will not be wholly wanting in educational value. The people of New York are, at any rate, being taught something about the real meaning and effect of the machinery of government that obtains under the existing charter. In the last two campaigns everything tended to emphasize the personalities of the several candidates for Mayor, and the fact was obscured that important as the Mayor is in the machinery of local government in this city, the Board of Estimate is of still more importance. The Board of Estimate is substantially a "board of directors" that is responsible for the settlement of all really important questions of public policy; and a Mayor, no matter how well-intentioned he might be, would be powerless unless he could secure the co-operation of an equally well-intentioned Board of Estimate. But it is just this truth which is now being forced upon the attention of the voters of New York. At least one of the three candidates for Mayor is constantly telling his hearers that it makes very little difference which of the competitors of that position is elected, whereas it makes an essential difference whether or not they give the new Mayor the support of an efficient and disinterested Comptroller and President of the Board of Aldermen. And this is undoubtedly a great gain. Never before has the peculiar importance of the Board of Estimate been forced upon the attention of the voters, and it may be hoped that the lesson will not be soon forgotten. For the Board of Estimate is assuredly destined hereafter to become of more, rather than of less, importance. The new charter makes it even more exclusively responsible for the good government of the city than it is at present; and it is made better able to redeem its responsibilities, because it is supplied with a better organization for the purpose. The Ivins charter may not be passed at the coming session of the Legislature; but we are confident that in the course of time the work accomplished by Mr. Ivins and his associates will not be thrown away. The new charter will prevail in substantially its existing form, because it is really necessary for the good government of New York; and the day will come when the people of the city will realize the futility of electing good men to office without at the same time supplying them with the organization and the authority indispensable to the redemption of their responsibilities.

THE difficulty which the Board of Estimate is having in dealing with the question of widening Thirty-second street constitutes one more illustration of the enormous obstacles which in Manhattan are encountered in all street-widening proceedings. In the case of Thirty-second street, it is proposed merely to widen one street for the space of one block; and it would seem as if that ought to be a comparatively simple and economical thing to do, particularly in view of the fact that the vehicular traffic created by the new Pennsylvania Terminal will absolutely demand some such accommodation. Nevertheless, the same kind of obstacles are encountered which have prevented the widening of Fifty-ninth street as an approach to the Queensboro Bridge. The project meets with almost unanimous opposition on the part of the owners of contingent property, and its expense promises to be very much larger than was originally anticipated; larger, indeed, than the city can apparently afford for such a modest improvement. In the present instance another and less expensive alternative will probably in the end be adopted. It is now proposed to abolish the stoop privileges not only in Thirty-second street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, but also in Thirty-first and Thirty-third streets, and in this way to obtain space for widening the roadways of all three of these streets. Inasmuch as all of these streets will in the course of the next few years become lined with shops, the abolition of the stoop privilege will be attended with little or no hardship to the property owner, while it will at the same time afford a considerably increased space for the movement of vehicular traffic. The comparative lack of expense and opposition which this project will involve will be likely to commend it to the Board of Estimate, and there can be no doubt that the same means will be frequently adopted to diminish the congestion in other parts of Manhattan.

IT is already sufficiently apparent that the widening of Fifth avenue has within limits been a great success. The dense vehicular traffic on that avenue is enabled, because of the widening, to move with much more freedom, and there is to be remarked also a decided improvement in the appearance of the avenue. The removal of the stoops, and of the areas which were a legacy from the old stoops, has given the avenue a uniformity and propriety of aspect adapted to its standing as the most important retail avenue of the largest city in the country; and the change should be attended by an increase in the business transacted by the stores on the avenue. These stores have been made more sightly and more accessible both for people who travel in vehicles and people who travel on foot. There can be no doubt that similar results would follow from the abolition of the stoop privileges on all the important cross-town streets. Steps should immediately be taken to widen by similar means the roadway of Twenty-third, Thirty-fourth and Forty-second streets; and in the course of time similar changes will in all probability have to be made on certain other cross-town streets between Twenty-third and Forty-eighth streets. Throughout this whole district business is pushing farther east and farther west than it did south of Twenty-third street. The cross-town traffic is destined to be increasingly dense; and for the present the best way in which it can be handled is by means of a widening of the carriageways and the abolition of the stoops and the areas. In the end, of course, this device will prove to be wholly ineffective for the purpose it is intended to serve, because with the increase both of lateral and longitudinal traffic, the congestion at the several points of intersection will become more, rather than less, annoying and delaying. In the end, these delays will become intolerable, and some other means will have to be taken to get rid of them; but for the next few years a great deal of relief can undoubtedly be obtained by the widening of the carriageways of all the streets and avenues which have been changing from a residential into a business employment.

THE plea emanating from the Greenwich Village Public Service Committee for the extension of Seventh avenue to the south deserves the attention of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. The extension of Seventh avenue to Varick street, and the extension of a widened Varick street to a junction with Broadway, is one of the few improvements to the street lay-out of New York which would be very useful and comparatively inexpensive. The whole district affected by the improvement has been hampered in its development because of its confused and inconvenient street plan; and the best means of improving that plan would be by means of the proposed extension of Seventh avenue. Seventh avenue is a fine, wide thoroughfare, capable of accommodating very much more traffic than it does at present, but of comparatively little use to the business of the city, because it terminates in a brick wall at Eleventh street. Its extension to the south would, consequently, not merely contribute to the development of the territory in the immediate vicinity, which would be thereby opened up, but it would be of value to the whole borough. It would add a thoroughfare running through the most congested part of the business district to the street plan of Manhattan; and this thoroughfare would constitute the natural route for the coming West Side subway. It should, consequently, be laid out immediately, so that advantage could be taken of it when the actual line of the subway comes to be finally decided. It should be added that a matter of justice, as well as a matter of expediency, is involved in the carrying out of this improvement.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS are being favored by Indian summer weather. A good proportion of the total number of mechanics are under steady employment, and a good quantity of material is going into use. When we say "good," we mean better than "fair," and the territory under consideration is the whole Metropolitan district. There are exceptions to the general rule of normal times, but they are few. The general secretary of the Bricklayers' unions in this district yesterday estimated for the Record and Guide that about sixty per cent. of the men in the trade are working, but that the prospects are bright, and next month he would expect seventy-five per cent to be working. He attributes the present slackness in the brick trade to the closing-out of much small work and the unreadiness of heavy construction, such as office and loft buildings, that will soon provide a large amount of employment for bricklayers. Without this heavy construction that is coming on there is not at the moment enough other work to keep the mason builders and dealers in masons' materials going at full speed. But every week the situation improves. Most other trades report good employment. Large apartment house work in Manhattan is starting up again, but small tenement house work is still only slightly visible. In the Bronx, however, 5-sty apartment work is going ahead, but more plans are being filed for private dwellings in that borough than for tenements. The announcement that plans are in hand for an eight-million dollar hotel, the approval just given by the Art Commission to the plans for the new Municipal building, the imminence of the steel erection and bricklaying on the Gimbel and other massive constructions, and the absorption by the real estate market of a number of new buildings—more than has been usual—were all among the encouraging news of the week. Building loans are being made freely, and money is fairly available for most forms of real estate investment. Contractors, however, are exercising more care in the matter of credits, and it is owing to the fact that some operators have not yet cleaned up on former transactions that there is not more tenement work offering. The building operations now in hand centre mainly on loft buildings in the midsection, on first-class apartments on Morningside Heights and along Riverside Drive, on 6-sty elevator houses on Washington Heights, dwellings in the West Bronx, apartments in the East Bronx, and a very large amount of detached dwelling house work all through the suburbs. West Point is giving employment to hundreds of mechanics, and there are a number of other busy towns in the surrounding country. Landscape architects report a large number of estates being improved, and that their services are now in demand by real estate development companies, of which there are about one hundred and fifty in this district at the present time.

RENTS AND TAXES.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

The political advertisement displayed on billboards in this city stating that "High taxes make high rents and low taxes make low rents" is an economic absurdity, and is disproved by common experience.

We need not go very far back to show the fallacy of this conclusion. In 1904, the tax rate was 1.51, while the tax rate for the current year has increased to 1.67. Yet rents are about 20 per cent. lower now than in 1904. In sparsely settled districts outside of New York City taxes are considerably higher than here, yet rents are much lower.

Suppose it were possible to abolish all taxes on real property, would rent be reduced? No, indeed. On the contrary, it would rise considerably, for it would be an incentive to land speculation, which would increase the price of land.

If the learned gentlemen who caused these advertisements to be posted knew the first principles about political economy, they would know that rent is governed by the same law as any other commodity, namely, the law of supply and demand.

When land is scarce, prices go up, builders stop building, rents advance. Of course, the quantity of land cannot be diminished or increased, but an artificial scarcity can be created by holding land out of use for speculative purposes. So it is not the tax rate, amount of taxes, or, properly speaking, the assessed valuation that govern rents—it is land speculation.

EDWARD POLAK.

—In 50 per cent. of the industrial plants of the United States, according to a recent bulletin of the Geological Survey, more than 10 per cent. of the coal bill can be saved each year by the smokeless burning of coal, and 5 per cent. in the other plants.

REAL ESTATE MEN AND FALSE REGISTRATION.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

The newspapers state that there is much illegal registration this year, especially in the Borough of Queens. Men who will register twice or attempt to vote more than once, have no political convictions, but are for sale to the highest bidder.

Real estate men, owners as well as agents, can render a public service and suppress election frauds by verifying the registration, especially in hotels, apartments and tenement houses.

Zealous office-holders sometimes harbor "floaters" to increase their party vote. Every person interested in real estate should go to the place of registry and verify the names of men registered from houses that he represents; and if any frauds are discovered, notice should be sent at once to William Leary, State Superintendent of Elections, 47 West 42d st.

ALFRED R. CONKLING.

MORE DEFINITE SPECIFICATIONS.—With the changes in materials and methods of construction that are gradually being inaugurated, may be detected a growing tendency on the part of the architect to become more specific and definite in the matter of his specifications. For example, it is no longer unusual to find specifications calling for materials, equipment or finish of certain manufacture by name, whereas some years since, the generally adopted plan was to mention a number of articles considered in the same general class and permit the contractor to exercise his own judgment and discretion as between them. The "American Architect" takes note of the change and expects this tendency to increase. The object of not mentioning materials very specifically is, of course, to avoid the appearance of favoritism, but an architect's reputation should, as our contemporary says, be sufficient to render unnecessary resorting to any form to merely give the appearance of impartiality: "He must, to serve his client ably and intelligently, come sooner or later to a decision in these matters, and it is difficult to understand why this could not be done at least as well at the time the specification is written as afterward."

THE WESTCHESTER RAILROAD when open will give cause for a large amount of building construction north of Bronx Park. Syndicates are at the present time negotiating for sites, and builders who must get in right in order to win out should take a look around. We don't say that it is time to build now, but it is the time to investigate. The Record and Guide says to you—here's a field of the future. Size it up. Is it in your line? The new Westchester road will run midway between the Harlem and the New Haven railroad lines and will connect with both the subway and the elevated systems. The Westchester Railroad construction is now in the hands of the New Haven Railroad Company, which seems well intentioned toward the Bronx.

STONE STEPS.—Chief Engineer Lewis having reported to the Board of Estimate that the resolution for constructing steps in West 176th st, between Sedgwick and Popham avs, is a proper one, the Borough President of the Bronx has been authorized to have performed the work which is required before placing the improvement under contract. The resolution affects five blocks or about 1,300 feet of West 176th st. In the two blocks between Sedgwick av and Popham av the street has a width of 30 feet and the grade is very steep; between these limits it is proposed to construct granite steps. Easterly from Popham av a narrow roadway is in use. The abutting property generally is unimproved. The work is estimated to cost about $33,000.

SPECULATION AND RENTS.—Do high taxes make high rents? Edward Polak, real estate expert, says no. It is land speculation, he explains. Then should we prevent land speculation—or stop complaining?

—If a sleeping resolution had been left alone, the proposed shaving away of stoops and other projections in residential streets might have been entirely forgotten.

—The development of the pavements has been a very interesting feature of the duties of the Commissioner of Public Works in Richmond Borough, Louis L. Trebus, C. E. The substitution of smooth, durable surfaces for those rougher in character and more readily worn out, has contributed largely to the better appearance and cleanliness of the main thoroughfares, and very greatly to economy in maintenance. During the past two or three years much attention has been given to the replacing of ill-kept gutters with asphalt blocks and vitrified brick, both on concrete foundations. The accompanying straightening and redressing of curbing and full repairs to macadam roadways has resulted in turning many highways that were practically eyesores into attractive streets. Commissioner Trebus says the use of sheet asphalt in gutters has been a failure, and recourse has therefore been had to cutting out a two and one-half or three-foot strip of asphalt next the curb line and replacing with vitrified brick.

CONSTRUCTION.

NEWEST FORM OF RESIDENTIAL CONSTRUCTION.

"Club House" Apartments the Perfected Modern Idea of Private Living Quarters in a Great City—Grammercy Park's New Co-Opeative Buildings.

A NEW KIND of residential building, different from the conventional apartment house, is being evolved in New York City. The leaders in this evolution are men and women of artistic impulses. They believe that the times demand a house that will have all the real conveniences of the first-grade apartment, and in addition will be more exclusive and more elegant. We have had successively, first, the 5-sty single flat, with its steam heat, dumbwaiter and janitor service, which was a decided improvement over the rented apartments obtainable previously; next the more luxurious elevator house and apartment hotel; and latterly the building which is appearing to us under several names, sometimes as a cooperatively owned apartment house and sometimes as a "studio" building, which may be either co-operatively owned or entirely rented out, and more recently the kind of house referred to has been called a "club house."

A "Club" building is becoming the generic name for a special class of houses in which and by which there is an attempt made, first, through the choice of a particularly refined neighborhood; second, by the exceptional beauty and homelike attractions of the inward parts of the house itself, and third, by providing or insuring neighbors of quality, to fill the social void between the isolated and unlovely life in a promiscuously-populated flat and the highest standard of living known to mankind—a house all to oneself and his own, in a choice quarter with old neighbors.

Much might be said concerning what New York City is losing from the loveliness of homelife with the loss of her old private dwellings. The architectural problem is to find a better substitute for the private dwelling than the style of housing at present prevailing. This refers to something more than the mere "skin" of a house. It means a different system of ownership, if the house is to belong to the best type; and in a sense it means a "private apartment house," in that it must be built by and for the occupancy of its several owners. It means also a different neighborhood—preferably among private houses. Finally, it means more attention from the architect to the interior finish and decoration.

comprises the forming of a corporation which holds title to the ground. Stockholders are eligible to buy apartments. Upon the payment of their subscription they are given an apartment lease for ninety-five years or in perpetuity. The leases are drawn to meet all future emergencies. In all or most private apartment houses" there are some apartments that are rented to non-stockholders, by which means revenue for taxes, running expenses and other fixed charges are obtained.

Another class of "studio" buildings is non-co-operative. It is a financial speculation after the order of the flat house operation, but the house itself is "different." It provides a refined and artistic atmosphere, in part due to choice interior decorations and conveniences and in a part owing to the fine tone of the neighborhood.

TWO new houses have been in course of construction in Gramercy Park this year, one of which is now about finished. Both are owned co-operatively. A third house is one which long contributed a notable part to the high social standing of the quarter, and has just been made over, and added to, for the purpose of making the old mansion, with the help of the new annex, serve the purpose of what is modernly called a "studio" building.

Gramercy square is a unique survival from the city's former "best days." It bears no hallmarks of poverty or deterioration. Its wealth, its genuine gentility, its charming exclusiveness without snobbishness, are obvious and impressive, impelling respect and confidence. Its rows of "brownstone" are fine examples of a passing style of architecture. Its dainty private park is spick and span, bearing favorable comparison with the choicest public parks, large or small. It is the "Alpha" of Lexington av and the "Omega" of Irving pl.

Business has pushed toward and around it but failed to enter it; it remains an oasis of quiet and tranquillity. Here, although limited to three score homes, have lived for two-thirds of a century many whose names are widely known as kings of finance, lions in society, giants in commerce and stalwarts in politics.

There remain around the four sides of the square about thirty houses that can still be classified as "private dwellings." Five others have been changed into club houses. The other existing buildings on the square consist of the two new co-operative apartment houses, one apartment hotel ("the Irving"), one church, one "studio" building and one apartment house of the conventional type. In other days the square was restricted to private dwellings, and since the restrictions have been raised there has been an interest in noting the further course of development. The coming of the Princeton Club this year to occupy the Stanford White house, at the northwest corner of 21st st and Lexington av, and to become a neighbor of the Arts, Columbia University, Players' and National Independence clubs, which are on the south side of the park, was along the line of development that was the best that could be hoped for, if the former privacy of residence could not be longer retained.

NO. 24 GRAMERCY PARK.
Herbert Lucas, Architect.

Fairly considered, the new apartment houses are a welcome accompaniment for those houses which now have an institutional character. If the Arts Club's ambition is to be a centre of an artistic and literary life, it can have nothing but appreciation for the new building improvements. An incongruous development might also have detracted from the value of real estate, but a development in harmony with the dominant note can have only an appreciative effect on values.

ONE of the co-operative houses is called the "No. 24 Gramercy Park" and is owned by a corporation, called the "Gramercy Park Company," whose president is Richard Watson Gilder, the editor of the Century Magazine. Jules Guerin, Charles H. Lee, of the United States Leather Company, John B. Pine, treasurer of Columbia University, Francis Wilson, the actor, Herbert Lucas, the architect, and Rodman D. Gilder, are other owners. All are to make their permanent town residence in the new house, each owning his own apartment. Eleven other apartments are for tenants, and the rentals will go into a general fund to cover the taxes, repairs and running expenses.

The site was bought from Charles H. Lee by the corporation, of which he is one of the owners, and was the site of the house in which Mr. Lee formerly lived, and also of the old Gallatin house. The plot extends through to 19th st, taking in No. 129 East 19th st, on which there stood a stable, until Mr. Lucas, the architect, altered it into a dwelling that is somewhat famous for its pretty lineaments, and for the cottage-like appearance of its new facade,—such as one does not expect to see in the midst of a city of massive constructions.

DUPLEX APARTMENTS.

Mr. Lucas designed the gigantic house on the park side also. He has followed high-class Colonial precedents in general, but in one particular the house follows a newer lead, which divides the rooms in one suite between two floors, instead of having all the rooms on one floor. In this case the master rooms are those on the first of the two floors in an apartment, and the bedrooms are on the second floor.

Is the duplex preferable to the single floor plan? This is a question which every family answers for itself. When one has got tired of living all on one floor, it is a pleasant change to go to living on two floors. Arranged in the duplex plan the apartment takes on the appearance of a dwelling, while retaining the apartment-house conveniences.

Certain elements have combined to make this house successful. An environment of culture has been one; an advantageous financial opportunity has been another; artistic and social interests in common have been still other elements in the combination, and finally the quality of the house itself, which was "sold from the plans" crowned the success. The interior is strictly Colonial—white woodwork, mahogany doors, graceful columns and open fireplaces. Every apartment has a fireplace, some of Roman brick and some of Gruby tile. There is a balcony for each apartment overlooking the park.

Outwardly, the house is built of red brick—overburned brick—laid with a Flemish bond, on a 2-sty base of limestone. The builders were the Thompson-Starrett Company. Pease & Elliman, the agents, have rented every apartment but one, though the house is scarcely finished.

FINANCIAL PLAN OF THE GRAMERCY PARK CLUB HOUSE.

THE second co-operative house to be opened on the square will be the "Gramercy Park Club," on the eastern side. The western facade is now about finished, and a large force of mechanics are at work on the interior. It has twelve stories and is fireproof, and is estimated to cost $400,000. The architect is J. Riely Gordon, and the general contractor John E. Olsen.

It has been usual in co-operative ventures to sell only one-half of the apartments and to rent the balance. With respect to this house, however, the plan differs in that all the apartments will be sold and each share of stock will be assessed its proportionate amount of the taxes and other annual expenses, and nothing more. Messrs. De Walltears & Hull, the agents, explained the plan for the Record and Guide in this way:

"Each owner will therefore be assessed only on the amount of stock which it was necessary for him to purchase to secure the apartment, and there will be no additional assessment to him if one or more of the remaining apartments are vacant or unsold. He is in direct touch with the property, its receipts and expenses in paying his proportion of the annual expenses, precisely as he would do if the owner of a single family private dwelling.

"The advantages apparent in this form of co-operative ownership are that it requires an investment smaller by one-half and fixes, as nearly as may be, the annual expense to each individual. The operation of the club house puts each owner in direct touch with the property, its receipts and expenses, and he is required to pay only his proportionate part of the taxes and other annual expenses and no more, precisely as he would do if the owner of a single-family private dwelling."

CONSTRUCTION DETAILS.

The "Gramercy Park Club House" (apartment house), which is numbered 36 Gramercy Park East, is one of the most attractive and luxurious apartment houses downtown. Its twelve stories of beautiful Gothic architecture in white glazed terra cotta is emphasized by its broad frontage of 83 feet. The twenty-four apartments, two on a floor, comprise 8, 9 and 10 rooms, with three baths each and the privilege of additional rooms for servants. The building is of fireproof steel construction and all its appointments are modern. The decorations by J. G. Lugars Sons & Co. are varied—Old English, Colonial, French and Italian Renaissance, Louis XIV, XV and XVI—and in design and workmanship are intended to satisfy the most fastidious. The rentals range from $2,350 to $3,168 an apartment, but those rented will only be for a short term, as the purpose is to sell all the apartments, the prices ranging from $8,900 to $12,000 each.

The contour of the site and its environment seemed to suggest a recessed court supplementing the park feeling. Flanking the entrance are massive polished granite pedestals with bronze railings, surmounted by appropriate bronze lamps. There will be a fountain in the centre of the court, beyond which is to be the richly carved marble entrance.

The facade has been treated in late French Gothic adapted to modern conditions. The high basement is laid up in light granite; the first three stories of white marble, and the rest in white glazed Atlantic terra cotta with plate glass windows. The reception hall is reached through the storm vestibule, and is 16x28 ft. and 14 ft. high, lighted from both sides, and will be treated in Gothic, using Italian marbles with deep sculptured frieze. Each apartment will be provided with built-in safes for valuables; refrigeration and telephone.

Gramercy Park is thus slowly passing on to new conditions, fuller experiences and wider utility, as becomes an integral part of a progressive modern city.

Mr. Douglas L. Elliman, of Pease & Elliman, considers that the future of the properties surrounding and adjacent to the park are firmly fixed, in spite of the apparently threatening encroachments of business from the south, and that as far ahead as we can reasonably see the private character of the quarter will remain.

PROPORTIONING CRUSHED STONE FOR CONCRETE.

By ALBERT MOYER, Assoc. Am. Soc. C. E.

A saving in cement and sand may be effected and a much denser concrete obtained if 2 or 3 sizes of crushed stone are used, properly proportioned and mixed together. A simple method is as follows:

Supposing you have two sizes of stone; one passing a 1½-inch ring, the other passing a ¾-inch mesh. Screen the ¾-inch stone taking out all that will pass through a ¼-inch mesh, figuring that which is screened out as sand. Make a receptacle which will hold approximately 4 cu. ft., a piece of 15-inch sewer pipe will do. Measure 2 cu. ft. of the smaller stone and 2 cu. ft. of the larger stone, mix them well together with a shovel and place in the receptacle, mark the receptacle on the side the heighth to which the stone rises.

Empty the receptacle and again measure out 2½ cu. ft. of the larger stone and 1½ cu. ft. of the smaller stone. Mix together as before, place in the receptacle and note on the side the heighth to which the stone rises. Experiment in this manner varying the proportion of the larger and smaller stones, always adhering to the total quantity of 4 cu. ft. The mixture which gives the least volume in the receptacle will make the densest concrete, and require the least amount of sand and cement. "Maximum Density is Maximum Strength."

BUILDING ON CATHEDRAL HEIGHTS

New Ideas in the Houses on the Parkway—Final Aspect of the Transformation of Old New York

AFTER Cathedral Heights, what? Where shall the builders go to find another section of the city as ripe for building operations? It was strange that this beautiful height of land was reserved for so many years after the city had grown miles and miles beyond it.

Not the most active section, but it is the section where the costliest residential construction has concentrated in the largest number. When the builders get through here they will have about finished with "old New York," so far as vacant land is concerned. If they intend to build many more apartment houses on the upper West Side, they will have to remove existing "improvements."

Cathedral Heights was the next thing to a virgin field when the present building movement was started. Everybody must remember the rows of little shanties that were left in the hollows after the streets were cut through. It is only about seven years since the heights were thrown open to the builders, and the vacant sites now remaining are very few. Nowhere in the world but in New York are large regions of vacant land transformed so quickly by builders.

Cathedral Heights has affirmed the doctrine that the best improvements come last. The last streets to be touched have been the principal ones—Riverside Drive, Broadway and, finally, Cathedral Parkway itself. Under construction at the present time are a round dozen of fine apartment houses in the section between, 110th and 116th sts. On the Parkway the builders are the Yorktown Realty Company, which is allied with the well-known firm of C. M. Silverman & Son, of 3492 Broadway, Washington Heights. The Yorktown is erecting a house of twelve stories at the northwest corner of Amsterdam av and Cathedral Parkway, which is now in the hands of the plasterers and will not be finished until next February. Adjoining on 110th st the Carlyle Realty Company of 198 Broadway is building from the plans of Schwartz & Gross two 12-sty apartment houses, the "Dartmouth" and the "St. Albans." A typical floor plan of these houses is given here. The general quality of the houses is very high, but one of the most striking things is that from the seventh to the twelfth floor, the bedrooms are in the front of the house and the living rooms in the rear.

To have bedrooms in the best part of the house is unusual—but oh you bedrooms! The modern bedroom, often having no bedstead at all, only a couch, is when rightly situated a very pleasant living room as well as a sleeping room. A second idea put into effect in these houses consists in the connection between the heat, light and power plants. Each house has its separate equipment in this respect, but in moderate weather, like the present fall weather, both houses can be heated from one set of boilers, for example, or otherwise served by only one of the two plants. The house is scarcely finished, but about sixty-five per cent of the space is rented more of the larger apartments than of the smaller ones.

The same corporation, the Carlyle Realty Company, has started work on two more houses on the south side of Cathedral Parkway, on the site of the former Casino. The two houses together will have a frontage of 170 ft., and have two apartments on a floor.

THE "BRITTANIA."

The handsomest house under construction on the Heights at the present time is the "Brittania," for the Gracehull Realty Company, from plans of Waid & Willauer, architects, 156 5th av.

A tramp through England, whether in the country or in the city, impresses one with the homelike character of all English architecture. When one returns to New York he is struck by the contrast. Scores of great buildings are rising yearly which have no domestic character and which may well be mistaken as buildings for any purpose other than places wherein to live.

On tree-lined Cathedral Parkway a building has just been erected in which an effort has been made to attain a homelike character along the lines of the English domestic style of architecture. Although the building is situated on an inside lot, it has, by means of a broad fore-court, the advantage of a street corner in the matter of sunshine and outlook on the street. The court is thirty-five feet in width and the rooms are so planned that the view from the living rooms in the rear is quite as attractive as that obtained from the sleeping rooms on the front. The projecting bay-windows of generous English proportions, which line the court, stand at such angles that all the principal rooms obtain sunshine throughout the greater portion of the day.

This 9-sty building stands adjacent to a very large 12-sty building. It has been treated, however, so that it will not be overpowered or dwarfed by its larger and higher neighbor, being designed with a large motif and a grouping of very large windows in single units. The building is surmounted with a gable roof, which avoids comparison with its taller neighbors and forms a pleasant contrast with them. The pitched roof and the large scale of the design prevent the dwarfing which its large flat-topped neighbor would otherwise cause. This pointed roof contains ample space for storage rooms, accessible from the freight elevator, which are available for the use of the tenants instead of the usual cellar space which is so often both dark and damp.

A rough Tapestry brick of beautiful gradations, and of golden brown color, has been used for the exterior. The buff limestone of the lower stories contrasts harmoniously with the brick, and the terra cotta trimmings on the upper portion of the building by means of heavy spotting of the brown is designed to complete the harmony of the color effect. The stone base, which is very simple in character, has been coarsely tooled to correspond with the rough texture of the brick and terra cotta walls above. The base of the building is relieved with a broad balcony on either wing, which forms a base to the grouping of windows above. These balconies are supported by grotesque figures, each of which is symbolic of some form of the homely art of housekeeping.

The fore-court when completed will contain evergreens and the walls will be planted with ivy. The two first story apartments have separate entrances directly from the fore-court, designed in the form of Gothic doorways with a bracketed lantern over each.

On either side of the main entrance of the building two quaint sculptured figures hold lanterns to welcome the guests who enter. Within, the visitor finds a Caen-stone hall treated in Gothic character, and in warm inviting tones of color. The elevators and stairs are concealed in the general effect, as seen in entering, in a somewhat unusual manner.

The interior finish is in keeping with the very handsome exterior. The Empire Woodworking Company has particularly in the paneled dining-rooms made a charming setting for a home. Caen stone trim in the halls, the choice equipment and decorations, and the spacious dimensions of the rooms make the "Brittania" a house of distinction.

At the northeast corner of Broadway and 111th st the Rockfall Realty Company, of which Alex. Kahn is the head, is erecting a 10-sty apartment to occupy half a block front. At the northwest corner of 113th st and Broadway, George F. Johnston is building a house estimated to cost $1,500,999, which will occupy three-fourths of the block front. Mr. Johnston and Mr. Kahn are partners in the old firm of Johnston, Kahn & Co., builders of the Chatsworth and the Hendrik Hudson. Mr. Kahn recently finished the "Medford," on Washington Heights, and has returned to his old neighborhood. An attractive house of smaller dimensions than any yet mentioned is being erected by the Keystone Investment Company (John W. Kight) on the south side of 113th st, midway between Broadway and Amsterdam av. It is named "The Rensselaer." The apartments are arranged in suites of 5, 6 and 7 rooms and bath. Every room is large and well lighted. One especially pleasant feature is that every parlor and dining-room in The Rensselaer has a large bay window that projects from the building, enabling one to see the street each way without raising the window. The parlors, libraries, chambers, private halls and bathrooms are enameled in white, with mahogany doors. The dining-rooms are paneled with Old English oak and capped with Dutch shelving.

In 113th st the Advance Building Company, at the head of which is Walter B. Isaac, a nephew of Alex. Kahn, is erecting, from plans of George & Edward Blum, one of the prettiest apartment houses in the city. The brickwork in the facade is particularly attractive, and the architectural style is more artistic than what is usually met with in apartment houses. The house is named "The Phaeton," and one of the decorations is a cast in the foyer representing "Phaeton Driving the Chariot of the Sun." The building has six stories and ground dimensions of 100x100.

At the corner of Riverside Drive John J. Hearn, of 509 5th av, is excavating for a 12-sty house with a frontage of 100 feet on the Drive.

—The residence of Frank Powers at Westbury, L. I., is an example of stucco applied to concrete building blocks. The usual stucco finished house is built of wood, to which is fastened the metal lath which hold the stucco. It is not only attractive but fireproof. Mr. Powers, who is a builder, erected it himself from plans by I. B. Baylis, architect. He used blocks made by the "Ideal" concrete machinery, which is made at South Bend, Ind. It is possible for the architect to specify the shape for every stone in the building with as much accuracy as though cut stone were being detailed.

TUNGSTEN LIGHTING AND ITS EFFECT UPON BUILDING COSTS.

P. R. Moses, consulting engineer of the Engineering Supervision Co., says with reference to the design of new buildings where lighting is an important factor that the initial cost of the wiring and power plant may be greatly reduced by planning the building for high efficiency lighting at the start. This reduction in first cost applies not only to the power plant, but to the complete wiring system:

"To comply with the Underwriters' rules, and these have here a solid basis, it is not sufficient to merely use Tungsten lamps after the building is complete, as this plan will not change the number of outlets nor the branches of the fixtures.

"The change in plan must start deeper—the lighting must be planned for a few large units rather than a number of small ones. By doing this the cost of the wiring can be cut in two and the cost of the isolated plant correspondingly reduced. In connection with this reduction in installation cost will be found reduction in the costs of fuel, labor, oil, sundry supplies, ash removal and water, which, however, will be usually balanced by the increased cost of renewal of lamps.

"As the price of the Tungsten lamps decreases, the saving in operating expenses will begin to appear, but for the present the operating expense may even be slightly higher with the Tungsten installation than with the older method. Such increase disappears if the fixed charges on the investment are considered and the balance is found invariably in favor of the Tungsten plant in new installations were lighting is the predominatory electrical requirement.

"As an example of the possible saving the following may be cited: Estimates were made for an isolated plant for a large building at present equipped with carbon lamps. The cost of a plant to supply the building as equipped at present reached $36,000, while with the fixtures changed to Tungsten the cost fell to $24,000. This reduction had nothing to do with the wiring of the building, as this was already installed.

"If the lighting is a minor factor as in manufacturing buildings, or if arc lamps are possible, the cost of renewal becomes the deciding factor, and Tungsten lighting seldom proves advisable at the present prices of lamps."

WHERE STEAM SHOVELS ARE PRACTICABLE.

The Western contractor visiting New York for the purpose of getting up-to-the-minute ideas on construction methods is surprised to find a scarcity of steam shovels at excavating work. Instead he finds a preponderance of steam drills. His most natural question, therefore, is: "When is a steam shovel practicable in Manhattan?"

The answer is furnished by A. C. Franke, engineer for Canavan Brothers, of 518 West 56th st, specialists in shoring and excavating work. In the first place, really good results from steam shovel work can only be obtained when the lot is more than 100x100, and where earth or gravel formation predominates. A certain quantity of blasted rock can be handled by the shovels, but where there is more than 25 per cent rock, results are not satisfactory.

One or two illustrations will show the truth of this statement. Canavan Brothers have just finished excavating a lot 125x100 ft. at 49th st and 8th av for an apartment house operation that the Edward Corning Company, of 100 William st is erecting for the J. A. Cushman Realty Co. from plans by Schwartz & Gross, architects. A steam shovel was put in there on Oct. 7, and last Saturday night the job was finished. Four thousand cu. yds. had been removed. This is considered fast work, and was made possible by the fact that weather conditions were favorable to working teams to capacity.

Another instance is that of the Hewitt-Bryce Building, at 4th av and 28th and 29th sts. Here two steam shovels were employed during the summer and 26,000 cu. yds. in place, and 15 per cent. of that amount of litter, were removed from the two lots in a little over a month. On this job it was necessary to drill through a shaft of rock covering 60x100 ft.

A DIFFICULT ENGINEERING FEAT.

In connection with the subject of excavations and foundations a job recently performed by Canavan Brothers is of general interest. Sixty-five open caissons are being sunk in the lot at the northeast corner of 4th av and 18th st, where the American Woolen Company's 18-sty building is being erected. Part of the Woolen building will occupy the site of the Pocono or old Parker Building, and certain changes are taking place in the dimensions of the fire-wracked structure. In sinking new caissons under the old building it became necessary to support the weight of the five columns in the old structure while the existing footings were being removed, new foundation caissons were being sunk to hard pan and new shoes put in place.

Steel needles were used to support the granite pilasters, and steel framework under the personal inspection of Thomas Shannon, superintendent for John Slattery, shorer, and with Dr. Samuel Miller, Professor of Engineering of Columbia University in the capacity of consulting engineer. The work, which is nearly completed, has attracted considerable attention from builders in this city and vicinity.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB OF AMERICA ANNEX.

Building contracts are about to be awarded for the annex garage, 12 stories in height, which the Automobile Club of America is to erect in the south side of West 55th st, Nos. 247-259, which is in the rear of the present club house. The old 8-sty building will be so altered as to make a connection between the properties to the top of the present building, and the facilities and modern equipment will greatly improve the effectiveness of the organization.

The in-and-out checking system will be enlarged, and the elevator service will be increased by a battery of four automobile lifts, to take cars to the upper floors. These will be operated by the latest type of overhead traction machine, one of which will run to the roof. A turntable will be provided on each floor, directly in front of the automobile lifts. There will be toilet rooms on every floor, and lockers, to give the very best service both to the chauffeurs' quarters and the offices'.

shop, and also in connection with the governors' room, the offices and the toilets. The offices now used by the Bureau of Tours adjoining the club entrance in 54th st are to be retained but somewhat rearranged and enlarged. The entire second floor of the annex will be given over for the use of chauffeurs as club rooms, including a reading room and a lunch room. The third floor will accommodate the governors' room, a committee room, the offices of the secretary, and the accountant's department. The fourth to the ninth floors will be used for the storage of automobiles. The tenth, eleventh and twelfth stories of the new building will be fitted up in the most complete manner for a machine shop.

A section of the eleventh floor will be arranged for the use of chauffeurs who desire to make their own repairs to cars. These floors will contain rooms fitted up for the use of the tinsmith and blacksmith, and with a general storeroom for automobile parts and the ignition battery charging room. The tenth floor will be used chiefly for the assembling of cars after general repairs have been made. A separate passenger elevator will run from the basement to the roof, connecting with all floors of the present building and annex. This elevator can be used by members and can also be conveniently reached from the club rooms. C. P. H. Gilbert, 1123 Broadway, is the architect. Officers are E. H. Gary, president; Henry Sanderson, vice-president; Alfred Ely, treasurer, and S. M. Butler, secretary.

QUAINT RELICS OF OLD NEW YORK.

In an air-tight glass case reposing on the wall of the draughting room of Freeman Bloodgood, Jr., builder, of 8 York st, this city, is a rust-eaten stone mason's hammer and two curved pieces of plank bearing penknife-etched initials done in 1883. Both are interesting because they give the present day builder and contractor an intimate glance into the past.

When Freeman Bloodgood, Sr., who is somewhere about 90 years old, the oldest living builder in the city, and one of the first Record and Guide subscribers, was 21 years old, he was engaged as foreman for his brother, Matthias Bloodgood, contractor for a row of 4-sty brick and granite buildings that stood on the east side of West st, from Cedar to Albany, where the West St. Building now stands. At that time they did not use bulkheads, and so, when the tide came up one day, the whole embankment caved in and the stone masons at work on the west wall fled for their lives. All the other masons took their tools with them, but young Freeman left his hammer on a bottom stone. The building was constructed, but although a search was made for the implement it was not recovered until recent years.

It is seldom given to a contractor to see the work of his hands pass away, to give way to another structure 64 years later. But when workmen later began to tear down the old structures, Mr. Bloodgood recalled the cave-in, and the fact that his hammer never had been found. Thomas Mulry & Son, it will be remembered, had the contract for excavating for the West St. Building in 1905, and Mr. Bloodgood told a member of that firm about the loss of the hammer. One day when the excavators reached a depth of 50 or 60 ft. a foreman found part of an unfinished wall and on the top of it a queer looking tool. He reported his find to the firm and the hammer was restored to Mr. Bloodgood, who has since had it framed. It is taller than the stone mason's hammer of to-day. So frail is the handle that air touching it would result in it immediately falling apart. The rust has eaten nearly through the head.

Every builder in the city knows what building is meant when "Holt's Folly" is mentioned. Those who were young men in 1833 can recall the importance of that old building to the welfare of the city. For the younger men in the business the name of the United States Hotel might be more familiar. This famous hostelry stood with a frontage of 83 ft. in Water st, 100 ft. in Fulton st and 76 ft. in Pearl st, where the U. S. Arcade now stands. The hotel, six stories high, built of granite about an interior court of marble and wrought iron scroll work, was erected in 1823. At that time builders and capitalists said the owner and builder, whose name was always associated with the hotel, was crazy for putting such an elaborate building in that part of the city. New York was just beginning to recover from the depression caused by the war of 1812, and a great wave of prosperity was thought to be due, and, in fact, was beginning to be felt. Mr. Holt saw visions of great activity with ships from foreign ports at anchor and tied to piers only three blocks away. It was said the old structure had 365 windows in it, one for each day of the year.

It was the skyscraper of the time. Visitors from all parts of the city went to the hotel and climbed the dizzy heights to get a view of the great stretch of 1, 2 and 3-sty brick and frame houses that covered the lower end of Manhattan. Their point of vantage was at the top of a tower that reached about 30 ft. above the roof. Around the tower was a high railing upon which was a thick curved plank topping. It is part of this railing that Mr. Bloodgood has in his office to-day. The entire surface was carved with the names of visitors who peered from the tower over the harbor. Among them is the name of "C. Vibbard," probably in later years the man for whom the famous steamboat Chauncey Vibbard, the rival of the Mary Powell, was named. "T. Winslow, Springfield, Mass.," registered his name on the planking with his knife, as did "C. C. Dixon" with a tremendous "JR." after his name; "B. F. Folger" and "G. S. Folger," probably brothers; "C. Mondell," "J. J. Skinner," "L. W. Smith," "H. Mason," "F. B. Lyon, "W. M. L.," and last but not least "T. D." which possibly was a typographical error and should have been "T. R." In 1834 the topping was covered with sheet copper and the names were hidden until the structure was wrecked.

The city began to grow farther uptown and "Holt's Folly" came to be considered a joke. Besides it was a losing proposition as years went by. Its fall was precipitated when its owner sought to get fresh water (there was no adequate city supply in those days) from a driven well which he sunk 300 ft. and got nothing but a great many creditors. Finally it was sold to W. J. Blodgett, representing the heirs of William Tilden and William J. Blodgett, Sr., for $164,000, although it cost almost three times that amount to build it, some of the building material having been brought from Holland. Attempts were made to erect on the site a large business building, but up to the present time the Arcade is the only result of this movement.

ADVANCE REPORTS.

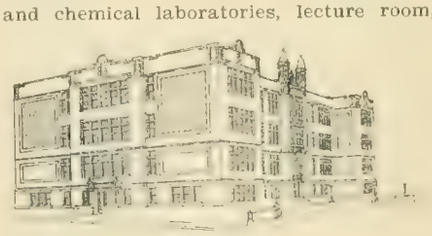
New York to Have Another Fine Hotel —To Cost $8,000,000.

MANHATTAN.—Plans are being prepared by Architects Daniel H. Burnham & Co., of Chicago, Ill., for a 20-sty hotel building to the constructed by the "Holland House Company," at a total expenditure, including the cost of site, building and furnishings, of $8,000,000. The Record and Guide was assured on Thursday that the actual location for the enterprise had not as yet been officially determined by the interested parties, and that three sites were under consideration between the boundaries of 34th and 50th sts. It was, however, admitted that the building would be erected on either 5th or Madison avs, and would contain from 17,000 to 25,000 square feet of space, according to the site chosen. The Thompson-Starrett Co., 49-51 Wall st, has submitted estimates from preliminary sketches on the cost of the work.

This company owns property at the southwest corner of Madison av and 42d st, fronting 144 ft. in the street and about 100 ft. on the avenue, one of the sites under consideration. It will be recalled that plans were prepared and filed about a year ago for a 31-sty hotel to be erected by the City Real Estate Company, representing the Thompson-Starrett Co., but operations were never commenced. These plans were designed by Helmle & Huberty of Brooklyn. As then arranged the building was to be built around and completely shut in a small parcel about 30 feet square, known as 312 Madison av, making this space an exterior court or light shaft. With this exception it was to cover a frontage of 98.9 ft. on Madison av, and 144 ft. in 42d st, with an extension 50 ft. wide to 41st st.

The facades of the new building will be of terra cotta, limestone and light brick with a mansard roof. There will be six hundred rooms, and a large amount of marble, tile and ornamental decorations, restaurant and cafe, palm room, and private dining-rooms. Mr. Gustave Baumann represents the Holland House Company.

New Station at Manhattan Beach.



MANHATTAN BEACH, L. I.—Operations have been started on the foundation for the new station of the Long Island Railroad at Manhattan Beach. The new station will stand at the westerly end of Oriental boulevard and a short distance northwest of the Manhattan Beach Hotel. It is in the westerly portion of the Manhattan Beach Estate property that over $500,000 worth of property has been sold within the last three months, and before the opening of another Summer season at the beach many new villas will have been built in that section. In close proximity to the new station are the large purchases of the Beaumere Realty Co., of which Morris J. Hirsch is president. These purchases are part of the property, amounting in value to about $250,000, acquired by a syndicate in which Stuard Hirschman is interested, and which will undertake the improvement of its holdings at an early date. The prevailing tendency to make railroad stations serve other ends than that of mere utility will be well illustrated in the new structure at Manhattan Beach. It will have an artistic exterior and one which will harmonize with the character of the buildings to be erected in its immediate vicinity. The structure will face south, opening on a broad plaza, which will provide ample accommodations for vehicles. A short distance to the west the railroad will also build a new freight station. Kenneth M. Murchison, 320 5th av, Manhattan, is the architect.

Design For Hackensack School.

HACKENSACK, N. J.—Contractors will soon be invited to figure plans for the proposed new high school at Hackensack, which is to cost in the neighborhood of $285,000. The building will contain in the basement two classrooms, one recitation room, manual training room with instructor's room, storeroom, domestic science room with kitchen and pantry, gymnasium with shower baths, locker-room with 300 steel lockers, toilets, divided for boys and girls, pupils' lunch-room, a heating and ventilating plant and a janitor's room. The main floor will provide for seven classrooms, auditorium, stage and ante-rooms, reception room, principal's offices, board room, toilets. On the second floor will be contained eight classrooms, two recitation rooms, library, teachers' rooms, toilets. The third floor will consist of eight classrooms, physical and chemical laboratories, lecture room, instructors' room, teachers' room, storerooms, toilets. The plans show a building of brick and terra cotta with steel columns and girders to be finished with faced brick, stone and terra cotta. The Board of Education will take the estimates.

Particulars of Proctor's Newark Theatre.

NEWARK, N. J.—It is stated on good authority that F. F. Proctor will begin within a very short time the erection of his new theatre in Market st, land for which was purchased in the summer. The plans for the building have been greatly changed since they were first announced, and a 5-sty office building is to occupy the Market st frontage. The delay in starting building work has been caused, it is said, through the fact that the structure could not be completed in time for the present season, and consequently will be built with a view to opening next spring. William E. Lehman, 738 Broad st, Newark, is the architect. The estimated cost is $700,000.

Vitrified Paving Brick and Drain Tile.

The most striking features of the annual report on clay products by the U. S. Geological Survey are the decrease in every variety of product except two, vitrified paving brick and drain tile. Vitrified paving brick showed a gain of 101,877,000 in quantity and $1,003,193 in value, an increase of 11.63 and 10.39 per cent. respectively. The average value for this variety of brick was $10.90 per thousand in 1908 and $11.02 in 1907. Ohio is the leading producer of this variety of brick, reporting 327,718,000 in 1908, valued at $3,232,335, or $9.86 per thousand; this represents 33.50 per cent. of the entire product and 30.33 per cent. of the entire value.

The drain-tile industry flourished in 1908, notwithstanding the depression in other branches of trade. The total value of this product was $8,661,476, a gain of 26.18 per cent. over 1907. Iowa, Indiana, Ohio and Illinois were the leading producing States. These four States with Michigan reported 90 per cent. of the total product. The use of drain tile is spreading, 39 States reporting it in 1908.

All other important products showed large decreases in value of output except sewer pipe, which showed the comparatively small decline of $479,114, or 4.17 per cent. The value of this product in 1908 was $11,063,731.

"Roof Salad."

The booklet of the Genuine Bangor Slate Company, of Easton, Pa., has the title quoted above. It is scintilating and leaves an impression.

The letters of "Uncle John" and his favorite niece, who is planning to build a home, are cut after a well-known and greatly appreciated literature, and the goods are all wool.

"No, my dear," says Uncle John, "you cannot—even if you do without an architect. Only, in that case you'll most likely have to pay heavier lawyer's fees; or spend your money for repairs, remodeling, damage, etc., and other disappointments.

"He gives you expert consultation. We think we know what we want in the shape of a house, but our ideas are generally pretty hazy—until the architect puts them on paper for us. After a few sessions he can tell better than you just what you want, and can give you valuable advice."

REFRIGERATION. — An elementary textbook entitled "Refrigeration" has been prepared by Mr. J. Wemyss Anderson which can be unreservedly recommended to an engineer desirous of becoming familiar with the general principles of ice-making and refrigerating machinery. The properties of water, brine, air and liquid air, which are of importance in this connection, are considered in a special chapter. The author then describes ice-making and cold storage plants of various types and gives chapters on miscellaneous uses of refrigeration and the special arrangements of plant for various purposes. The illustrations are mostly of British apparatus and plants. (New York, Longmans, Green & Co., $2.25.)

Steady Demand for Materials.

The fact that the fall building season is passing has not brought a diminished demand, as was the case last year at this time. Conditions are satisfactory to all interests, a healthy activity ruling. Builders are beginning to hurry work now in hand, instances of this being found in 4th av and Broadway operations. Good building weather is responsible for this in a measure, and also the fact that market conditions are favorable. With the exception of the iron and steel men, wholesalers are in position to turn out material in any quantity desired and in quick deliveries.

Take brick for instance. The cargo sales last week exactly tallied with the total number of arrivals. Cement is moving well for local consumption. Iron is strengthening in an active market. Shapes advanced. Sheets were active in a tight market. Lumber was stiff, the retailers easing off their requisitions on the wholesalers, who are still stacking. Stone was easy.

All through the building material and equipment market there is a feeling of confidence in what the immediate future has in store. The approach of the municipal election is having some effect upon certain branches of business, but is felt at present only slightly by building material men. One man said: "Building material men are trying to size up the three candidates to judge in which man's hands the building code will be safest when the subject of revision comes up again."

Brick Market Strengthening.

Brick is strengthening both in price and demand. Reports of market conditions heard upon the floor of the Builders' Exchange, in Vesey st, on Monday, and also later in the week, were those of general satisfaction. Retailers find that weather conditions have favored them, and in consequence the consumption has been steady and has entirely met the supply. Verification of this is found in transactions of last week, which follow: Holdovers, Oct. 9, 5; arrivals, 76; total, 81; sales, 76; left over, Oct. 18, 5. It will be noted that the the demand and supply exactly balanced. This is the first time this season that such an even market has been reported.

The distribution of this material was evenly divided between East and North River stations, and uptown and downtown. Sales were quick, prices ruling at about half, with from five-eighths to three-quarters ruling toward the week end. The quality for the most part is reported to be good. Haverstraw yards are easing up on shipments, and it is expected that cargoes from that district will gradually diminish in number from now on. There are a great number of boats looking for freights. Jersey is calling for some Hudson River brick for consumption in Jersey City and Hoboken, but Washburn Brothers are still receiving cargoes from their yards up river and are taking care of most of the demand over there.

MORE PLANTS TO CLOSE THIS WEEK.

A number of the smaller plants along the river, including the Aldrich yard at Dutchess Junction, in Newburgh Bay, closed last Saturday, and some of the fair sized establishments are getting their kilns in shape to shut down, either today or next week. A good deal depends upon the weather, however. Raritan rivers met a better market, with prices ranging from $5.50 to $6.00 with a half ruling.

Cement Demand Stronger.

Cement for local consumption moved more rapidly last week than for some time. Prices stand at $1.43. Most of the mills are running at from 65 per cent. to capacity. The present activity is ascribed by some to dealers getting their supplies in shape for late autumn distribution, the matter of price not cutting such a figure, according to some authorities, as is generally believed. The improvement in business was noted especially by the Rosendale interests which, as reported in this department, reduced its price from 90 cents to 80.

There is reported to be an unusual demand for Atlas, Dragon and Edison in New Jersey, while the Trowel mills are said to have all they can handle to ship material fast enough to meet the local demand. Bath and Lehigh are also in better demand for local consumption in this city and vicinity. There is a gradually improving feeling in the trade which, it is hoped, will bring about a readjustment of prices before long.

Bids were opened by the Department of Water Supply, at 299 Broadway, on Wednesday morning for cement for use on a portion of the acqueduct in Westchester County. Nine bids were received for the 323,800 barrels advertised for. It was not announced when awards would be made known.

Iron and Steel Active—Shapes Up.

Pig iron is active, with a demand so great that another advance is thought to be not far off. As a whole, conditions are satisfactory. Rogers, Brown & Co., reporting from their local office and from those in widely scattered parts of the country, show gains in strength and larger sales. This was particularly true of the New York branch this week. Orders were of good size. Prices held as previously quoted.

The furnaces are still struggling to meet the present rush, but because of greater wage inducements offered by railroads in the South, labor is scarce about the furnaces there. Officials of certain Southern furnaces talk of voluntarily increasing wages to meet the crisis. Conditions are good for a busy winter in pig iron. The tonnage for October, as shown by business taken up to last Saturday, promises to exceed the total for September, which was a record month.

Business for the week just closed was more for railroad work than for building construction. Pipe works business also was strong. Basic for structural material was not quite as active as in previous weeks. That the demand for the latter is not passing, however, is shown by an inquiry for 10,000 tons and many smaller lots, totaling in all about 20,000 tons. Southern iron is scarce here because of the comparatively high price asked. Business is strong in the South and West with these companies, however.

SHEETS LITTLE HARDER TO GET.

If anything the situation in sheet metals is tighter. The mills are still from three to four months behind and some of the largest have announced that they cannot take any new business for deliveries before May 1. This condition savors of that prior to the 1906 boom. Prices are high and may go higher. Tin is firmer but unsettled. Toward the end of the week there was a little more tin in sight, about 2,000 tons having arrived this week from England. Spelter had an advancing tendency and lead was dull but firm.

STRUCTURAL SHAPES ADVANCE.

So well has the recent advance in shapes been sustained that another jump in round and square iron from store was announced this week. The jump carried 20 and 5 cents. This is in verification of the forecast made in this paper recently that with the rush of Fall business higher prices would come. There is reason to believe that even better prices will rule before there is a recession.

The inquiry as reported by various jobbers is most satisfactory, and considering the inability to obtain large quantities of certain shapes, sales were brisk.

The mills made the advance, it is said, because of the heavy demands being made upon their output from all parts of the country, of which a large percentage is from this city and vicinity. Large tonnages figure in the specifications of the fabricators, indicating that extensive building operations are in prospect.

Lumber in Stiff Market.

Lumber did not move easily this week, such sales as there were being quick and for scattering distribution, the middle city predominating. Retailers eased off somewhat in demands upon wholesale stocks, which gave the latter a chance to devote more energy to stacking, unloading at many yards having been seriously handicapped this month. Cars are arriving fairly well at the largest yards despite the stories of car shortages circulated earlier in the season. Schooners were delayed somewhat by rough weather which swept the coast last week, and some reported losses, but none was serious. The week, on the whole, offered good drying weather.

PRICES LOOKING UPWARD.

Prices are tending toward an advance, due in part to the continuing demand and also to the fact that the mills are behind in their deliveries, not so much in this city perhaps, but in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Spruce shipments will soon cease or diminish, at least, depending largely upon weather conditions, and it is thought that this will feel the first advance. Long leaf North Carolina pine may also be the next to move upward. The hardwood situation is practiçally the same as in the last few months, business keeping the mills working full tilt.

These figures cover only wholesale prices to the trade on well manufactured graded stock, classified by the inspection rules now in operation. Because of terms of sale, etc., it is impracticable to quote retail prices.

Stone Has Better Demand.

The improvement noted in the stone market from time to time during the last quarter continues, but the situation is far from being satisfactory to either wholesaler or retailer. There is considerable rough material moving, and deliveries are being made by some of the cutters on big jobs in this city and vicinity, but collections are not what they should be from the wholesalers' viewpoint.

From this it would appear that the yards are not busy. Quite the contrary is the true condition. There is scarcely one of any size in this city or neighborhood that is not working every planer and rubber in its establishment. This is particularly true of the marble yards, but new work, especially in marble, is scarce, when it comes to sizeable jobs, while the limestone and granite contracts are of good size. Competition is keen and is keeping prices down. B. A. & G. N. Williams are making deliveries of limestone on the Hewitt-Bryce building in 4th av and 27th and 28th sts.

Cement Plant for Norfolk.

The American Cement Company, of Philadelphia, which recently bought a site for a cement mill at Poughkeepsie, intends to erect another at Norfolk, Va. The public estimate of the cost of the plan is $650,000.

The "American" is evidently getting fixed to do a heavy export and coastwise business. The new Norfolk plant will have a capacity of 2,000 bbls. a day. Vice-President George W. Norris, of the American Cement Company, says the construction will be financed through a subsidiary company under the title of the Norfolk Portland Cement Corporation. The American Cement Company will own a controlling interest in this corporation chiefly through ownership of common stock issued to it as consideration for the transfer of cement lands and the mill site on the Elizabeth River, on which the plant will be located.

OTHER NEW CEMENT PLANTS.

The contract for the construction of a plant for the Tidewater Portland Cement Company, at Union Bridge, Ind., has been awarded to the Fuller Engineering Company, Allentown, Pa. The plant will be designed to manufacture 800,000 barrels of standard Portland and 200,000 barrels of white Portland cement annually.

The Crescent Portland Cement Company's plant at Wampum, Pa., has been completed and started manufacturing cement September 6.

Rumored Brick Trade Combine.

There are rumors of a proposed "combine" among the brickmakers of the United Kingdom. The report is denied by several large firms, but the present condition of the trade in the Kingdom is such as to suggest some kind of remedial measure. It is reported that the output is at present less than it has been for thirty or forty years, the demand being so low as to employ only 50 per cent. of the total working capacity of the country. This superfluity of capacity is accounted for by the present slump in the building trade, and also by the great number of yards in existence. These works sprang up at the time of the great boom in the building trade some years ago, and now that the building trade has sunk practically to zero the supply is more than double the demand. As a result, many yards have had to be closed, whilst in those which have continued working millions of bricks have accumulated. There is much competition for the little trade obtainable, and the works have to accept orders almost at a loss in order to keep their yards employed.—London Builders' Journal.

Storage of Cement.

The Lawrence Casement Company, No. 1 Broadway, has found in its experience with Dragon cement that timber is far superior for shed purposes wherever its erection is permissible according to municipal building and fire department regulations. Cement in sacks can seldom be stored to advantage to heights greater than that of twenty or twenty-two full bags.

Barrels can be tiered more than an equivalent height but if carried too high, require special hoisting arrangements or long inclines and the barrels are apt to burst. The tiering of cement in bags higher than ten requires extra labor in and out. Cement in paper bags is not easy to handle because the bags are apt to break through the middle.

In piling bag cement it is wisest to separate each shipment and preferably each car load. The latter is the practice followed by many large users. Cars contain from 135 to 200 barrels. A 200 barrel car consists of 800 bags. If piled 10 high, 800 bags can conveniently be arranged in 5 rows of 16 bags each.

Demand for Quick Installations.

Contractors who install the various equipments in modern business structures daily meet the demand for speed, dispatch in getting fixtures in position for use, being second only to the responsibility of the contracting firm. In consequence a hair-pin loop has been put in a tradition almost as old as Manhattan itself. Before modern methods gripped the plumbing, heating and lighting business and put it on what might be called a scientific basis, the plumber was a synonym for delay. To-day general contractors want speed in installation above all things, and the company that is equipped and has the backing to enable it to give this kind of service is counted in the front ranks.

The W. G. Cornell Co., Everett Building, city, makes a specialty of this kind of work, having equipped the building in which its offices are located in the short space of 57 days. Since then it has taken some other rush jobs of note, the latest being that of the Trinity Corporation, a loft structure, that will go up at Hudson and West sts. The operation is not yet under way, but all the plumbing and heating must be installed and in useable condition by May 1. It will be December 1 before building is fairly started. Another rush contract is that for the Bronx Theatre at 145th st and Melrose av for the American Real Estate Company, and for which W. H. McElfatrick was architect. This was an electric lighting job of a complicated nature. The same company is doing the plumbing for the American Real Estate Building adjoining the theatre.

Work has just started for the installation of plumbing in the professors' apartments and chapel for the Union Theological Seminary and another contract of recent date is the Best & Co. building in 5th av, near 35th st, for which very high-grade fixtures have been specified.

Conspicuous among the rush pobs that the W. G. Cornell Co. has in hand is the Gimbel Brothers store at 33d st and Broadway, for which sewer conections are now being made. It was at first thought that the plumbing could not be installed before May 1, but the officials of the company now expect to have the equipment in place a month earlier. The company has handled contracts for some of the most conspicuous operations in the city, and among those now in hand is one for the Bryant Building, at Liberty and Nassau sts.

Iron Fencing.

The demand for high class iron fencing and entrance gates has in recent years shown a decided increase in this country. This is largely due to the rapid increase and remarkable development of suburban homes and country estates, as well as to the general trend of civic improvements evidenced on every hand.

The iron fence plays a conspicuous part in these improvements as it adapts itself most readily to style of architecture and general surroundings. It can be so adroitly constructed as to seem an integral part of the house and grounds and an indispensable part of the picture.

Much credit for the promotion of the use of and the artistic development of iron fence and entrance gates can be justly claimed by the Stewart Iron Works Co., of Cincinnati, which has had an experience of 25 years in this line and is the "World's Greatest Iron Fence Works."

They have constantly developed their business along the lines of the beautiful, artistic and durable. That this fact is appreciated is evidenced by their remarkable growth and ever-increasing business, which gain compels them to enlarge the capacity of their plant and warehouses 33⅓ per cent. Their new warehouses are just completed and the addition to their factory is nearly so.

Their success may be attributed to the quality of their products, fair dealings, prompt service and low prices. To any one interested they will be glad to send catalogues, estimates, etc.

Brick and Tile Industry—Final Report by Geological Survey.

The report of the United States Geological Survey on the clay-working industries in 1908, just issued, shows that the total value of the brick and tile products, which include brick of all kinds, sewer pipe, architectural terra cotta, fireproofing, hollow building tile or blocks, stove lining, and all kinds of tile, was $108,062,207, a decrease of a little over 16 per cent. from the value for 1907. Every State and Territory contributed to the 1908 total. Ohio was the leader, reporting products valued at $15,915,703, or 14.73 per cent. of the whole. Pennsylvania, which has heretofore been the leading producer of these wares, was second in 1908, reporting products valued at $13,566,479, or 12.55 per cent. of the total. Illinois was the third State in value of products reporting $10,752,160 worth of brick and tile products, or 9.95 per cent. of the whole. No other State reported brick and tile wares valued at as much as $10,000,000, New York being fourth with $7,270,981.

COMMON BRICK.

Common brick is the most valuable of all products of clay, those for 1908 being valued at $44,765,614, or 41.43 per cent. of all brick and tile products. In 1907 the common brick product of the country was valued at $58,785,461, so that the decrease in value was nearly 24 per cent. The number of common brick reported was 7,811,046,000, compared with 9,795,698,000 in 1907, a loss of 20.26 per cent. The average price per thousand at the kiln decreased from $6 in 1907 to $5.73 in 1908. Illinois is the largest producer of common brick, reporting 1,119,224,000. These brick were valued at $4.32 per thousand. New York, while second in production, was first in value of product.

—The October number of "Safety," the monthly bulletin of the New York Museum of Safety and Sanitation, contains a statement by Hon. Cyrus W. Phillips, chairman of the Committee on the Causes of Industrial Accidents, appointed by the Legislature of the State of New York, 1909, advocating an appropriation for the Museum. Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy tells why she sends a contribution of $5,600 to the Museum. The Mayor of Amsterdam states that a bill will be introduced in the Dutch Parliament this autumn for the appropriation of a considerable sum for a Safety Museum in Holland. An announcement is made of the Seaman Prize of 2,500 kroner for the best essay on military hygiene.

THE WEEK.

THE sale of a $400,000 dwelling, several new 6 sty elevator apartment houses and a couple of plots to builders for similar improvements, together with a number of good leases, were the more important items of the fifty reported this week.

The announcement that a new 26-sty hotel, to be erected for the Holland Hotel Co., in which Gustave Baumann, proprietor of the Holland House, is interested, is the leading item of the week's news. It will be located somewhere between 34th and 50th sts, either on 5th or Madison av. Three sites are under consideration, and it is stated that one will be selected within a few days. Of the apartment houses sold the one at the northwest corner of Broadway and 127th st was the most important.

That the dwellings on the wide streets of the west side are sure to be replaced by apartment houses of the better class is indicated by the purchase this week of a plot 63x102.2 at 147 to 153 West 79th st, at present improved with 3 and 4-sty private dwellings, to be replaced by the buyers with a 12-sty fireproof apartment house.

The balance of the week's news was made up mainly of the usual run of flats and tenements, mainly in the district north of 59th st.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THE business of the week in the Vesey Street Auction Room was, with two exceptions, made up of the usual legal offerings by order of the court. Of the latter, eight were offered at the stand of Joseph P. Day, seven being bought by parties in interest and one, De Milt av, northwest corner of Sound View place, being adjourned to October 22. Samuel Marx, James L. Wells Co., Samuel Goldsticker and Charles A. Berrian each offered parcels in foreclosure proceedings. Bryan L. Kennelly conducted another successful sale of villa plots at Oakdale, L. I., all of the plots offered were part of W. K. Aston's Peperidge Hall estate. He also sold 327 West 76th st for $37,750. It was the home of the late Cyrus Clark.

For the coming week there are the usual number of legal offerings to be had on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. In addition there will be several voluntary offerings on Tuesday and Wednesday. Of the latter, Joseph P. Day will offer on Tuesday a number of improved and unimproved Bronx properties and six Manhattan parcels, all of which deserve the attention of the speculator. Bryan L. Kennelly will sell on Wednesday 93 well located Bronx lots.

The trustees of the Catholic Protectory, at a meeting held on Thursday, decided to postpone their auction offering of Bronx lots until the spring.

QUESTION OF SEAL.

The following communication relating to the kind of seal for a conveyance of real estate appeared in a recent issue of the Law Journal, and will probably be of interest to our readers:

To the Editor of the Law Journal:

Assuming that a conveyance of real estate now requires a seal, as to which we may compare section 242 of the Real Property Law, chapter 50 of the Cons. Laws, with the attestation clause in the form of a deed given in section 258, one is led to inquire if the practice that is gaining ground of printing with a rubber stamp an imitation of a paper seal with its scalloped edges, surface indentations and all, makes a seal and is a compliance with the law defining a seal. The question certainly seems extremely small and technical, yet I happen to know that on one very recent occasion it gave rise to a fierce contention and much trouble among several lawyers upon the passage of a title. Several deeds prepared here, but executed in three distant States and sealed, or attempted to be sealed, in such a fashion were tendered and objected to for that reason. The question as to the need of a seal was not raised, and the vendee's counsel planted himself on the statute in support of his objection. The alleged seals, he contended, did not "consist of a wafer, wax, etc., affixed, or of paper affixed by mucilage," etc., and did not contain the word "seal" nor the magical letters "L. S." Ergo, they were not legal seals. The vendors' counsel said all that could be said in reply, and, I regret to have to state, a little more. He scoffed at the objection as frivolous, lamented that the exigencies of his practice required him to engage with professional fossils and fogies, contended that anything called a seal by the sealer was a good enough seal and worked an estoppel. But to no use. The vendee's counsel stood firm, with the result that an adjournment was had and the deeds went back for seals that would literally comply with the law.

As a rubber stamp seal of the kind described is part of the equipment of the desk of many lawyers, it may not be amiss to draw attention to the objection to its sufficiency. Certainly, in the case mentioned its use caused much delay and expense.

BOARD OF BROKERS ELECTION.

Joseph P. Day has been re-elected president of the Real Estate Board of Brokers. The other officers chosen for the ensuing year were William E. Davies, vice-president; A. V. Amy, treasurer, and Elisha Sniffin, secretary. The following were chosen governors, to serve three years: Irving Ruland, Elisha Sniffin and J. W. Mooyer.

M. V. Lenane, C. P. L. Huston and A. H. Ivins will comprise the auditing committee for 1910, and Edward L. King, David A. Clarkson, John P. Kirwan, Frank D. Ames and J. S. de Selding the nominating committee for 1910.

Joseph Mulligan was a candidate for a place on the board of governors. He made a strong bid for the place.

BUILDING LINE ORDINANCES.

A letter was sent on October 13 by Allan Robinson, president of the Allied Real Estate Interests, to Corporation Counsel Pendelton inquiring as to the progress being made by the commission appointed to frame a new code of ordinances relating to stoops, areas and other street projections. Last April the Board of Estimate and Apportionment repealed all ordinances in relation to the matter. This repeal was suspended by the Corporation Counsel until December 1, in order to permit the drawing up of a new code.

In reply, the Corporation Counsel states:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of October 12. The committee to whom this matter was referred has had various meetings and has consulted with the representatives of the title companies and architects, and preliminary suggestions have been drawn up by one of my assistants. I propose that this matter shall be taken up before long, and we will certainly report to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment long enough before the first of December to give them ample opportunity to act in the matter before that time."

Walter Lindner, solicitor for the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, in reply to a question put to him this week as to what would be the effect after December 1 of the failure to take any further action with relation to street projections, said: "The situation would be similar to the situation which faced real estate owners after April 23 last; that is to say, it would be necessary to hold that the title to every piece of property on which there was a building which had a stoop, area or other projection which extended into the street, had been rendered unmarketable because of the ordinances under which these projections had been permitted would stand revoked. This applies to practically nine-tenths of the property which is the subject of current transactions."

HEARINGS ON THE CHARTER.

The Committee on Legislation of the Taxpayers' Alliance of the Bronx, of which committee Mr. Harry Robitzek is chairman, has made a report in regard to the public hearings to be given by the City Charter Revision Commission:

The City Charter Legislative Committee has sent out notices to the effect that public hearings will be held on or about February first, 1910, and that the following rules have been adopted:

"Persons or associations desiring to address the committee at public hearings are required to file with the committee on or before October 20, 1909: (a) A written request to be heard, stating clearly the name and address of the person making such request and on whose behalf the same is made, and the subject matter; and (b) In addition, twelve copies of a brief or memorandum, printed or typewritten, setting forth concisely the writer's points.

"The basis of the committee's examination is the proposed charter and Administrative Code submitted to the Legislature by the former Charter Revision Commission. So far as practicable, it is requested that the brief contain reference to the sections of the charter or code discussed therein, and if any amendments or additions are suggested it is requested that a draft of the proposed phraseology be submitted.

"Subsequent to October 20 the committee will make up and announce its calendar for public hearings and will notify those who have complied with these rules of the time and place of hearing. All communications should be addressed to Charter Legislative Committee, Room 1903, No. 43 Exchange place, New York City."

Pursuant to the request of the Charter Legislative Committee, your committee has for the past week or more been preparing an elaborate brief reviewing the numerous objections to the proposed charter submitted to the last Legislature by the former Charter Revision Commission; and your committee, therefore, desires the co-operation of all of the delegates to the Alliance, and will request that the several local associations take this matter up at their next meeting, and send to the chairman of your committee the requests and desires of the several local associations; so that when your committee files its memorandum or brief with the Charter Legislative Committee, the same will be embodied with all objections and recommendations of your committee on behalf of the Alliance and the associations affiliated with same.

This matter is of vast importance, and the municipal campaign, in the midst of which we are now, should not in any way interfere with this all-important subject. And your committee desires to be specifically authorized to appear before the aforesaid committee of the Legislature and present the several matterts that have been objected to at previous meetings of this Alliance.

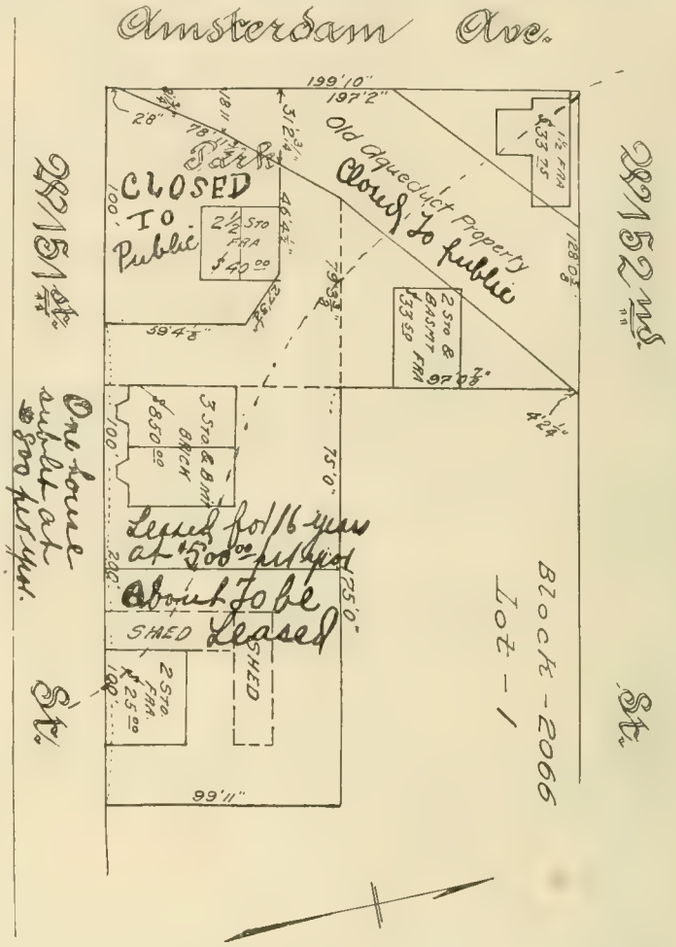
The next general election of the State of New York will be held November 2, 1909, and though the Alliance is absolutely non-partisan on all matters, and it is of the utmost importance that it continue to be so, however, your committee deems it wise, proper and just that the members of the Alliance see to it that the members elected to both houses of the Legislature will represent the interest of the taxpayers in all matters that may be brought before them. Every delegate should see to it that the several candidates for membership to the State Assembly will pledge themselves to assist the taxpayers of this borough, if elected, in securing remedial legislation in regard to the Tenement House Department of the City of New York, and a reduction of fares on all of the railroads running in and through the City of New York, more particularly through the Bronx, that will assist the taxpayers in securing better rapid transit in this borough.

CHILDREN'S PLAY-GROUNDS.

The Department of Finance is advertising the lease of a plot of land on West 151st st, 200 feet east of Amsterdam av, 100x100, with two frame dwellings, for a period of six and one-half years, with privilege of renewal of ten years thereafter.

This sale is to take place through the medium of sealed bids, and a minimum or upset price of only $500 per annum has been set for the sale.

The plot forms a portion of lands acquired in the block, 151st to 152d sts, on Amsterdam av, for the Croton aqueducts, which extend under the block diagonally. Part of the land has thus been acquired by the Aqueduct Commissioners, but an irregular plot near Amsterdam av was purchased by the city as a park, but has not been opened to public use.



A plot between this park space and the plot now advertised for lease, has already been leased off for a period of sixteen and one-half years, by a sale similar to that now proposed, which brought only the bottom or upset price of $500 per annum, and the lessee now leases one of the two buildings upon it for no less than $800 per year.

The city park plot is occupied by two old frame dwellings which, so far as can be learned, pay no rent, and the land of the Aqueduct Commissioners is occupied by and old frame dwelling and a corner store and dwelling.

In view of the great need for public playgrounds for children in this locality, an urgent request has been made by Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association to the Comptroller to postpone or cancel the sale of the lease, and afford an opportunity for an arrangement by which all the land may be utilized by the public as playgrounds for children.

The situation as regards the lands leased as above described, will deprive the public of any use of their property for years to come, while at the same time the Woman's Municipal League and the Parks and Playgrounds Association are maintaining at their own expense a public playground on some vacant land only four blocks away from this public property.

The public land described would afford a much more desirable place for the children than the lots they are now using, and one or more of the old buildings could be utilized as a shelter for them in inclement weather, which they do not now possess, and are consequently driven from their playground as soon as weather becomes at all rainy.

The Mayor's Committee on Children's Playgrounds will no doubt have under consideration the block on Amsterdam av, but in the meantime, if the lease is sold, no use can be made of the plot for sixteen years to come.

VYSE ESTATE PROPERTY OWNERS.

The regular monthly meeting of the Vyse Estate Property Owners' Association was held at Home Hotel, Home st and Hoe av, Bronx, on Saturday evening last. Hon. Peter J. Stumpf presided; A. R. Bauman, secretary. The meeting was well attended; in fact, there were more persons present than could comfortably be seated in the hall.

The report of the Rapid Transit Committee was read by the chairman of the committee, Mr. Harry Robitzek, in which the Public Service Commission was denounced for its inactivity in regard to the many matters that have been referred to it by this association through its committee; among which was the matter of running 2d av trains during the entire day over the spur to Freeman st station.

This matter was referred to the Commission on May 17 last and at that time the Commission advised the committee that the matter could not be taken up at that time for the reason it would interfere with conditions at 129th st and 3d av. In reply the committee communicated with the Commission, informing them that this was not a logical conclusion in so far as trains run during the rush hours without any inconvenience, and should so run during the entire day.

The Commission was denounced for its inactivity in compelling the Union Railway Company to run cars on the Southern Boulevard Division of its lines. This matter was referred to the Commission some time ago without result.

The matter of obtaining better transit service on the said lines and for just and uniform fare was brought up by the Rapid Transit Committee, and a resolution unanimously carried, indorsing the matter and requesting the members to contribute to the financial support of the counsel for the alliance in the matter, so that the matter could be brought to a successful conclusion.

A resolution was adopted to request the Secretary to communicate with the members of the association, requesting them to subscribe to the proposed Hendrick Hudson Monument to be erected at Spuyten Duyvil. This resolution was carried by an overwhelming majority.

The Committee on School Sites reported through its chairman, Mr. William McGill, and a request that resolution be adopted advocating the immediate acquiring of a site and the construction of a school east of Southern Boulevard was made. The Hon. Peter J. Stumpf stated that there was no school from the Harlem River east to the Bronx River at the present time.

A resolution was carried requesting the Board of Estimate to reduce the city budget, especially in regard to the Tenement House Department, and also excessive demands of the several other city departments.

LAND AND ITS RENT.

Dr. James Walter Crook, professor of economics, Amherst College, is delivering in New York a course of eight public lectures on economics that, besides being exceptionally interesting, are of a nature calculated to be instructive and valuable to property owners. Dr. Crook lectures on Saturday evenings at Public School 165, in West 108th st, between Broadway and Amsterdam av.

His lecture of last Saturday evening, the second in the course, was entitled "Problems of Poverty and Population." A topic like this is capable of being made extremely gruesome, and of making its hearers feel miserable. In the hands of most lecturers it would be packed with enough hard-luck stories to produce nightmares for a week afterwards.

But Dr. Crook is an exceptional lecturer. This might be inferred from the chair he fills, if from no other fact. Amherst is not sending nondescripts to New York to represent her on the lecture-platform. The minute Dr. Crook comes on, you are chained: you become his intellectual prisoner. First, because he is an entirely different personality from what you had supposed. Next, he generally sets you to wondering when and where before you had ever heard a speaker out of a pulpit so much at ease, so graceful and masterful in diction and having so many things to say that you had never heard before.

For many years the principle of population enunciated by Malthus has cast its shadow over the scientific world. Malthus laid down the doctrine that the origin of poverty was not in the defective organization of society, for which man himself was responsible, but was the consequence of natural conditions, for which man was not responsible. Poverty existed, Malthus said, simply because there wasn't food enough in the world to go around. He proved, or attempted to prove, that Population increased in a geometrical ratio (1, 2, 4, 8, 16, 32, 64, etc.), with an interval of twenty-five years; and that the Food Supply increased only in an arithmetical ratio (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, etc.), also with an interval of twenty-five years. The balance had to be struck somehow—by means of wars, pestilence, deprivation, poverty and misery.

A horrible theory, but no less than fifteen years ago Germany's greatest political economist declared that in its essential elements he believed the doctrine of Malthus to be true. Prof. Crook, having stated and explained the proposition of Malthus, proceeded to prove that it was being overturned by (1) the modern control of population, and (2) by the evolution of land-culture and the relative increase of the food supply. Optimism and not pessimism was the spirit of the lecture:

Dr. Crook will give his third lecture to-night (Saturday) and his subject will be "Land and Its Rent." We fancy it will be something that real estate students should hear, judging from the following syllabus:

LAND AND ITS RENT.

I. Land as a Productive Factor.
   1. Nature's Forces.
   2. Law of Diminishing Returns.
   3. Secret of Land Values.
   4. Law of Rent.

II. Evolution of Land Ownership.
   1. Original Causes.
   2. Social Causes Now at Work.

III. Land Nationalization.
   1. John Stuart Mill's Plan.
   2. Henry George's Plan.

IV. Evolution of Land Culture.
   1. Three Field System.
   2. Systems of Rotation and Fertilizers.
   3. Machinery and Agriculture.
   4. Latest Improvements: (1) What Chemistry Is Doing. (2) Selection of Seeds. (3) Burbank's Work.

Readings:
F. A. Walker, "Land and Its Rent."
Wallace, "Land Nationalization."
George, "Progress and Poverty."
W. S. Harwood, "New Creations in Plant Life."

If Dr. Crook can disclose the "secrets of land values," and formulate a scientific basis for estimating values, the information would be of high value to real estate men, especially to expert appraisers and assessors.

LAW DEPARTMENT

Dear Sirs: Kindly answer in Record and Guide of Sept. 18, 1909, and oblige:

An owner of a house had her broker's sign on premises. A client came into an outside broker's office and asked to see the house. He got a permit from the owner's broker's office and showed the house, but the client did not like it and the transaction was off. The outside broker did not put the information which he got from the owner's broker on his books. About two weeks after, the owner of the house came into the outside broker's office and gave him full information as to rent and sale-price, and allowed him to put his sign up also. The outside broker rented the house.

Has the owner's broker any claim for half commission after the owner of the house gave the outside broker the full information direct?

A RECORD AND GUIDE READER.

Answer.—No; the owner may agree with a hundred brokers to let each have a chance at the renting of the house, and it is to the broker who first produces a result that "belong the spoils."—Editor.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Will you please advise me if you have any record or knowledge of legal decisions as to the property rights of architects and consulting engineers in their plans and specifications?

I was retained by a builder to prepare plans and specifications and to inspect the work at the usual fee. The builder failed before completion of the work, the property was foreclosed, and the new owner proceeded to complete the equipment, making his contracts on my plans and specifications. The new owner has declined to pay for the use of such plans and specifications.

Are there any decisions on this subject to which you can refer me?

I would greatly appreciate any information you might let me have on this subject, and beg to remain,

X.

Answer.—We do not know of any method for protecting uncopyrighted matter from use by others. You have to take your risk of payment for professional work by the employer or client, backed by the right to file a mechanics' lien for overseeing and inspecting which tends to augmentation of value of the improved property. To file a lien now would be, of course, too late, the property having been foreclosed.—Ed.

WEST SIDE TAXPAYERS.

The annual election of officers of the West Side Taxpayers' Assocaition was held on Friday, October 15, at 267 West 34th st. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, George Wenner, M. D.; first vice-president, Charles Hvass; second vice-president, Philip Becker, M. D.; recording and corresponding secretary, Chas. A. Schrag; treasurer, Fred Keller; financial secretary, Julius Neke; trustees, August Scholer, M. D., George Wenner, M. D., Chris. Dohm; executive committee, J. H. Delamater, Frank Demuth, Charles Hvass, Herman Schumaker, Chas. A. Schrag, George H. Dreisler, Joseph Wenner, M. J. Horan, Joseph Feist, Jacob Michel, Fredk. Keller, John W. Jones, John J. Pheelan, Philip G. Becker, Julius Neke, Chris. Dohm, Louis Schrag.

President Demuth read a report opposing the proposed assessment on property owners from 14th st to 59th st, from 6th av to the Hudson River, for the widening and arcading of 32d st, from 6th to 7th avs. He suggested that instead of this work being done that the stoops of all houses on 31st, 32d and 33d sts be removed. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment has taken this suggestion under advisement. The association will hold a banquet in November, at which the new officers will be installed.

HARLEM PROPERTY OWNERS.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Harlem Property Owners' Association was held on Thursday, Oct. 14, at 8 P. M. President Abraham Korn presided.

A resolution was adopted endorsing Judge Joseph P. Fallon for re-election to the bench of the Eighth Municipal Court; also to oppose at the polls all Assemblymen who voted against the licensed engineers' bill.

The association has instructed its counsel, Ira Ettinger, to bring action against Water Commissioner O'Brien, to compel him to follow the decision of Supreme Court Justice Kehoe in the matter of the installation of water meters.

Mr. Ettinger has just finished arguing before the Court of Appeals the case of Krekeler vs. the Tenement House Department. The court has not handed down its decision.

The annual theatre party, to be followed by supper at Mouquin's, will be held on Nov. 18.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1909.

9th.—T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.
